THOMAS DONGAN.

By virtue, or under pretext whereof, the said citizens and inhabitants from the date thereof, hitherto have held or claim to hold and still do hold, or claim to hold and enjoy, all and singular the rights, privileges, franchises, pre-eminences, advantages, jurisdictions, courts, powers, profits, immunities, lands, tenements, hereditaments and other the premises therein particularly mentioned, and thereby intended to be granted. And whereas, the citizens and inhabitants of the said city of New York, besides the several public buildings, accommodations, conveniences and other things in the before recited grant or writing mentioned to have been by them erected, built and appropriated have, since the making thereof, built and appropriated at their own proper costs and charges, several public buildings, accommodations and conveniences, for the said city, that is to say, the present city hall and gaols, rooms and places for the sitting of courts of justice and chambers adjoining, with the ground and appurtenances thereunto belonging, five market houses, the present crane and bridge, with the common sewer leading through the great dock, and a magazine or powder-house near the fresh water, and several other public buildings and conveniences in the said city; and have built the new ferry houses on the island of Nassau for the reception of travellers, with a barn, stables and pen, or pound for cattle. And whereas, our late royal predecessor, Queen Anne, by her letters patent, under the broad seal of the province of New York made, bearing date the nineteenth day of April, in the seventh year of her reign, did grant, ratify and confirm unto the then mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and to their successors and assigns, in these words following, to wit, Anne, by the grace of God, of England, Scotland, France, and Ireland, queen, defender of the faith, &c.: To all whom these presents may in any wise concern, sendeth greeting: Whereas, the mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city of New York, by their petition to our right trusty and well beloved cousin Edward Viscount Cornbury, our captain-general and governor-in-chief, in and over our province of New York and territories depending thereon in America, and vice-admiral of the same, &c., preferred in council; therein setting forth, that they have a right and interest, under divers ancient charters and grants by divers former governors and commanders-in-chief of our said province of New York, under our noble progenitors, in a certain ferry from the said city of New York, over the East river to Nassau Island (alias Long Island), and from the said island to the said city again, and have possessed the same, and received all the profits, benefits, and advantages thereof, for the space of fifty years and upwards; and perceiving the profits, advantages and benefits usually issuing out of the same to diminish, decrease and fall short of what might be reasonably made of the same, for the want of the bounds and limits to be extended and enlarged on the said island side, whereby to prevent divers persons from transporting themselves and goods to and from the said island Nassau (alias Long Island) over the said river, without coming or landing at the usual and accustomed places, where the ferry boats are usually kept and appointed, to the great loss and damage of the said city of New York; have humbly prayed our grant and confirmation, under the great seal of our said province of New York, of the said ferry, called the Old ferry, on both sides of the East river, for the transporting of passengers, goods, horses and cattle to and from the said city, as the same is now held and enjoyed by the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city of New York, or their under-tenant or under-tenants; and also, of all the vacant and unappropriated land, from high-water mark to low-water mark, on the said Nassau Island (alias Long Island) lying contiguous and fronting the said city of New York, from a certain place called the Wall about unto the Red Hook, over against Nutten Island, for the better improvement and accommodation of the said ferry; with full power, leave and license to set up, establish, maintain and keep one or more ferry or ferries, for the ease and accommodation of all passengers and travellers, for the transportation of themselves, goods, horses and cattle over the said river, within the bounds aforesaid, as they shall see meet and convenient and occasion require; and to establish, ordain, and make by-laws, orders and ordinances, for the due and orderly regulation of the same: The which petition we being minded to grant. Know ye, that of our especial grace, certain knowledge and meer motion we have given, granted, ratified and confirmed, and in and by these presents, for us, our heirs and successors, we do give, grant, ratify and confirm unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and to their successors and assigns, all that the said ferry, called the Old ferry, on both sides of the said East river, for the transportation of passengers, goods, horses and cattle over the said river, to and from the said city and island, as the same is now used, held and enjoyed by the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York or their under-tenant or under-tenants, with all and singular the usual and accustomed ferriage fees, perquisites, rents, issues, profits and other benefits and advantages whatsoever, to the said Old ferry belonging, or therewith used, or thereout arising; and also, all that the aforesaid vacant and unappropriated ground lying and being on the said Nassau Island (alias Long Island) from high-water mark to low-water mark aforesaid, contiguous and fronting the said city of New York, from the aforesaid place called the Wall-about to Red Hook aforesaid; That is to say, from the east side of the Wall-about, opposite the now dwelling-house of James Bobine, to the west side of the Red Hook, commonly called the fishing place, with all and singular the appurtenances and hereditaments to the same, or any part or parcel thereof belonging or in any wise of right appertaining; together with all and singular the rents, issues, profits, ways, waters, easements and all other benefits, profits, advantages and appurtenances, which heretofore have, now are, and which hereafter shall belong to the said ferry, vacant land and premises hereinbefore granted and confirmed, or to any or either of them in any wise appertaining, or which heretofore have been, now are, and which hereafter shall belong, be used, held, received and enjoyed; and all our estate, right, title and interest, benefit and advantage, claim and demand, of, in or to the said ferry, vacant land and premises, or any part or parcel thereof, and the reversion and reversions, remainder and remainders, together with the yearly and other rents, revenues and profits of the premises, and of every part and parcel thereof; except and always reserved out of this our present grant and confirmation, free liberty, leave and license, to and for all and every person or persons, inhabiting or having plantations near the said river, by the waterside, within the limits and bounds above-mentioned, to transport themselves, goods, horses and cattle over the said river to and from the said city of New York and Nassau Island (alias Long Island) to and from their respective dwellings or plantations, without any ferriage or other account to the said ferry, hereby granted and confirmed to be paid or given; so always as the said person or persons do transport themselves only, and their own goods and in their own boats only, and not any stranger or their goods, horses or cattle, or in any other boat: To have and to hold, all and singular the said ferry, vacant land and premises hereinbefore granted and confirmed, or meant, mentioned or intended to be hereby granted and confirmed (except as is hereinbefore excepted) and all and singular the rents, issues, profits, rights, members and appurtenances to the same belonging or in any wise of right appertaining unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors and assigns forever; to the only proper use and behoof of the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors and assigns forever; to be holden of us, our heirs and successors in free and common socage, as of our manor of East

Greenwich, in the county of Kent, within our kingdom of England; yielding, rendering and paying unto us, our heirs and successors for the same, yearly at our custom house of New York, to our collector and receiver-general there for the time being, at or upon the feast of the nativity of St. John the Baptist, the yearly rent or sum of five shillings, current money of New York.

And we do further, of our especial grace, certain knowledge and meer motion for us, our heirs and successors, give and grant unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty and their successors, full and free leave and license to set up, establish, keep and maintain one or more ferry or ferries, as they shall from time to time think fit and convenient, within the limits and bounds aforesaid, for the ease and accommodation of transporting of passengers, goods, horses and cattle, between the said city of New York and the said island (except as is hereinbefore excepted) under such reasonable rates and payments as have been usually paid and received for the same; or which at any time hereafter shall be by them established by and with the consent and approbation of our governor and council of our said province for the time being. And we do further, of our especial grace, certain knowledge and meer motion, give and grant unto the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York and their successors, full and absolute power and authority, to make, ordain, establish, constitute and confirm all manner of by-laws, orders, rules, ordinances and directions for the more orderly keeping and regularly maintaining the aforesaid ferry that is now kept, or any ferry or ferries which shall at any time or times hereafter be set up, established or kept within the bounds aforesaid, by virtue hereof, or of, for, touching or concerning the same, (so always as the same be not contrary to our laws of England, and of our province of New York) and the same at all times hereafter to be put in execution, or abrogate, revoke or change as they in their good discretion shall think fit and most convenient for the due and orderly keeping, regulating and governing the said ferry or ferries hereinbefore mentioned.

And lastly, our will and pleasure is, and we do hereby declare and grant that these our letters patent or the record thereof, in the secretary's office of our said province of New York shall be good and effectual in the law to all intents and purposes whatsoever, notwithstanding the not true and well reciting or mentioning of the premises or any part thereof, or the limits and bounds thereof, or of any former or other letters patents, or other grants whatsoever made or granted; or of any part thereof, by us or any of our progenitors, unto any person or persons whatsoever, bodies politic or corporate, or any law or other restraint, incertainty or imperfection whatsoever, to the contrary or in any wise notwithstanding, and although express mention of the true yearly value or certainty of the premises or any of them, or of any other gifts or grants by us or by any of our progenitors heretofore made to the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of New York, in these presents, is not made, or any other matter, cause or thing whatsoever to the contrary thereof in any wise notwithstanding. In testimony whereof, we have caused these our letters to be made patent, and the seal of our said province of New York to our said letters patent to be affixed, and the same to be recorded in the secretary's office of our said province.

Witness our right trusty and well beloved cousin Edward Viscount Cornbury, captain-general and governor-in-chief in and over our province of New York aforesaid, and territories thereon depending in America, and vice-admiral of the same, &c., in council at our fort in New York, the nineteenth day of April, in the seventh year of our reign, Annoq. Domini, one thousand seven hundred and eight.

By virtue, or under pretext whereof, the said inhabitants and citizens of the city of New York have held and enjoyed, or have claimed to hold and enjoy, and still do hold or claim to hold, the ferry, vacant land, perquisites, profits, privileges, powers and other premises in the before recited letters patent mentioned and intended to be thereby granted. And whereas, besides all the aforesaid particulars in the said grant or instrument made in the aforesaid year of our Lord one thousand six hundred eighty and six, and in the before recited letters patent of Queen Anne, mentioned or intended to be thereby granted, the citizens and inhabitants of the said city of New York, have anciently held or claimed to hold, use and enjoy divers and sundry other rights, privileges, franchises, pre-eminences, advantages, jurisdictions, emoluments, powers, profits, immunities, lands, tenements and other hereditaments, as well by prescription as by divers grants and confirmations of and from divers governors, lieutenant-governors and commanders-in-chief of the said province, by the name of mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and by divers other names, styles and titles and otherwise.

And whereas, divers questions, doubts, opinions, ambiguities, controversies and debates have arisen and been made as well upon and concerning the validity and force of the said recited grant or writing, dated in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred and eighty-six, and the before recited letters patent of Queen Anne, as upon all and every the other grants and confirmations of divers governors, lieutenant-governors and commanders-in-chief, made to our city of New York, as aforesaid, by reason of the variety of names, styles, titles and incorporations aforesaid, and by reason that the before recited grant or instrument, dated in the year of our Lord one thousand six hundred and eighty six, and the other grants and confirmations of divers governors, lieutenant-governors and commanders-in-chief, were made in the governors' own names respectively, when they should have been made in the respective names, styles and titles of former kings and queens, our royal predecessors, under whom they were governors, lieutenant-governors or commanders-in-chief respectively, and by reason, as some suggest and say, that the said city, or inhabitants or citizens thereof, never were well, regularly or legally incorporated, and for want thereof none of all the said grants, confirmations, instruments, or letters patent, herein before mentioned, could take effect or operate; and for divers other defects in all, some or one of the aforesaid grants, confirmations and writings; and also upon the validity and force of the prescription aforesaid. And wherens, our well-beloved subjects, the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of our said city of New York, by their humble petition presented to our trusty and well-beloved John Montgomerie, Esq., our captain-general and governor-in-chief of our provinces of New York and New Jersey, and territories [depending thereon in America, and vice admiral of the same, &c., in council, reciting among other things, that the city of New York is an ancient city, and the citizens thereof have anciently held and used, and still do use and hold divers and sundry rights, liberties, privileges, franchises, free-customs, pre-eminences, advantages, jurisdictions, emoluments, immunities, lands, tenements, public buildings and hereditaments, as well by the name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, as otherwise, to the advancement of the said city in the number of its buildings and inhabitants, whereby the said city is become a considerable seaport, and exceedingly necessary and useful to our kingdom of Great Britian, in supplying our governments in the West Indies with bread, flour and other provisions; wherefore they prayed, among other things, for our confirmation and grant to the said city and corporation, by the name, style and title of the mayor, aldermen, and commonalty of the city of New York, of all their lands, tenements, public buildings and hereditaments, wharves, docks, bridges, slips, ferries, cranes, grants, charters, rights, liberties, privileges, franchises, free-customs, pre-eminences, advantages, jurisdictions, emoluments and immunities, now and heretofore by them held and enjoyed; and that they might have the soil four hundred feet beyond low-water mark, on Hudson's river, from a certain creek or kill called Bestaver's Killitie, southard to the fort, and from thence the same number of feet beyond low-water mark round the fort and along the East river as far as the north side of a certain hill called Corlear's hook; and also for a grant of such other powers, liberties, franchises, rights, free-customs, jurisdictions, privileges, immunities and things as may be needful for the good rule and government of the said city. And we, considering that the strength and increase of our good subjects, in that our frontier province of New York does in a great measure depend upon the welfare and prosperity of our said city, wherein the trade and navigation thereof are chiefly and principally carried on, promoted and encouraged; and we, affecting the good and happy estate of our said city, and the steady loyalty and integrity of the inhabitants and citizens thereof, are very desirous and willing to give encouragement to the said city, inhabitants and citizens, and to remove, utterly abolish, and wholly take away all and all manner of causes, occasions and matter, whereupon such questions, doubts, opinions, ambiguities, controversies or debates as aforesaid, or any other questions or doubts may or can arise; and in order thereunto, we have thought fit, them, the said inhabitants and citizens of the said city of New York (by whatsoever name or names they have been or were incorporated, or whether they have been or were heretofore incorporated or not), into one body politic and corporate, by the name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, by our letters to make, constitute, confirm, renew and of new to create. And we, being also further willing and fully intending and desiring that the said inhabitants and citizens of our said city, by the name aforesaid, should have perpetual succession, and should hold, possess and enjoy, all and singular the rights, privileges, liberties, franchises, pre-eminences, advantages, jurisdictions, courts, powers, offices, authorities, ferries, fees, fines, perquisites, profits, immunities, rents, possessions, lands, tenements, and other hereditaments, not only which in the before recited grants, confirmations, writings and letters patent are mentioned, or intended to be thereby granted, but also, which they have held or claim to hold, by prescription or otherwise, with the alterations and enlargements thereof and additions thereto, in such manner and form as hereafter is mentioned and contained, notwithstanding the before mentioned or any other question, doubts, opinions, ambiguities, debates, faults, or imperfections.

1. Wherefore know ye, That we of our especial grace, certain knowledge, meer motion, have willed, ordained, constituted, confirmed, given and granted, and by these presents for us, our heirs and successors do will, ordain, constitute, confirm, give and grant, that our said city of New York be, and from henceforth forever hereafter shall be and remain a free city of itself; and that the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the said city, and their successors from henceforth forever hereafter shall be and remain one body corporate and politic, in re-facto and nomine, by the name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and them and their successors by the name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, one body corporate, in re-facto and nomine, really and fully, we do for us, our heirs and successors, erect, make, ordain, constitute, confirm, declare and create, by these presents, and that by that name they shall and may have perpetual succession; and also, that they and their successors, by the said name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York be, and forever hereafter shall be, persons able in law, and capable to sue and be sued, implead and be impleaded, answer and be answered unto, defend and be defended, in all courts and places before us, our heirs and successors, and before all and any the judges, justices, officers and ministers of us, our heirs and successors, and elsewhere in all and all manner of actions, suits, complaints, pleas, causes, matters, and demands whatsoever, and of what kind or nature soever, in as full and ample manner and form as any of our other liege subjects of our said province, being persons able and capable in law, can or may sue and be sued, implead and be impleaded, answer and be answered unto, defend and be defended, by any lawful ways and means whatsoever. And also, That they and their successors, by the name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, be and shall be forever hereafter, persons capable and able in law to purchase, take, hold, receive, enjoy and have any messuages, houses, buildings, lands, tenements, rents, possessions and other hereditaments and real estate, within or without our said province, in fee and forever, or for time of life or lives or years, or in any other manner; and also goods, chattels and all other things of what kind or quality soever. And also, That they and their successors by the same name of the mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, shall and may give, grant, demise, assign and sell, or otherwise dispose of all or any the messuages, houses, buildings, lands, tenements, rents, possessions and other hereditaments and real estate and all their goods, chattels and other things aforesaid as to them shall seem meet, at their own will and pleasure.

And also, That the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, for the time being, and their successors, shall and may forever hereafter, have and use a common seal for sealing all and singular deeds, grants, conveyances, contracts, bonds, articles of agreements, assignments, powers, authorities and all and singular their affairs and things touching or concerning the said corporation. And, by virtue of these our letters, it shall and may be lawful to and for the said mayor, aldermen and commonalty of the city of New York, and their successors, as they shall see cause, to break, change and new make the same, or any other common seal, when, and as often as to them it shall seem convenient.

To his Excellency, The Governor of the province of New York, &c.

15th January, 1730.

MEMORANDUM.

THIS REPRINT of the Charter has been made from one printed by order of the Common Council in 1832, and that was taken from a prior copy certified many years before by T. Wortman, as city clerk, to be a true copy. The editor has compared the edition of 1832, with the Charter as reprinted in 1793 by Hugh Gaine, and certified to be a true copy by Robert Benson, clerk. That was the best printed, and probably the most accurate copy of the Charter that has appeared.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SEC. 1. The Corporation now existing, and known by the name of "The Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the city of New York," shall continue to be a body politic and corporate, in fact and in name, by the same name, and shall have perpetual succession, with all the grants, powers and privileges heretofore had by "the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the city of New York."

§ 2. The legislative power of the said Corporation shall be vested in a Board of Aldermen and a Board of Councilmen, who together shall form the Common Council of the city of New York.

§ 3. The Board of Aldermen shall consist of one Alderman to be elected from each district in the city and county of New York, as hereinafter provided for.

The members of the Board of Aldermen first elected under this act, shall be classified as follows: The Aldermen from districts having an odd numerical designation shall hold such office for the term of one year, and those from districts having an even numerical designation shall hold such office for the term of two years. At all subsequent elections for Aldermen, they shall be elected for the full term of two years.

§ 4. There shall be six Councilmen elected from each senatorial district in the city of New York, as the same now are or may hereafter be constituted, by general ticket, in each of said districts, and the persons so elected from each of said senatorial districts, shall together form the Board of Councilmen for the said city. The Councilmen shall be chosen for one year.

§ 5. No person shall be eligible to the office of Alderman or Councilman, who shall not, at the time of his election, be a resident of the district from which he is chosen.

§ 6. Each Board of the Common Council shall have power to direct a special election to be held, to supply the place of any member whose seat shall become vacant by death, removal from the city, resignation, or otherwise, and in either case the person elected to supply the vacancy, shall hold his seat only for the residue of the term of office of his immediate predecessor.

§ 7. The Boards shall meet in separate chambers, and a majority of either shall be a quorum to do business. Each Board shall appoint a President from its own body, and shall choose its clerk and other officers, determine the rules of its own proceedings, and be the judge of the election, returns and qualifications of its own members. Each Board shall keep a journal of its proceedings, and its doors shall be kept open, except when the public welfare shall require secrecy; and all resolutions and reports of committees, which shall recommend any specific improvement, involving the appropriation of public moneys, or the taxing or assessing the citizens of the city, shall be published immediately after the adjournment of the Board, under the authority of the Board, in all the newspapers employed by the Corporation, and shall not be passed or adopted until after such notice has been published at least two days; and whenever a vote is taken in relation thereto, the ayes and noes shall be called, and published in the same manner.

§ 8. Each Board shall have the authority to compel the attendance of absent members, to punish its members for disorderly behavior, and to expel a member with a concurrence of two-thirds of the members elected to the Board; and the member so expelled shall, by such expulsion, forfeit all his rights and powers as an Alderman or Councilman, and no Alderman or Councilman shall be questioned in any other place for any speech or vote in either Board.

In all such cases, the votes of both Boards shall be determined by yeas and nays, and the names of the persons voting for and against the passage of the ordinance reconsidered, shall be entered on the journal of each Board respectively.

§ 13. If the Mayor shall not return the ordinance so presented to him within the time above limited for that purpose, it shall take effect in the same manner as if he had approved it.

AN ACT

TO ESTABLISH A METROPOLITAN POLICE DISTRICT, AND TO PROVIDE FOR THE GOVERNMENT THEREOF.

PASSED APRIL 15, 1857; THREE-FIFTHS BEING PRESENT.

The People of the State of New York, represented in Senate and Assembly, do enact as follows:

SEC. 1. The counties of New York, Kings, Westchester and Richmond, are hereby constituted, for the purposes of this act, into one district, to be called "The Metropolitan Police District of the State of New York." Immediately upon the passage of this act, and thereafter, from time to time, as required by this act, there shall be appointed by the Governor, and by and with the consent of the Senate (except that during any recess of the Senate, the Governor may appoint, subject to the thereafter consent of the same), five Commissioners of Police, who shall be the chief officers of the said "The Metropolitan Police District," and who shall severally possess and perform therein the powers and duties authorized and enjoined by this act. The said Commissioners, together with the Mayors of the cities of Brooklyn and New York, ex officio, shall form the Board of Police for the said district, and a majority of them shall constitute a quorum of such Board for the transaction of business.

§ 2. Three of said Commissioners shall be appointed from the city of New York, one from Kings county, one from the county of Richmond or Westchester. The persons so first appointed shall thereupon assemble together in the office of the Secretary of State, and draw lots among themselves, in the presence of the said Secretary of State, or his deputy, for three terms of office; one term to expire, for three Commissioners, upon the first day of May, which will be in the year eighteen hundred and fifty-eight; another term to expire, for two Commissioners, on the first day of May, one thousand eight hundred and fifty-nine. Each Commissioner appointed to fill a term succeeding an expiring one, shall be appointed thereafter for a full term of three years, and the appointment for such full term shall be made as provided in section first, and shall be made from the county in which the vacancy occurred. Any vacancy as Commissioner of Police for the said "The Metropolitan Police District," shall be filled by the Board of Police for the residue of the unexpired term. Any one of the said Commissioners who shall, during his term of office, accept any other place of public trust or emolument, or who shall, during the same period, receive any nomination for an office elective by the people, without publicly declining the same within ten days succeeding the said nomination, shall be deemed thereby to have vacated his office. Any one of the Commissioners aforesaid may be at all times removed by the Governor, under the provisions of the statutes relating to the removal from office of sheriff, which provisions are hereby extended so as to relate to each one of the said Commissioners.

§ 3. Upon the conclusion of the drawing for terms of office provided for in the preceding section, the said Secretary of State, or his deputy, shall file a certificate of the result thereof, and give to each Commissioner the proper certificate of his office, according to the term he shall have so drawn as aforesaid. The said Secretary of State, or his deputy, shall then administer the constitutional oath of office to each Commissioner, and make the proper record thereof; whereupon the said Commissioners may organize themselves into a Board of Police for the said "The Metropolitan Police District," and assume control of the police force thereof.

§ 4. The officers of the Board of Police shall be a president and treasurer, who shall each be selected from among the said Commissioners. The Board shall have power to appoint a chief clerk and six deputy clerks for the said districts, who shall hold office at the pleasure of the said Board. The principal office of the Board shall be located in such part of the said "The Metropolitan Police District" as may be deemed most advisable and convenient for the transaction of business. The said office shall be rented by the Board, and the Superintendent of Police, hereafter created, shall have office accommodations in the same building with that occupied by the said Board. The office accommodations for the two Deputy Superintendents of Police, hereinafter created, may be, at the discretion of the Commissioners, located in any part of the district, except that one Deputy Superintendent of Police shall have office accommodations in the city of Brooklyn.

§ 5. It shall be the duty of the Board of Police hereby constituted, at all times of the day and night, within the boundaries of the said "The Metropolitan Police District," to preserve the public peace, to prevent crime, and arrest offenders; to protect the rights of persons and property, to guard the public health, to preserve order at every primary and public election; to remove nuisances existing in public streets, roads, places and highways; to provide a proper police force at every fire, in order that thereby the firemen and property may be protected; to protect strangers and travelers at steamboat and ship landings, and railway stations; to see that all laws relating to the observance of Sunday, and regarding pawnbrokers, mock-auctions, emigrants, elections, gambling, intemperance, lottery policies, vagrants, disorderly persons, and the public health, are properly enforced; and to obey and enforce all ordinances of Common Councils and Boards of Supervisors, and town and village authorities within the said "The Metropolitan Police District," which are applicable to police or health.

§ 6. The said duties of the Board of Police shall be more especially executed under the direction and control of said Board, and according to rules and regulations, which it is hereby authorized to pass, from time to time, for the more proper government and discipline of its subordinate officers, by a police force for the whole of the said "The Metropolitan Police District;" and authorized to do duty in any part thereof, without regard to residence or county lines. The said police force shall consist of a general superintendent of police, and two deputy superintendents of police; five surgeons of police, and so many inspectors or captains of police, not to exceed forty; so many sergeants of police, not to exceed one hundred and fifty; and so many police patrolmen as may be determined upon by the Board of Supervisors of the county of New York, to be appointed as a quota of the patrol force, to be paid for by said county; and as many police patrolmen as may be determined upon by the Common Council of the city of Brooklyn, to be appointed as a quota of the patrol force, to be paid for by the city of Brooklyn; and so many police patrolmen as may be determined upon by the Supervisors of the towns of the county of Kings, not included within the municipal jurisdiction of the city of Brooklyn, to be appointed as a quota of the police force, to be paid for by said towns of the county of Kings; and as many police patrolmen as may be determined upon by the Supervisors of the counties of Richmond and Westchester, to be appointed as a quota of the patrol force, to be paid for by said counties respectively, in the mode and manner hereinafter provided; and the aforesaid authorities may, from time to time, increase or diminish the number of patrolmen; and, until otherwise provided for as aforesaid, the said quota of patrol force for the county of New York, and for the county of Kings, shall be of the number of patrolmen now existing by law in the cities of New York and Brooklyn. The said offices hereby created for the said police force shall be severally filled by appointment from the Board of Police, in the mode prescribed by this act; and each person so appointed shall hold office only during such time as he shall faithfully observe and execute all the rules and regulations of the said board, the laws of the state, and the ordinances existing within the district enacted by the city, county, town and village authorities within the same, and which ordinances apply to such part of the district where the members of the police force may be on duty.

§ 7. The qualifications, enumeration, and distribution of duties, mode of trial, and removal from office of each officer of said police force, shall be particularly defined and prescribed by the rules and regulations of the Board of Police, in accordance with the constitution and laws of this state; provided, however, that no person shall be so appointed to office, or hold office in the police force aforesaid, who cannot read and write the English language, or who is not a citizen of the United States, or who shall not have resided within the said "The Metropolitan Police District during a term of five years next preceding his appointment, or who shall ever have been convicted of crime; and provided that no person shall be removed therefrom, except upon written charges preferred against him to the Board of Police, and after an opportunity shall have been afforded him of being heard in his defense; and provided, that whenever any vacancy shall occur as inspector of police, the same shall be filled by an appointment from among the persons then in office as sergeants of police; and a like vacancy in the office of sergeants of police shall be filled by appointment from among the persons then in office as patrolmen.

§ 8. The members of the police force of the said "The Metropolitan Police District" shall possess, in every part of the state of New York, all the common law and statutory powers of constables, except for the service of civil process; and any warrant for search or arrest issued by any magistrate of the state of New York, may be executed in any part of the state by any member of the police force of the said "The Metropolitan Police District," without any backing or indorsement of the said warrant, and according to the terms thereof; and all the provisions of sections seven, eight and nine, of chapter two, title two, part four of the Revised Statutes in relation to the giving and taking of bail, shall apply to this act. The general and deputy superintendents and inspectors or captains of police, having just cause to suspect that any felony has been, or is being, or is about to be committed within any building, or on board of any ship, boat or vessel within the said "The Metropolitan Police District," may enter upon the same at all hours of the day and night, to take all necessary measures for the effectual preservation or detection of all felonies, and may take then and there into custody all persons suspected of being concerned in such felonies, and also may take charge of all property, which he or they shall have then and there just cause to suspect has been stolen.

§ 9. If the general superintendent of police shall report in writing to the Board of Police, that there are good grounds for believing any house or room within the said "The Metropolitan Police District" to be kept or used as a common gaming-house or cock-pit, and if two or more householders, dwelling within the said district, and not belonging to the Metropolitan Police aforesaid, shall make oath in writing before any one of the commissioners of police, and annexed to the said report, (which oath every commissioner of police is hereby empowered to administer, receive and subscribe,) that the premises complained of by the general superintendent of police, are commonly reported and believed by the deponents to be kept as a common gaming-house or cock-pit, it shall be lawful for any commissioner of police, by order in writing, to authorize the said general superintendent, or either deputy superintendent of police, to enter upon such premises, together with such members of the patrol force as shall be directed by the said commissioner, by name, to accompany him or them, and, if necessary, to use force for the purpose of effecting such entry, whether by breaking open doors or otherwise, and to take into custody all persons who shall be found therein, and destroy all implements of gaming found therein, and forthwith to convey the said persons before any magistrate of the district, who shall forthwith proceed to hear the proof whether or no any of such persons were in such premises for the purpose of gaming; and if there shall be probable cause for believing that any of such persons were so in such premises for the purpose of gaming, then the said magistrate shall forthwith order, by due commitment, any of the said persons to find good bail, with two householders of the Metropolitan Police District as his sureties, conditioned for his appearance at the proper criminal court of the county wherein the said premises are situated, having jurisdiction to try misdemeanors, either at the term thereof then in being, or at the next term thereof, to answer any indictment which may be found thereat, charging him with being in the said premises as a common gambler, or in default thereof, the said magistrate shall commit to the common jail or city prison of the county for such trial. The said magistrate shall immediately send the proofs in writing to the District Attorney of the county, whose duty it shall be, in preference to any other case in his office of prosecution for any offense, to lay the same before the grand jury of the county, and upon indictment being thereupon found, to immediately try the same in preference to every other case, subject to the discretion of the court. It shall be sufficient in the said indictment to charge that the defendant (naming him) upon a day certain, and at an hour certain, was arrested within a common gaming-house and is a common gambler. If the jury are satisfied that the premises in which he was arrested was kept for purposes of gaming, and that he was present for the purpose of gaming, then the said defendant may be convicted as a common gambler. If convicted as such common gambler, then the court shall forthwith sentence him as for a misdemeanor, to an imprisonment not less than ten days in the jail of the county, or penitentiary not exceeding one year, and at hard labor therein, or to a fine not less than two hundred and fifty dollars, nor more than one thousand dollars. The phrase "purposes of gaming" in this section, shall be taken to mean any purpose of playing for wagers of money at any game of chance, by whatsoever name the same shall be known. If the said implements of gaming seized shall have annexed to the same any thing of value, apart from their value as such implements, the said thing of value so annexed to the implements ordered to be destroyed, shall be returned to the owner thereof.

§ 10. It is hereby made the duty of the Board of Police, for more effectually distributing and enforcing its police government and discipline, to divide the said "The Metropolitan Police District" into precincts, not exceeding forty, and without regard to county or ward boundaries, and to assign one inspector or captain of police, and four sergeants of police to each of said precincts. The board may, from time to time, establish a station or sub-stations, in each precinct, for the accommodation of the police force on duty therein. It may, from time to time, détail and change, without regard to, or limitation of, residence, inspectors or captains, sergeants and patrolmen and doormen, to such parts of the district, rivers, creeks and harbors therein, or to such of the police and criminal courts, and to the public offices of the government of the cities of New York and Brooklyn, and the quarantine and emigration offices as it may deem advisable. It shall not suspend members of the police force from pay for more than thirty days. It shall promulgate all regulations and orders through the general superintendent of police, who shall take the place of the mayor of the city of New York and of the city of Brooklyn, as being the head of the Police Department or force of the said cities, but always subject to the orders and regulations of the Board of Police; and it shall be the duty of the police force to respect and obey the said general superintendent of police as the head and chief of the same, subject to the rules and regulations and general orders of the Board of Police.

§ 11. The Board of Police, whenever it shall see fit, shall, on the application of any person or persons, showing the necessity thereof, appoint and swear any additional number of patrolmen to do duty at any place within "The Metropolitan Police District," at the charge and expense of the person or persons by whom the application shall be made; (but not to exceed the yearly sum provided for patrolmen of the force, provided by this act as the general police force,) and the patrolmen so appointed shall be subject to the orders of the Board of Police, and shall obey the rules and regulations of the Board, and conform to its general discipline, and to such other special regulations as may be made, and shall wear such dress or emblem, as the board may direct, and shall, during the term of their holding appointment, possess all the powers, privileges and duties of the patrol force, heretofore prescribed. The persons so appointed may be removed at any time by the Board of Police, without assigning cause thereof, upon one month's notice of the intention so to do, given to the person or persons who applied for the appointment as aforesaid. The Board of Police may also, upon any emergency, of riot, pestilence, invasion, or during any day of public election or celebration, appoint as many special patrolmen, without pay, from among the citizens, as it may deem advisable, and for a specified time, and during the term of service of any such special patrolmen he shall possess all the powers and privileges, and perform all the duties of the patrolmen of the standing police force of the district; but the Board of Police, in making such appointments, shall in no way interfere with the force of the lawful command of the sheriffs of counties, as now provided for by law, and such special patrol shall wear any emblem to be prescribed by the Police Commissioners.

§ 12. No member of the police force, under penalty of forfeiting the pay which may be due to him, shall withdraw or resign from the police force, unless he shall have given one month's notice thereof, in writing, to the general superintendent of police; and no person who shall ever have been removed from the police force established by this act, for cause, shall be reappointed by the Board of Police to any office in the said police force.

§ 13. All stolen property, taken by members of the police force, shall be kept in a place, and by a person to be designated by the Board of Police. Every such article of property shall be entered in a book kept for the purpose, together with the name of the owner, if ascertained, and the name of the place where found, and of the person from whom taken, with the general circumstances, and the date of its receipt, and the name of the officer recovering the same. The Board of Police shall also cause to be kept general complaint books, in which shall be entered every complaint, preferred upon personal knowledge of the circumstance thereof, with the name and residence of the complainant. It shall also cause to be kept books for the registry of lost, missing or stolen property, for the general convenience of the public and of the police force of the district. It shall also cause to be kept a book of records of "The Metropolitan Police District," wherein shall be entered the name of every member of the police force, with his time and place of nativity, the time and place when he became a citizen, if he was born out of the United States, his age, his former occupation, number of family and residence thereof, the date of appointment or dismissal from office with the cause of the latter. And in every such record, sufficient space shall be left against all such entries wherein to make record of the number of arrests made by such member of the police force, or of any special services deemed meritorious by the inspectors or captains of police. It shall also cause to be kept in proper books, the accounts of the treasurer of the Board, and number of the several meetings thereof, and all receipts for moneys or warrants or checks for money, shall be written in books kept for the purpose, and the said receipts signed by the person or persons in every case receiving money, warrants, or checks from the treasurer. All such books shall be, at all business hours, and when not in actual use, open to public inspection. The Board of Police shall also cause to be kept and bound all police returns and reports of the districts.

§ 14. It shall be the duty of the Common Councils of the cities of New York and Brooklyn respectively, in accordance with the practice and ordinances now existing therein, to provide, at the expense of said cities respectively, all necessary accommodation within such precincts of the said "The Metropolitan Police District," as shall be contained within the boundaries of the said cities respectively, for the station-houses required by the Board of Police for the accommodation of the Police force of such precincts; for the lodging of vagrants and disorderly persons, and for the temporary detention of persons arrested for offenses. It shall also be the duty of the said Common Councils respectively to furnish the same suitably, and to warm and light the same by day and night. In case the said Common Councils or either of them neglect or refuse so to do, after having been thereto requested by the Board of Police, then the said Board may have their own provisions in the premises, and the same, when made, shall become a proper charge and debt for the expenses and disbursement thereof against the said city or cities, whose Common Council has so neglected or refused to make provision as foresaid. The accommodations required in the counties of Richmond and Westchester, and in the county town of Kings county, respectively, shall be those ordinarily made and used therein by the criminal authorities of each town or village therein; and so far as the detention of persons under arrest is concerned, the same shall be lawful in any part of the said "Metropolitan Police District," without regard to county lines therein, on direction to that effect by any inspector or captain of police; and in every case of arrest the same shall be made known, within six hours thereafter, to the inspector or captain upon duty, in the precinct wherein the arrest was made, by the person making the same, and it shall be the duty of the said inspector, within twelve hours after such notice, to make written return thereof, according to the rules and regulations of the Board of Police, together with the name of the party arrested, the offense, the place of arrest, and the place of detention. The Board of Police shall provide suitable accommodations within the said "The Metropolitan Police District," for the detention of witnesses who are unable to furnish security for their appearance in criminal proceedings, and such accommodations shall be in premises other than those employed for the confinement of persons charged with crime, fraud, or disorderly conduct; and it shall be the duty of all magistrates, in committing witnesses, to have regard to the rules and regulations of the Board of Police in respect to their detention.

§ 15. All telegraphic apparatus, public police property, books, records and accoutrements, now in the possession of the Police Departments of Brooklyn and New York, are hereby given for the use (at the proper places, within the county of Kings and Brooklyn, not to be removed from the county wherein now used,) of the Board of Police herein authorized; but the ownership of the same, and the use thereof, as aforesaid, shall be according to the ordinances which the Common Council of the cities in which the said property is situated, have enacted or may hereafter enact. The Board of Police shall have power to enact and maintain, under the general laws of the state, relating to the telegraph lines, all such lines of telegraph in such places within the said district, as for purposes of police the Board shall deem necessary.

§ 16. The necessary expenses incurred in the execution of criminal process within the said "The Metropolitan Police District," shall be a county charge, only against the county from which the said process issued.

§ 17. The constables elected by the electors within the counties of Westchester and Richmond, and in the county town of Kings, shall possess all the powers conferred by this act upon patrolmen of the police force. The Board of Supervisors in each of the said last-mentioned counties, and the Supervisors of the county town of Kings, in Board assembled, may call upon the Board of Police to appoint for duty, within the precincts of which the said county shall be a part, as many additional inspectors or captains, sergeants and patrolmen, as it shall enumerate and describe, upon appropriations, to the police fund, the necessary expenses and salaries to be incurred thereby. Any of the village or town authorities within the said counties respectively may also make such demand upon the Board of Police, upon making the like provisions of pay; and it shall be the duty of the Board of Police to appoint such officers, who shall thereafter become regular members of the police force of the district, and subject to all the rules and regulations of the Board, discharge the duty and possess powers and privileges as such members. The Supervisors of the counties of Richmond,

Westchester and Kings are hereby authorized, from time to time, to levy and raise by tax, upon the real and personal property taxable within each county, such sum or sums of money as may be required to carry into effect the provisions of this section, or the police purposes of this act.

§ 18. No person holding office under this act shall be liable to military or jury duty, nor to arrest on a civil process, or to service of subpoena from civil courts whilst actually on duty.

§ 19. The health officer of the port of New York shall have power, at all times, to call upon any of the police force of the district, to a number not exceeding ten, to aid him upon any necessary emergency, in enforcing the powers and duties conferred upon his office by law, and it shall thereupon become the duty of any such member of the police force, so called upon, to obey him. But such service shall not continue longer than twenty-four hours.

§ 20. The Board of Police shall, at all times, cause the ordinances of the cities of New York and Brooklyn to be properly enforced, and it shall be the duty of said Board, at all times, whenever consistent with the rules and regulations of the Board, and with the requirements of this act, to furnish all information desired, and comply with all the requests made by the Common Councils of the said cities, or by the Mayors thereof, or by the Boards of Supervisors of the counties of Westchester and Richmond and the county town of Kings. The Board of Police is hereby invested with all the powers now conferred by law upon the Mayors of New York or of Brooklyn, in respect to ordering military assistance in aid of the civil authorities, to quell riots, suppress insurrection, protect the property and preserve the public tranquillity. The Board of Police shall appoint all court clerks prescribed to the judicial districts in which police justices are elected in the city and county of New York, and it shall designate the courts at which they shall do duty respectively. The Board of Police shall have power to issue subpoenas, attested in the name of its president, to compel before it the attendance of witnesses, upon any proceeding authorized by its rules and regulations. Each Commissioner of Police, the General Superintendent of Police, and each Deputy Superintendent of Police, and the chief clerk of the Board of Police, are hereby given power to administer, take, receive and subscribe all affirmations and oaths to any witness summoned and appearing in any matter or proceeding authorized as aforesaid, or to any depositions necessary by the rules and regulations of the Board of Police. Any willful and corrupt false swearing by any witness or person making deposition before any of the officers last mentioned, to any material fact in any necessary proceeding under the said rules and regulations, shall be deemed perjury, and punished in the manner now prescribed by law for such offense. The provisions of law now existing, in respect to attachment of witnesses before Committees of the Common Council of New York, and to the compulsory attendance of the said witnesses to appear and testify before them, are hereby applied to the case of witnesses subpoenaed before the Board of Police.

§ 21. It shall be the duty of the Board of Police to detail, on the day of any election within the cities of New York and Brooklyn, at least two patrolmen to each election poll, and shall, in and for each of the said cities, appoint all poll clerks provided for by law, and shall, in and for the said cities, provide ballot-boxes for use at general, special and charter elections, and keep custody of the said boxes, except during the taking, receiving and counting of the votes. It shall not be lawful for any person to publicly keep or dispose of any intoxicating liquors upon the first day of the week, called Sunday, or upon any day of public election within the said "The Metropolitan Police District," under a penalty of fifty dollars for each offense, to be sued for and recovered in the name of the people of the State of New York, by the District Attorney of the county wherein the offense is committed, for the benefit of the police contingent fund hereby authorized; and it shall be the duty of the Board of Police to strictly enforce the provisions of this section by its proper order in respect thereto. It shall be the duty of the said board to prevent any booth or box for the distribution of tickets at any election, to be erected or maintained within one hundred and fifty feet of any polling place within said district.

§ 22. It shall be a misdemeanor, punishable by imprisonment in the county jail or penitentiary, if there be a penitentiary in the county where the conviction is had, not less than one year nor exceeding two years, or by a fine not less than two hundred and fifty dollars, for any person, without justifiable or excusable cause, to use personal violence upon any elector in the Metropolitan Police District, or upon any member of the police force thereof, when in the discharge of his duty, or any such member to neglect making any arrest for an offense against the law of the state, committed in his presence, or for any person, not a member of the police force, to falsely represent himself as being such member, with a fraudulent design.

§ 23. The Treasurer of the Board of Police shall receive an annual stated salary of three thousand dollars, and each other Commissioner shall receive an allowance of eight dollars for each day of actual service, the same to be certified to the Comptroller of the State by the Treasurer of the Board; but no other compensation shall be paid or allowed to the members of the Board. The General Superintendent of Police shall receive a like salary of three thousand dollars; each Deputy Superintendent of Police shall receive a like salary of two thousand dollars; each Surgeon of Police shall receive a like salary of fifteen hundred dollars; each Inspector or Captain of Police shall receive a like salary of twelve hundred dollars; each Sergeant of Police shall receive a like salary of nine hundred dollars; the chief clerk to the Board of Police shall receive a like salary of two thousand dollars; and each deputy clerk a like salary of one thousand dollars. The pay of each police patrolman shall be at the rate of eight hundred dollars, and that of each doorman at the rate of seven hundred dollars per year. The salaries shall be paid quarterly, and the pay monthly, to each person entitled thereto. The salary of each Commissioner shall be paid to him by the Comptroller of the State, out of the police fund. Each Inspector or Captain shall receive monthly, from the Treasurer of the Board, the sums required for the pay of the patrolmen and doormen doing duty within his police district precinct. No member of the Board of Police or of the police force, shall receive or share in, for his own benefit, under any pretence whatsoever, any present, fee, gift or emolument for police services, other than the regular salary and pay provided by this section, except by unanimous consent of the Board of Police.

§ 24. All rewards, fees, proceeds of gifts and emoluments that may be allowed by the Board of Police, to be paid and given for account of extraordinary services of any member of the police force, and all moneys arising from the sale of unclaimed goods, shall be paid into the bank wherein the Treasurer of the Board of Police shall be required, as hereinafter provided, to keep his account. The payments so made shall constitute a fund, to be called the "Police Life and Health Insurance Fund," and the persons who shall from time to time fill the office of the said Treasurer of the Board of Police, and that of the Comptrollers of the cities of New York and Brooklyn, are hereby declared the trustees of the said fund, and may invest the same, as they shall see fit, either in whole or in part.

§ 25. Whenever any member of the police force, in the actual performance of his duty, shall become bodily disabled, his necessary expenses, on the certificate of a surgeon of the police, stating the manner, cause and condition of injury, and approved by the Board of Police, during the time his disabling, as aforesaid, continues, may become a charge upon the fund provided for in the preceding section. If such bodily disabling is likely to continue for life, on the like certificate to that effect and the like approval, the sum of one thousand dollars may be chargeable upon the said fund, to be paid to the person so injured. If any member of the police force, in the performance of his duty, shall be killed, or shall die from the effect of any injury received by him whilst in such performance, and there shall be any person absolutely interested, pecuniarily, in the continuance of his life, a sum of two thousand dollars may be chargeable against the said last-mentioned fund, to be paid to the person so interested. In every case the Board of Police shall inquire into the circumstances, and if satisfied that the charge upon the said fund is correct, shall order the same to be paid by the draft of the said trustees upon the said fund, each writing his signature thereto. But the provisions of this section shall not apply to special patrolmen, appointed as herein provided for, at the request and expense of private parties.

§ 26. The Board of Supervisors in the county of New York, and the joint Board of Supervisors and Aldermen of the city of Brooklyn and Kings respectively, shall annually raise and collect by tax upon the real and personal property taxable within the cities of New York and Brooklyn, such sums of money as the Board of Police for the said "The Metropolitan Police District," on or before the first Monday of June in each year, shall apportion as requisite and needful to be raised by each city and county, which several sums of money shall be applied by the said Board of Police for the fiscal purpose of this act. But such apportionment shall not be legal or binding upon the respective Boards of Supervisors above mentioned, if the apportionment of tax made to each county aforesaid shall exceed the sum which shall be necessary to maintain police accommodations and the police force used and employed within each or either of the said counties, according to the action of the Board of Supervisors, nor unless the said apportionment shall be first approved by a majority vote of an auditing committee, composed of the President of the Board of Supervisors in each of the counties embraced by the said "The Metropolitan Police District," and by the Comptrollers of the cities of New York and Brooklyn respectively. The said several sums of money apportioned, levied and collected within each of said cities of New York and Brooklyn, shall be in lieu of all taxes within each of the said cities for the support of police governments therein.

§ 27. Such several sums of money provided for by the preceding section, when collected, shall be paid into the treasury of the said respective cities, and shall be styled the Police Fund, and next immediately paid into the treasury of the state of New York, and shall be paid therein and therefrom under the fiscal regulations of law relating to the School Fund of the state of New York, at least once a month, but not in a sum exceeding, at any one time, one-sixth of the whole yearly sum collected; and the sums of money collected by the respective cities aforesaid, for the purposes of police therein, during the years eighteen hundred and fifty-six and eighteen hundred and fifty-seven, and not expended, in the respective treasuries of the said cities, shall immediately, upon the organization of the Board of Police, and after due notice to that effect served upon the Comptroller of the city and county of New York, and the City Treasurer of Brooklyn, be paid into the state treasury, as part of the police fund, and disbursed, as before provided, to the Treasurer of the Board of Police, on his proper warrant in like manner, as aforesaid.

§ 28. The Treasurer of the Board of Police shall disburse all moneys required for the purposes of the said Board, but always upon his check or warrant upon the funds to the credit of the Board, which shall be deposited by the said Treasurer in such bank or banks, within "The Metropolitan Police District," as shall be designated for that purpose by the Comptroller of the state of New York. No expenses, other than salaries and pay herein provided, shall ever be incurred by the Board of Police, except for rents, stationery, printing, advertising, fuel and lights, unless the same shall be expressly authorized, and provision therefor made as a separate county or city charge by the Board of Supervisors for the county, or the joint Board of the Supervisors and Aldermen of the city of Brooklyn within which the expenditure becomes necessary.

§ 29. The Treasurer of the Board of Police shall, before entering upon the duties of his office, execute a bond by himself, together with sufficient sureties, not less than two, in a penalty of fifty thousand dollars to the people of the state of New York, conditioned for the faithful performance of his duties; the sureties to justify before a Justice of the Supreme Court of the first or second judicial district. This bond shall be approved by the Comptroller of the state of New York, and shall be filed in the office of said Comptroller. Whenever any of its conditions shall be violated, the said bond may be sued upon by the Attorney-general of the state, and the proceeds of suit paid to the credit of the police fund, provided by section twenty-seven.

§ 30. The Board of Police shall require and make suitable provision respecting security to be entered into by the General and Deputy Superintendents of Police, and by the Inspectors of Police, and for the taking by members of the police force of an oath of office, and the registry of the same in a book to be kept for that purpose by the Board of Police, which oath of office may be taken before any Commissioner of Police, who is hereby empowered to administer and receive the same.

§ 31. From and after the first meeting of the Board of Police, under the provisions of this act, it shall possess all the power and authority heretofore conferred by law upon the Board of Commissioners of Police of the city of New York, or upon the Mayor, Recorder and City Judge of said city as Police Commissioners, or upon the Mayors of New York and Brooklyn respectively, as the heads therein of the respective Police Departments of those cities, or upon the Aldermen of the city of Brooklyn, which power and authority shall relate to or in any way be connected with, the police government, police appointments, or police discipline within either of said cities, or within the counties of Kings and New York; and from and after the said first meeting of the Board of Police of "The Metropolitan Police District," the duty and authority and power of each and all of the aforementioned officers in relation to police government, appointment and discipline shall wholly cease, and rest, as aforesaid, in the said Board of Police constituted by this act, except that the Mayors of Brooklyn and New York shall be, with the Commissioners, members, ex officio, of the Board of Police, and entitled to one vote each at every session thereof, when present at its meetings.

§ 32. From and after the passage of this act, the designation of Chief of Police in the cities of New York and Brooklyn shall be, respectively, Deputy Superintendents of Police, and the persons filling the first-mentioned offices shall continue, under their new name, to discharge, as before, the duties of heads of the Police Department in the said respective cities, but only until a General Superintendent of Police shall be elected and appointed by the Board of Police, from and after which they shall discharge duty, respectively, as his deputies. From and after the passage of this act, Captains of Police in New York and Brooklyn shall be designated as Inspectors or Captains of Police; Lieutenants and Assistant Captains of Police, in said cities, shall be designated Sergeants of Police, and perform duty concurrently with the Sergeants then in office, until the Board shall regulate the proper number of such Sergeants according to the terms of this act; and policemen shall be designated patrolmen. The present wards of the said cities shall be police precincts, within "The Metropolitan Police District," until new ones are made by the Board of Police. The police in the cities of New York and Brooklyn, officers and patrolmen, shall continue to do duty under existing laws, at the passage of this act, and according to the regulations of the Departments of New York and Brooklyn, until after the first meeting of the Board of Police, under this act, when the said police shall hold office and do duty under the provisions of the act hereby enacted, and as members of the police force of "The Metropolitan Police District" hereby constituted.

§ 33. The Board of Police shall remove from office any one of the present members of the Police Departments of New York or Brooklyn not possessed of the qualifications set forth in section seven of this act, but shall proceed in the manner prescribed in the seventh section of this act.

§ 34. The General Superintendent of Police shall make to the Board of Police quarterly reports, in writing, of the state of "The Metropolitan Police District," with such statistics and suggestions as he may deem advisable for the improvement of the police government and discipline of said district. The Board of Police shall, on or before the first Monday in December in each year, report, in writing, the condition of the police within the said police district, to the Governor of the State.

§ 35. All statutes, parts of statutes and provisions of law inconsistent with the provisions of this act are hereby repealed, together with all modes and qualifications of appointment to office, as members of Police Departments or of elections to office therein, inconsistent with the provisions of this act, whether such statutes, provisions, and modes and qualifications relate to the city of Brooklyn or to the county of Kings, or to the city and county of New York.

§ 36. Whenever, in any statute not inconsistent with this act, the words Chief of Police shall occur, it shall be taken to mean General Superintendent of Police; in like manner the words Captain of Police shall be deemed to mean Inspector or Captain of Police; in like manner the words Lieutenant or Assistant Captains of Police shall be taken to mean Sergeants of Police; and the words policemen and patrolmen shall be identical in meaning in any act not repealed by this act.

RULES AND REGULATIONS FOR THE GOVERNMENT OF THE
TWENTY-FOURTH PRECINCT.
(HARBOR POLICE.)

1. The harbor police, until the further action of the Board of Police, shall consist of twenty-five men, distributed in five boats.

2. There shall be assigned to each boat five men, of whom one shall be in command, and be called coxswain, but all shall receive the pay of patrolmen.

3. There shall be two sergeants, who shall relieve each other, and while on duty, shall be in command of all the boats, subject directly to the orders of the Deputy Superintendent of New York, under the General Superintendent, to whom reports shall be made every morning at nine o'clock, of the duty performed by the several boats for the preceding twenty-four hours.

4. Three of the boats shall be on service on the East river and bay, of which two shall be on duty from sunset to sunrise, and one from sunrise to sunset.

Two boats shall be on service on the North river, of which one shall be on duty from sunset to sunrise, and one from sunrise to sunset.

5. The beats of the harbor police shall be from the southerly end of Blackwell's Island, on the East river, to Governor's Island and the entrance to the Atlantic Dock, on the Brooklyn shore, and from Fourteenth street to the Battery, on the North river; but the boats may, by order of the sergeant in command, or of the General Superintendent or Deputy Superintendent of New York, proceed to any part of the harbor on police duty.

6. Each boat on night duty shall be provided with a signal-lantern, to throw flashes of red light on shore; and it shall be the duty of the patrolmen on West or South streets, who may see the light, to repair to the place where the boat shall land, to render such assistance as may be required.

7. The boats on night duty shall, in addition to the signal-lanterns, carry rockets, provided for the purpose, which they shall discharge when requiring assistance from the other boats on service; and it shall be the duty of the other boats to repair immediately to that part of the river or bay whence the rocket was discharged.

8. When a boat shall bring prisoners ashore, it shall be the duty of one or more of the crew to transfer them to the patrolmen on land, who shall convey the prisoners to the nearest station-house.

In addition to the ordinary baton of a patrolman, each member of the harbor police shall be armed, while on duty, with a revolving pistol and a cutlass.

9. Each boat, while on duty, shall be continually moving, unless engaged in watching some suspected place or vessel.

10. The boats shall be painted black on the outside and white on the interior, and the word "Police" shall be painted in large black letters on the inside of the stern, and in white letters on either bow on the outside of the boats, and numbered from one to five; but there shall not be any name or any other distinctive mark on the said boats.

11. The uniform of the harbor police shall be—

A sailor's jacket of blue cloth, police vest buttons.

“ vest “ “ “ “

blue shirt.

A sailor's pea jacket, police coat buttons, tarpaulin hat.

And from June till September, instead of cloth, white duck trowsers; and instead of tarpaulin, a sailor's straw hat.

The dress of the Sergeants shall be the same as that of the men, except that they shall wear the cap and other insignia of officers of their rank. The men shall wear the patrolmen's shield.

12. Neither of the boats, under any pretense whatever, whether the crew be on or off duty, shall be employed except on the business of the Police; and if it shall be proven that the crew, or either of them, or any other person or persons, shall use a Police boat for pleasure or fishing, the coxswain in command shall be instantly dismissed from the service.

13. It shall be the duty of the members of the Harbor Police to make themselves thoroughly acquainted with the localities of all junk shops, and the character of their occupants, and the character, business, and appearance of all boats and vessels plying in the harbor of New York.

The station of the boats and the head-quarters of the men shall be hereafter determined by the Board.

The Judge at Chambers will continue to hold the same, to and including the Saturday preceding the first Monday of the succeeding month, except when otherwise directed herein.

All applications for business to be transacted at Chambers and Special Term, must be made to the Judge assigned to hold that branch of the Court.

REGULATIONS.

All issues of fact already joined and triable in the city of New York, will be noticed to the Clerk, and be put on the Calendar for the ensuing January Circuit.

During the first week of that Circuit, motions to correct the Calendar may be made.

After that week the Calendar will remain unchanged, and continue the Calendar for every successive Circuit, until all the causes on it shall be tried; each Circuit beginning on the Calendar, where the immediately preceding Circuit left off, and new causes to be placed in order at the foot of the permanent Calendar.

After the first week of each Circuit (during which motions to correct the Calendar may be made), the Calendar of the causes which may have gone down at the previous Circuit, and the new issues will be entered as part and in continuation of the permanent Calendar; and so on, from court to court, until the end of the year.

These regulations do not affect the question of noticing the causes for trial to the opposite party, from court to court, as the Statute may require.

Hereafter no causes will be reserved, generally, after they are placed on the day Calendar.

No cause on any day Calendar will be passed, except where the counsel is actually engaged in a trial of a cause in another court in the city, or in the Court of Appeals; and then only until such an engagement is discharged, or upon proof of the absence of a witness duly subpoenaed.

Parties, by consent, may apply to the Clerk and have any cause reserved generally, and set down for a particular day, before it is placed on the day Calendar; and may, on filing with the Clerk a like consent, have the same placed on the day Calendar.

SPECIAL CIRCUIT CALENDAR.

At any Circuit, until further orders, any causes belonging to either of the following classes, may be placed on a Special Circuit Calendar, unless the trial is likely to occupy more than one hour.

1st. Where the action is on contract, and the answer merely denies the allegations in the complaint, without setting up any new matter.

2d. Where the action is on contract, and new matter is set up in the answer, and there shall be reason to believe that the defense is made only for the purpose of delay.

3d. Where it shall appear by affidavit, that the cause can be tried in an hour.

To entitle the cause to be placed on such Calendar, the plaintiff's Attorney must give a notice of four days to be heard before a Judge, at Chambers, that he will move to have the cause placed on such Calendar; and if the motion be granted, the cause may be heard on any subsequent Friday.

If the motion be founded on the belief that the defense is for delay, affidavits must be served at the time of notice.

The plaintiff's Attorney must deliver to the Clerk of the Circuit a like notice one day before such Friday, containing also the number of the cause on the General Circuit Calendar.

If the cause shall actually occupy more than one hour on the trial, the trial may be suspended at the discretion of the Court, and the cause be put down at the foot of the Calendar.

COURT OF COMMON PLEAS,
For the City and County of New York, for the year 1860.

ORDERED:

1. That a new General Calendar for the Trial Terms be made up for the year 1860, notes of issue for which must be filed before Saturday, the 24th day of December, instant, specifying whether the issue is to be tried "by a jury," or, "by the Court without a jury;" also, stating thereon its number upon the Calendar of 1859, and if it has been marked "down," when it was so marked.

No cause will be entered upon the Calendar, unless the note of issue conforms to these requirements.

2. There will be but one Calendar made up for the year 1860, and but one note of issue need be filed in any cause. Causes noticed after the January term will be placed at the foot of the General Calendar, according to their dates of issue. Causes marked "down" will be placed at the end of the Calendar.

3. Causes may be generally reserved by a written consent of the attorneys, filed at any time before the case is on the day calendar. Cases so reserved, may afterwards be placed upon the day calendar, on the application of either party to the Judge at Chambers, provided two days' previous notice of such application be given to the adverse party.
4. All causes marked "Off for the term," shall have priority at the succeeding term, and will be placed at the head of the calendar therefor.
5. The calendar of causes to be tried by the Court without a jury, will be called at the trial terms on the fourth Mondays of January, March, May and November.—
6. Fifteen causes will be placed on each day calendar, and no calendar will be made for Saturdays.
7. At the General Terms, in appeal cases arising in this Court, the parties may, by consent, reserve the argument until the second week in term, when all so reserved, will be called in their order on the calendar. But in appeals from the Marine and Justices' Courts, no such reservation will be allowed, and counsel therein must be prepared for the argument when the case is reached in its order.
8. In any action on contract, where there is reason to believe that the defense is interposed for delay, and that the trial will not occupy more than one hour, the plaintiff may, upon a notice of four days, apply at Chambers to have the cause placed upon the Special Calendar for short cases, and which will be made up for the last Friday in each trial term.

The notice must be accompanied by the affidavits, if any, upon which the motion will be founded.

If the motion be granted, the order to that effect shall forthwith be delivered to the Clerk, with a written notice, specifying the number of the cause on the General Calendar.

Should the trial occupy more than one hour, it may be suspended in the discretion of the Judge holding the Court, and the cause will thereupon be placed at the foot of the General Calendar, unless otherwise specially ordered.

SIXTY-FIRST ANNUAL REPORT OF THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES, 1859.

To the Representatives of the New York Fire Department:

As the termination of the present year approaches, your Trustees are reminded of their annual duty, to report to the Board of Representatives a statement of the various duties intrusted to their charge; and it is with feelings of sincere gratitude to a beneficent Providence, for His merciful kindness in permitting us to enjoy a year of prosperity, free from war, pestilence and famine, that we humbly return our thanks for His gracious favor, whereby we have been enabled to discharge our trust, in aiding the widow, the orphan, and our brother firemen. And if the amount expended for that purpose is not as large as the previous year, it is a creditable fact to the many recipients of the fund, that it is only in adversity that they seek its assistance.

Your Trustees are desirous that not only the Board of Representatives, but the whole body of the firemen, should be perfectly familiar with the many and responsible duties which we are called to discharge, for we are satisfied that if our brethren in the active ranks of the department are awakened to the important bearing that is exercised over the financial affairs of the department by the moral tone of its active force, that seldom or ever would our citizens have cause for censure. We call on our young men, entering the ranks of our volunteer department, to imitate the career of those who, in past years, by their excellent conduct, have made their names and memory dear to our citizens; and it is by following their example, and that only, that our noble institution can be perpetuated.

The importance of the high position in which the department is held by our fellow-citizens, cannot be more vividly portrayed than by the following extract from one of the leading daily journals of this city, during the past month:

"Our city has a sure protection in her military force, and, if necessity required, could summon a powerful auxiliary in the sturdy and efficient Fire Department—no insignificant powers to support and enforce the law and maintain order."

Firemen, you are not only looked upon as the protectors of life and property, but the conservators and enforcers of law and order.

Although the principal object of organizing the Fire Department Fund was for the purpose of assisting their disabled brethren, nevertheless, for a period of nearly fifty years, the principal recipients were the widows and orphans of those who had sacrificed their health and lives in the discharge of a voluntary duty, and in many cases made them incapable of pursuing their various occupations, leaving their families destitute of means—looking solely to our charitable fund to aid and sustain them in the hour of affliction; and it has ever been the study of your Trustees to discharge this duty in a manner which, we trust, will forever leave a pleasant reminiscence in the memory of the recipient, as well as of those who are the almoners of the Fund.

As our city has progressed in numbers, it has been found necessary to increase the force of the active ranks of the department, up to the present time, until it now numbers over four thousand men. Is it surprising that in this great number there are those who are compelled to seek the aid of the fund for relief?

And it is in the power of your Trustees to state that cases of this nature have met with a ready and prompt compliance to those whose MORAL CHARACTER have made them worthy of that relief, for which they have labored so hard to elevate. To them, and to them principally, do we address; and it is a pleasant satisfaction to know that seldom are we mistaken in the claims, as well as the worthiness, of this class of applicants.

Before calling your attention to the financial report of the Treasurer, we trust that we may be allowed to attest to the ability and faithful service of the gentleman who has filled this position for nearly twenty years, requiring constant attention and exertion, to keep unimpaired the credit of the Fund, and it is with pride we present to your notice, the fact that the Permanent Fund now amounts to ninety-seven thousand two hundred and fifty dollars, invested as follows:—$97,000 in bonds and mortgages, and $250 in Manhattan Bank stock. You will perceive that there was, at the last annual report, a balance to the credit of the department, of eighteen hundred and ninety-four dollars and forty-eight cents ($1,894 48). Since then, he has received from various sources, the sum of forty thousand two hundred and twenty-one dollars and fifty cents ($40,221 50).

Which, in the aggregate, amounts to forty-two thousand one hundred and fifteen dollars and ninety-eight cents ($42,115 98).

In the above amount is included seven thousand five hundred dollars, for bonds and mortgages canceled.

The disbursements for the same period have amounted to thirty-eight thousand eight hundred and ninety dollars and sixteen cents (38,890 16).

Including seven thousand five hundred dollars reinvested, and two thousand dollars invested, which makes an addition of two thousand dollars to the Permanent Fund.

Leaving a balance in the Butchers' and Drovers' Bank, to the credit of the Fire Department Fund, of three thousand two hundred and twenty-five dollars and eighty-two cents ($3,225 82).

Although the balance on hand is larger than usual, nevertheless your Trustees did not deem it prudent to make any further investment to the Permanent Fund, than that previously stated. The coming winter will make demands on the Fund for a large amount for pensions, coal, shoes, and various donations; and the receipts, for some months to come, being of a limited nature, it is deemed advisable at this time, to be, in a measure, ready to meet all applications for assistance.

To those who have ever shown their devotion to the interests of the Fund, by their substantial efforts to assist it by liberal donations, we again are pleased to acknowledge from the Honorable Common Council their usual annual donation of two thousand dollars. To the Legislature of this State we gratefully acknowledge the receipt of a donation of three thousand dollars, through the exertions of our city delegation, and we trust that we will be able to hail THIS as a PIONEER of recognition by the State Authorities, as to the usefulness of our Fund. To the Honorable John B. Scoles, who so cheerfully volunteered his services in aid of the Fund, although under circumstances adverse to the undertaking. Nevertheless, we are in receipt of two hundred and fifty-three dollars and fifty-three cents, being the net amount received from the proceeds of the lecture delivered by that gentleman.

From the Firemen's Fund Insurance Company, we cheerfully acknowledge the receipt of fifteen hundred dollars, being the first dividend paid to the Department, in accordance with the provision of its charter.

To the various city Fire Insurance Companies, as well as to the proprietors of the Press of this city, we respectfully acknowledge the receipt of their usual aid, as well as to their efforts in support of our Fund. To the proprietors of the New York Sun and Herald, our special acknowledgments are due for the full amount of their bills, amounting in the aggregate, to nearly eight hundred dollars.

Last, though not least, to the Firemen's Ball Committee. Words are wanting to express all which is due to them, for their untiring exertions to contribute to the Fund. All your Trustees could say, would be superfluous in comparison to the estimation in which their efforts are applauded and recognized by the community in general. To those gentlemen are we indebted for the sum of four thousand nine hundred and twenty-four dollars and thirty-seven cents ($4,924 37), being the net proceeds of the last Annual Firemen's Ball.

The Committee on Schools have distributed one thousand three hundred and eighty-nine (1,389) pairs of shoes to the various recipients of the department. They also call your attention to the vacancies existing in the "Van Schaick" scholarships in the University. Unless immediately filled, they revert, by the terms of the deed of gift, to the donor. We trust that the Representatives will give this subject their special attention.

The Committee on Fuel have distributed coal, amounting, in all, to two thousand four hundred and sixty-five dollars and twenty-five cents ($2,465 25), and have made contracts for the ensuing year. Your Trustees, in making contracts for shoes and coal, are governed principally, whereby the recipients are furnished with the BEST ARTICLE, without strict regard to cost, deeming the same to be to the interest and credit of the department.

It is with feelings of regret that we again have to call your attention to our failure to procure from the Legislature any amendment to the Building Law. Previous to the opening of the Session of 1859, a Committee from the Board of Representatives, Trustees and Fire Wardens—a majority of whom were practical mechanics—framed a law, which met their unanimous approval, and the same was sent to the Assembly, and passed that Branch. Your Trustees, in connection with the President and Treasurer of the Department, repaired to Albany, and urged its passage. And after a long consultation with a committee of the master mechanics from this city, the law was made satisfactory to all parties; but when the bill was reported to the Senate, it was virtually defeated by the successful motion of a Senator from an adjoining county to lay the same on the table, at a time when it should have received prompt action. Your Trustees, despairing of any relief from our State authorities, applied to the Common Council of this city to enact certain ordinances for the more effectual prevention of fires, etc., and an ordinance to that effect was presented to that body, together with a resolution of inquiry, asking the opinion of the Counsel to the Corporation, as to the powers of the Common Council to enact ordinances of the aforesaid nature; although it is nearly six months since the presentation of the same, no action, with the exception of reference to a committee, has been taken up to the present time.

Your Trustees have nothing more to recommend or advise on this subject. A constant, long and willful neglect, on the part of those who are elected to enact good and wholesome laws for the protection of life and property, have, in a measure, chilled and disheartened those who for years have labored to obtain for our firemen and citizens, such protection to life and property as experience has shown they require. Our present duty is to call the attention of the Representatives, and our citizens in general, to the same, also.

We cannot complete our task, without referring to the sacrifice of life which has occurred in our ranks. Since our last annual report three of our number have been suddenly called from us while in discharge of their duty. The domestic circle has been deprived of a father, husband and brother; the grief and affliction experienced by the family of any of our number is of as important nature to excite the sympathies of those who feel for the afflictions of such, without regard to number. How little do our citizens regard the sound of the alarm bell. Little do they think that while listening to it, as the summon to our volunteer firemen to proceed to duty, that the same alarm may be the last which one of our number may be called to answer. If the fireman has faults, which probably arise from his ardent wish to discharge his duty, nevertheless the excitement and risk which are ever attendant on the duties of a fireman, are of sufficient nature to pardon him for the errors he may commit while in the discharge of the same. We hope and trust that our brethren in the active ranks, individually and collectively, will, in their position as firemen or citizens, pursue a course which will not only meet the approval of the community, but will also strive to elevate the standard of a New York fireman, so as to establish a name at home or abroad; that the fact of their connection with the New York Fire Department, will be a sufficient passport to all which could be wished for.

The agents of the Foreign Fire Insurance Companies universally comply with the laws of the State, so far as relates to the payment of the Tax to the Department. The payment for previous years is still litigated by two agents of Foreign Insurance Companies.

The terms of service of Messrs. James Kelly, Jonas N. Phillips and Adolphus F. Ockershausen, expire at the Annual Meeting; it will be necessary to elect three Trustees for three years each.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

By order of the Board of Trustees.

THE NEW ARMORY, OR DOWN TOWN ARSENAL.

This edifice is situated on the corner of White and Elm streets. It is one hundred and thirty-one feet on White street, and eighty-four feet on Elm street. It is built of blue stone, only two stories high, the first being thirteen feet, and the second thirty feet high. The windows are very narrow, being only eighteen inches wide, so that in case of an assault by a mob outside, the building could be defended with success by fifty men. The first floor is used as a gun-room and meeting-room, the second as a drill-room, and a rendezvous in case of a riot. The style is Gothic, and on the three corners of the building are situated towers; there are five doors on White street, and one on Elm, which are made of boiler iron. It is built on piles driven into the ground. This building is used as a receptacle for a portion of the artillery of the first division of the New York State Militia. It is a very handsome building, and is constructed on the very best plan for defense. On the centre of the roof will be erected a large flag-staff, by which communication from this building and the arsenal up-town may be carried on by signal telegraph.

Total.....	9,035	3,100	21,645

The number of deaths are, it is believed, the whole number which occurred in the city, the ordinances prohibiting (since 1850) interments south of Eighty-sixth street, except in private vaults and burial-places; and prohibiting, also, the removal of deceased persons, without a permit from the City Inspector, granted in filing a certificate, stating the name of deceased, age, color, &c. This insures full returns. Few burials are in the city, and these are properly returned.

The number of births and marriages, and particularly that of births, owing to the neglect of physicians, clergymen and others, to report, and the difficulty of enforcing the requirements of the law, is obviously much below the truth.

The records are, however, of value, for reference, to decide the legitimacy and rights of parties in law suits, and in reference to property, imperfect, as they undoubtedly are, for scientific purposes.

THE FREE ACADEMY.

The Free Academy of the city of New York is the first institution established in this State by the popular sovereignty, and maintained at the public expense, for the purpose of extending to the pupils of the Common Schools the advantages of free education in those higher departments of learning, which cannot be obtained but at a considerable expense in the colleges previously established in this State. It was intended to be the complement of the system of free public schools—making them complete and available for all classes of the people, and by their courses of studies and means of instruction, fitted to meet the wants of all, from the elementary instruction of early childhood to the more various and profound studies in literature and science, which constitute the higher departments of collegiate learning.

The Board of Education of the city of New York took the first action in reference to the establishment of this institution, by the adoption of a resolution, introduced by Commissioner Townsend Harris, July 27th, 1847, raising a Committee to report upon the subject. On January 20th, 1847, a report was presented by said committee, recommending the establishment of "a Free College or Academy," and presenting its design, nature and objects in this language: "Your Committee will not at present enter into the details of the proposed institution, but will briefly remark, that their design is to offer the idea of a college, which, while it shall be in no way inferior to any of our colleges in the character, amount, or value of the information given to the pupils, the course of studies to be pursued will have more especial reference to the active duties of operative life, rather than those more particularly regarded as necessary for the pulpit, bar, or the medical profession."

The report was published, and considered at a meeting of the Board, held on the 10th of February, 1847, when a committee was appointed to draft a memorial, in the name of the Board, to be presented to the Legislature, praying, among other things:

First—"That the Legislature will be pleased to pass a law directing the Regents of the University to pay over to the Board of Education such amount of the literature fund as may be apportioned by them to the third, fourth, fifth and sixth Senate Districts of this State; such moneys to be applied to the support of a free college or academy, in the city of New York, for the instruction of students who have been pupils in the Common Schools of the said city."

Second—"That the Legislature will further authorize the Board of Education in said city to call on the Supervisors, from time to time, to raise by tax such sums as may be required for the erecting, furnishing and fitting up of said college or academy, and supporting the same, such sums to be notified to, and raised by the said Supervisors, in the same manner and under the same heading of taxation that the moneys for the support of Common Schools in said city are now raised."

The memorial was drafted and presented to the Legislature, offering, among others, the following views and purposes:

"One of the important objects designed to be secured by establishing a Free Academy, is to bring the advantages of the best education that any school in our country can give within the reach of all the children of the city, whose genius, capacity and desire of attainments are such as to render it reasonably certain that they may be made, and by such means would become eminently useful to society; the permanency of our free institutions, the future state of society, the extent to which the laws of the country will be regarded, and social quiet and order preserved, depend essentially upon the virtue and intelligence of the people."

"Another object of the proposed free institution is, to create an additional interest in, and more completely popularize the Common Schools. It is believed that they will be regarded with additional favor, and attended with increased satisfaction, when the pupils and their parents feel that the children who have received their primary education in these schools, can be admitted to all the benefits and advantages furnished by the best endowed college in the State, without any expense whatever. It is believed that such an institution as the proposed Free Academy is designed to be, in addition to the great benefits it will confer by annually graduating a large number of highly educated young men, destined to pursue some of all the various pursuits of life, would stimulate tens of thousands, who might never enter into this Academy, to additional industry and greater advances, while in the Common Schools. The certainty to a young man of good abilities, and desirous of making large acquisitions in knowledge, of having the opportunity of gaining as extensive an education as can be acquired in any institution in the State, if his parents can only furnish him the means to subsist at home, is in the highest degree cheering, while the certainty that the limited earnings of his parents will preclude him, in the existing state of things, from having any such advantages, tends to repress such generous aspirations, paralyze effort, and prevent the full development of his ability to become extensively useful to the class in which his lot may be cast, or to society at large."

Such were the objects presented to the Legislature, to induce the passage of the law authorizing the establishment of the Free Academy. The people were promised an institution which, in the character, amount and value of the education imparted, should be inferior to none of our colleges, and at the same time should be so organized that the course of studies to be pursued would tend to educate the pupils practically, and particularly qualify them to apply their learning to advance and perfect the operations of the various trades and occupations in which they may engage; and, also, to furnish peculiar facilities for instruction of the highest order in various branches of knowledge omitted altogether, or not practically taught in our colleges. These views were approved by the Board, and concurred in by the succeeding Boards, who always have considered the Academy as a part of the Common School system of the city, by which, in easy and continuous development, students may pass on, as far as they are able, to the higher levels of literary and scientific education—an institution uniting in a properly progressive system the usual duties of the American Academy and the American College—retaining always its characteristic peculiarity of an agency of the government, in offering to all the people, equally, the means of educating their sons up to the point from which they respectively are to start in the pursuit of manhood and citizenship, and meeting the wants not only of those whose wealth is largely taxed to support education, but of those more numerous, whose aggregate taxes are still larger, and also those whose more slender resources are subject to no direct pecuniary tax, but who, in numberless indirect exactions, contribute their full share in supporting the burdens of organized society.

The act authorizing the Board to establish a Free Academy was passed May 7th, 1847, providing, as a condition to its becoming a law, that the question whether such academy should be established according to its provisions, should be submitted to the people at the election to be held on the first Monday of June, 1847, and that a majority of the votes given must be in favor of the proposition. The question was so submitted, and 19,404 votes were given in favor of it, to 3409 against—leaving a majority of 15,995.

ORGANIZATION OF THE FREE ACADEMY.

By the statute, it is made the duty of the Board of Education:

“To continue to furnish, through the Free Academy, the benefit of education gratuitously, to persons who have been pupils in the Common Schools of the said city and county, for a period of time to be regulated by the Board of Education, not less than one year.

“To supervise, manage and govern said Free Academy, and make all needful rules and regulations therefor; fix the number and compensation of teachers and others to be employed therein; prescribe the preliminary examination, and the terms and conditions on which pupils shall be received and instructed therein and discharged therefrom; direct the course of studies therein, and provide in all things for the good government and management of the said Free Academy: and purchase the books, apparatus, stationery, and other things necessary and expedient to enable the said Free Academy to be properly and successfully conducted, and to keep the said building or buildings properly repaired and furnished. And the Board, upon the recommendation of the Faculty of the Free Academy, may grant the usual degrees and diplomas in the arts, to such persons as shall have completed a full course of study in the said Free Academy.

"To appoint annually a standing committee of not less than five persons of their number, who shall, subject to the control, supervision and approbation of the said Board, constitute an Executive Committee, for the care, government and management of the said Free Academy, under the rules and regulations prescribed as aforesaid, whose duty it shall be to make detailed reports to the said Board of Education, and, among other things, to recommend the rules and regulations which they deem necessary and proper for the said academy."

The organization of the institution, based on the above enactments, is shown in the following digest of the by-laws of the Board of Education and regulations of the Faculty.

REQUISITES FOR ADMISSION.

The examination of candidates for admission takes place immediately after the general examination, in July, and continues at the same hours every day until concluded. No student can be admitted to the Academy unless he resides in the city, be fourteen years of age, shall have attended the Common Schools in the city twelve months, and shall pass a good examination in

Spelling,	Algebra, as far as quadratic equations in-
Reading,	Geography,	[clusive,
Writing,	History of the United States,
English Grammar,	Constitution of the United States,
Arithmetic,	Elementary Book-keeping.

No candidate can be examined for admission unless he shall present to the Principal of the Academy a certificate in the form prepared by the Executive Committee, signed by the Principal of the school or schools of which he has been a member, and specifying the age of the candidate, the Common Schools of this city which he has attended, the length of time in each, and when. If the number qualified for admission be more than can be admitted, the preference is given to those who have attended the Common Schools the greater period.

At either of the regular examinations, members may be admitted to one or all of the classes, to pursue the studies of any one or more departments, provided they shall have attended the Common Schools the requisite period—shall be of the proper age—shall pass the proper examination in the requisites for admission, and also an examination satisfactory to the Faculty, in the previous studies of the class or departments to which they are to be admitted.

No person is allowed to be present at the examination, except the instructors in the Academy, and members of the Board of Education and other school officers; neither are the names of the candidates, nor the schools from which they come, made known to the instructors conducting the examinations, but each candidate is designated during examination by a number given to him on a card by the Principal. Only the names of such as have passed a good examination are afterwards ascertained, in order to be inscribed on the rolls of the Academy.

Students are not allowed to reside or board in the Academy; they reside or board with their parents or guardians. By removing from the city, they forfeit their right to remain in the institution.

Graduates may become resident graduates, and continue their studies at option.

DISCIPLINE.

The discipline of the Academy is mild, persuasive and just, but steady, strict and unyielding. The law on this point is clear and explicit.

"Every student," it says, "shall conduct himself according to the rules of good manners, good morals, and manly propriety; shall give punctual and constant attendance to all his duties; shall use the property of the institution with care and economy, and restore the same when required."

The punishments inflicted in the Academy are demerit marks, private admonition, admonition by the Principal in the presence of the Section and of the Instructor in the recitation-room, suspension by the direction of the Principal, public admonition by the Principal in presence of all the students at roll call, final admonition by the Principal in a meeting of the Faculty, and dismissal for misconduct, to be directed by a vote of the Faculty.

Every violation of the rules is recorded in the Book of Discipline, together with the degree of punishment inflicted, and the amount of demerits received. No student is demerited without receiving notice of the fact and the cause.

Every student admitted into the Academy receives a certificate thereof, stating, that on leaving the institution with a good character after one year, he shall receive another certificate or diploma, stating the period he has been in the Academy, and the studies there pursued by him; and, provided he shall have satisfactorily accounted for all the books and other property committed to him, and shall have maintained a good character, he shall, on so leaving the Academy, receive such diploma; but no student shall receive a certificate of dismissal if he be dismissed for misconduct; and, in each certificate, it shall be stated that he is furnished with a statement of his standing in the Academy, as it shall appear on the records during his whole connection with the Academy.

Provided, That when the distance exceeds half a mile, and is within a mile, one-third more shall be added to the above rates and prices, and in the same proportion for any greater distance. And if any public cartman shall ask, demand, receive, take, exact, or extort any greater rate, price, pay, or compensation, for carting or transporting any article or thing whatsoever, than is mentioned, allowed, expressed, and limited as aforesaid, it shall not be lawful for him to receive any compensation for the said carting or transportation, and such asking or receiving shall be deemed a violation of this ordinance.

It shall not be lawful for any public cartman to neglect or refuse to carry and transport a good and sufficient load, as much as can be conveniently and safely stowed on his cart, or is reasonable for one horse to draw, nor any article of less than two thousand pounds weight, when required so to do, unless he be then actually otherwise employed; and every public cartman and public porter shall be entitled to be paid the legal rate of compensation allowed and provided in this ordinance, immediately upon the carting or transportation of any article or thing; and it may be lawful for any such public cartman or public porter to retain any article or thing so carted or transported by him, for which he is not so paid his cartage, and to convey the same, without delay, to the office of Chief of Police, and he shall be entitled to the lawful rate of pay or compensation for the so conveying. All disputes or disagreements as to distance, or rates of compensation, between the public cartmen or public porters, and persons employing or owing them for cartage or transportation, shall be determined by the Mayor.

It shall not be lawful for any public cartman, or any other person, to cart or transport through any of the streets of said city, any poles, plank, spars, timber or other thing exceeding thirty feet in length, except on a suitable truck or other vehicle, and such plank or other thing be placed lengthwise thereon, so as not to project at either end beyond the line of the side or width of such truck or other vehicle; and all persons so carting or transporting any such poles, plank, timber, spars, or other things, in any other manner, shall be deemed guilty of a violation of this article.

It shall not be lawful for the driver or other person having charge of any public cart, dirt-cart, or any other vehicle, to be off or away from any such cart, or any other vehicle, while the same is moving or passing along any of the streets or avenues of said city; nor shall it be lawful for any public cartman, while waiting for employment, at any place assigned for his cart to stand while waiting for employment, or at any other place, to snap or flourish his whip, or to be away from his cart, unless from necessity or on business, or to sit or stand about the door-steps or platforms in front of any house, store, or other building, to the annoyance of the occupants thereof.

It shall not be lawful for any person who has been licensed to keep public carts, or to be a public cartman, and whose license has been suspended or revoked by the Mayor, to keep, drive, or use any public cart in the city of New York, under the penalty of twenty-five dollars for every such offense.

The stanchions of every public cart employed in the transportation of any fire-wood shall be shouldered with a band of iron around the part which enters the mortice, and the mortice cased with iron, so as to prevent the wearing of the stanchion or mortice; or, at least three feet distant from the floor of the cart, there shall be fixed across, from one stanchion to the other, an iron chain, so as to prevent the stanchions from spreading, and no public cartman shall cart any firewood in violation of any of these provisions.

It shall not be lawful for any person to keep, drive, use, or employ, any cart wagon, truck, dray, or other vehicle, other than such as are licensed as herein provided, for the transportation or conveyance of any article or thing, from place to place, in the city of New York, unless the name and residence, or place of business, where such owner can be found, [of the owner thereof,] be fairly and distinctly painted with red paint, on a white ground, in plain letters and figures, at least two and a half inches long, in a conspicuous place, on both sides of such cart or other vehicle, so as at all times to be easily seen thereon.

AN ORDINANCE

RELATIVE TO PUBLIC CARTS.

Be it ordained by the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the city of New York, as follows:

Every cartman who shall be duly licensed in the city of New York shall be permitted to place and leave his cart, when unemployed, in front of the house or premises where he shall, at the time, reside, or in front of the stable where he shall, at the time, stable his horse; provided, that such cart shall be placed on the street upon the carriage-way thereof, in close proximity to the curb-stone next to his said residence or stable, and shall not extend beyond said curb-stone any greater distance than the width of such cart; nor beyond the line of the lot on which his said residence or stable is situated; and provided, that such place of residence or stable shall be specified upon the license for such cart.

THIRD AVENUE RAILROAD DEPOT AND STABLES.—This building is situated on a high piece of ground opposite the southern boundary of Hamilton square, and occupies the block on the easterly side of the Third avenue, between Sixty-fifth and Sixty-sixth streets; the area of ground which it covers, being 24 full lots. The frontage, 200 feet, is an ornamental style of architecture, known as the "Modern Italian," and is composed of brick and brown stone. It is three stories high, and 85 feet from the base. The main front is 50 feet deep, and contains the necessary offices adapted to the use of the company; likewise two large halls for balls, meetings, &c., with the necessary rooms for suppers, &c., on the third floor, and a suite of rooms for the Janitor's use. The top of the buildings commands a fine view of the suburbs of the city. The stable is arranged on the most approved principle of light, ventilation and drainage, and is 200 by 300 feet, containing 720 stalls. Above the stable is a large car-house, centrewoven, with iron rails, capable of housing 100 cars; also the necessary work-shops. In the centre of the building is a large feed-room or granary, and planned so as to facilitate the working of the road in every department. The whole forming a sight worth seeing by the many strangers visiting the city.

* The first three named railroads have the trains running to different parts of the State; and the New York and Hudson River Railroad Companies have city or small cars.

LAWS TO REGULATE PUBLIC PORTERS.

1. The Mayor shall license and appoint as many and such persons as he may think expedient, to be public porters of the city of New York, and revoke or suspend any or all such licenses, at his pleasure; and it shall not be lawful for any person to use any wheelbarrow or hand-cart, to carry within said city, for hire, wages, or pay for such conveyance, or to be at any hotel, boarding-house, ferry, steamboat-landing, railroad-station or depot, and solicit of strangers, travelers, citizens or other persons, or accept the conveyance of baggage, or other articles, without being licensed as aforesaid by the Mayor.

This section shall not be construed to prevent any person keeping, or employed in, any hotel or boarding-house, from conveying any baggage or other articles to or from such hotel or boarding-house, and using a hand-cart or wheelbarrow therefor: provided the name of the hotel or boarding-house, and the keeper thereof, be painted distinctly on both sides of such wheelbarrow or hand-cart, and on a badge worn on the front of his hat or cap, so as to be easily and distinctly seen.

2. All licenses to public porters, granted as aforesaid, shall run one year from the date thereof, and may be renewed by the Mayor at any time within the said year, for a succeeding year.

3. Every person receiving a license to be a public porter, as aforesaid, shall pay to the Mayor, for the use of the city, one dollar; and a further sum of seventy-five cents, upon the renewal of every such license.

4. Every public porter shall wear, in a conspicuous place about his person, so as to be easily seen, a brass plate, or badge, on which shall be engraved his name, the words "public porter," and the number of his license; and it shall be unlawful for any other person to wear or exhibit any badge, purporting to be, resembling, or similar to, the badge of a public porter; and no public porter shall permit any other person to wear his badge, or use his name in any way whatever, in the transportation or conveyance of anything.

5. Public porters shall be entitled to charge and receive for the carrying or conveyance of any article, any distance within half a mile, twelve cents, if carried by hand, and twenty-five cents, if carried on a wheelbarrow or hand-cart; if the distance exceeds half a mile, and is within one mile, one-half the above rates in addition thereto, and in the same proportion for any greater distance.

6. If any public porter shall ask or demand any greater rate of pay or compensation for the carrying or conveyance of articles than is herein provided, he shall not be entitled to any pay for the said service; and to so ask, demand, or receive any such greater pay or compensation, shall be deemed a violation of this ordinance.

7. It shall not be lawful for any person to represent himself as, or to wear or exhibit any badge, inscription, card, or device, purporting or implying that he is employed or authorized by the keeper, proprietor, agent or officer of any hotel, boarding-house, vessel, steamboat, or railroad company, to solicit, receive, or convey persons, baggage, or other things to or from any such hotel, boarding-house, vessel, steamboat, or railroad company's station or depot, without being actually and duly authorized by such keeper, proprietor, officer or agent, so to do, under the penalty of twenty-five dollars for every offense.

All persons who shall violate or fail to comply with any of the provisions of this ordinance, shall be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor, and on conviction thereof shall be punished pursuant to the provisions of section 20 and 21 of an act relative to the powers of the Common Council of the city of New York, and the criminal courts of said city, passed by the Legislature of the State of New York, January 23d, 1833, or, in lieu thereof, shall forfeit and pay for the use of said city, ten dollars for each and every offense, except where a penalty is prescribed in said ordinance.

In case of disagreement as to distance or price, the same shall be determined by the Mayor, or Superintendent of Hackney Coaches or Carriages.

FORMATION OF WARDS.

In 1683, the city of New York was divided into six wards, under the designations of "South," "Dock," "East," "North," "West," and "Out" Wards; for map showing the boundaries of these wards, see page 212 of Manual of the Common Council for 1848.

The Montgomerie Charter, dated January 15th, 1730, designates, in addition to the above, the boundaries of the "Montgomerie" Ward.

By an act of the colonial government, passed February 28th, 1791, the wards are designated numerically from 1 to 7, and the bounds of each described.

By an act of the Legislature, passed March 8th, 1803, the wards are increased to nine, numerically designated, and boundaries described.

The Tenth ward was erected from the Seventh, by act of March 18th, 1808.

The Eleventh and Twelfth wards were formed, and the boundaries of all described, by an act passed April 25th, 1825. (Chap. 195, Laws of 1825.)

13th ward was erected from the 10th ward, Act April 6, 1827.

COURT OF GENERAL SESSIONS.

THE Court of General Sessions of the Peace of the City of New York was first called the "Court of General Quarter Sessions," and existed under the royal government of Charles II., in the province of New York. The Court was erected in 1683. At its outset it tried pleas, as well for the private suitor, on a civil side, as for the king and the people; but, after a lapse of a century, this power was divided, and the civil pleas were given successively to a Mayor's Court and the Court of Common Pleas. But as long as the former court lasted, its judges could sit as criminal judges, concurrently, and the Court of Common Pleas judges are still judges of the Sessions, when certain circumstances make their sittings a necessity.

Down to 1801, New York city was the principal part of the lower circuit of the state, in which, with the other circuits, the Attorney General, in person, prosecuted for the people; and that high criminal officer sometimes made motions in the most petty cases. In January, 1796, in the General Sessions, before the Hon. Egbert Benson, Justice of the Supreme Court, and Richard Varick, Mayor, (as appears from the minutes,) one "Charles," a negro slave, was convicted of an assault and battery on Jemima Stout, his mistress, "and on motion of Mr. Attorney-General, on behalf of the people, the prisoner was put at the bar for judgment. Thereupon it was considered by the court that he receive thirty-nine lashes on his bare back, at the public whipping-post, in the city of New York, between the hours of 9 and 12 o'clock in the forenoon, and ordered that the Sheriff of the city and county of New York cause the said judgment to be executed on Monday next."

On September 17, 1785, one William Morton was fined forty shillings for publishing an obscene book, called "Theresa; or, Philosophy for the Ladies." Prisoners were hanged for robbing, and fined forty-five shillings for assault and battery. The kinds of crimes, and adjudications thereon, did not differ from those now-a-days.

Up to 21st February, 1788, benefit of clergy existed—i. e., the plea in capital felonies, of being able to read, and which was a legal relic of monkish age. The court minutes frequently speak, before that date, of persons who pleaded the "benefit," and were branded ~~in the~~ in the brawn of the left thumb with T., in open court, and then discharged.

Grand Jury presentments appear to have been always in vogue in the court. There are some five hundred regularly filed since 1784. One filed by Walter Bonne, foreman, January, 1814, indicates, at this date, the vast changes in our municipal policy: "The Grand Jury beg leave to recommend to your Honorable Body the necessity of having a cistern or cisterns, to contain water, at the respective churches and other public buildings in the city, to be sunk in such place or places as the Fire Department may think proper. And the Grand Jurors further beg leave to read to your Honorable Body the necessity of having a watchman to be placed at each church having a bell—the watch to have access to the bell-rope, either inside or outside, in case of fire. And they recommend the watchman to audibly name the place where the fire is, so that the word may be passed around the city."

The earlier presentments are quaint and dull. Some of them refer to "huts in lower Broadway" and "in the fields," as "resorts of negroes, drunkards, &c." Others relate to quarrels among neighbors, disturbing the peace, &c., &c.

The minutes of the court, from the first parchment records of 1683, written in old Dutch Flemish, down to the present time, (except a lapse of revolutionary trouble,) are preserved in the Clerk's office, together with all indictments, filed seriatim, and indexed. The minutes make over one hundred volumes, and there are nearly fifty thousand indictments!

The following gentlemen have been Clerks of the Court since 1808, when the General Sessions became a court of entirely criminal jurisdiction:

John W. Wyman.....	until 1811.
Robert Macomb.....	" 1813.

Mr. Vandervoort was a deputy clerk in 1830, and has, therefore, as deputy and principal, been twenty-seven years in office.

Henry Meigs is the survivor, and is over eighty years of age. He still has the walk of youth, and was in the procession which celebrated the adoption of the Federal Constitution.

The following gentlemen have been District Attorneys since the year 1801, when the Legislature created the office—at first, for the whole circuit formed by New York, Suffolk, Kings, Westchester, and Richmond counties. After the constitution of 1822, New York, with other counties, had its separate District Attorney.

 Peter B. Sweeney..... “
 W. Blunt.....from ——— to January 1859.
 Nelson J. Waterbury.... “ January 1859 to 1862.

Messrs. Maxwell, Whiting, McKeon, and Hall, are the only survivors of those who have filled the office of District Attorney.

The Judges of the Court of Sessions who now survive are Messrs. Frederick A. Tallmadge, Francis R. Tillou, and James M. Smith, Jr., (Recorders); Messrs. Welcome R. Beebe, Sidney H. Stuart, and Elisha S. Capron (City Judges).

The Honorables George G. Barnard (Recorder) and Abraham D. Russe (City Judge) are to be Judges of the Court until January, 1861.

Since May, 1857, the Court of Special Sessions in the city of New York has been held by any two Police Magistrates, and the Recorder and City Judge no longer officiate in any Court but that of General Sessions, which has had, since 1855, jurisdiction of even capital felonies.

HISTORICAL.

OPERATIONS IN REAL ESTATE IN THE CITY OF NEW YORK, IN THE OLDEN TIME.

BY D. T. V.

This interesting topic of local history is none the less curious when we go back into our earlier annals; for we there find such an apparent obliviousness of the future of the city, that a country-seat, from a mile to three miles from the city, was thought a convenient distance; and to drive the family cow home from pasture, a greater distance than half a mile was unnecessary. Farms lay within a stone's throw of the domiciles of the citizens for a century together; and when, at last, mapped out into lots, would be at first sold perhaps at twenty to fifty dollars each, and at the end of half a century subsequently, might double in value. In those days, trading in lots met but little encouragement, and the industrious farmer could probably, with greater profit, cultivate his farming lands, even within half a mile of the city, than sell them at what they would bring for building lots. As to this, we speak of a period anterior to the middle of the last century. About ten years previous to the Revolutionary war (after the conclusion of the French war, and the conquest of Canada), real estate went up in New York nearly an hundred per cent., and those who had invested largely in that species of property, such as the Rutgers' family, the Bayards, and others, began to be regarded as far-sighted characters. All around the suburbs, the lands were then mapped into lots, and an era of adventurous operations commenced, in consequence of which many suffered in those days, as in later periods, from too freely partaking of the intoxicating draught of speculation.

The object of this article is to give the early history of such of the different farms and estates, near the city, as were converted into building lots previous to the Revolutionary war, and the value of those lands and lots, as indicated by sales at different periods before that event.

"T'SCHAAPE WAYTIE," OR "THE SHEEP WALK."

The associations which surround this locality, are equally interesting in connection with the affairs of ancient as of modern times, though for far different reasons. To-day, trodden by the feet of thousands of men representing the interests of the moneyed aristocracy of the metropolis, it was formerly the pastoral scene of the public sheep-walk, called "T'Schaape Waytie," by our Dutch forefathers.

This was a parcel of upland and meadow, which was used for the purpose indicated during nearly the whole period of the Dutch possession. It lay along the south side of the city ramparts, which stretched across the island, (about forty feet from the present north line of Wall street,) extending down the hill to the marsh and ditch, which commenced in Broad street, opposite the present Exchange place, covering the present Wall street and the block between Wall street, Exchange place, Hanover square and Broad streets.

When it was found convenient to move the common pasture to a greater distance from the city, the land composing the sheep pasture was mostly granted to Dominie Samuel Drissius.

The first considerable improvement of the city, in that vicinity, was the laying out of the Tuyn or Garden street (now Exchange place), along the south boundary of the sheep-walk. The south line of this street was for some years the line of the garden and orchard fence of the old De Sille residence, which fronted on Broad street. A considerable impetus to improvement was given by the purchase, in the year 1691, by the Dutch congregation, of ground for the erection of a new edifice of worship. For this purpose they purchased one hundred and eighty feet front on the north side of the present Exchange place, about the middle of the block, between Broad and William streets, for which they gave one hundred and eighty pieces of eight, probably equivalent to $250 of our currency, or at the rate of about thirty dollars per lot. In 1764, seventy years subsequent to the above-mentioned period, lots on the same street sold for $500 each.

To show the value of lots which formerly embraced parts of the old "Schaape Waytie," the following instances of sales at successive periods are given.

1682.—Lot on Wall street, south side, 23 feet front, 60 feet deep, sold by Mrs. Drissius to John Pound, a laborer, for about $30.

1683.—Lot on Wall street, south side, 23 feet front, 60 feet deep, sold by Mrs. Drissius to Churcher, a bricklayer, for $35. In 1715, same lot, with a house on it, sold by Churcher to Provost for $75.

1706.—House and lot on north-east corner of Broad street and Exchange place, 20 feet on Broad street, 54 feet on Exchange place, for about $650

1718.—House and lot on Wall street, 22 feet front, 80 feet deep, sold by Swan to Bassett for about $320.

1721.—House and lot in Wall street, 32 feet front, 150 feet deep, sold by Watts to Van Horn for $850.

1729.—House and lot in Wall street, 61 feet front, 102 feet deep, sold by Smith to D'Harriette for about $2,500.

1743.—House and lot on Broad street, near Wall street, 26 feet front, 96 feet deep, sold by Noxon to Wills for about $500.

THE DAMEN FARM.

This plantation was one of the earliest Dutch grants. It was situated on both sides of Broadway. That on the westerly side, extending from near the present Trinity church-yard to Fulton street, and between Broadway and the river. That on the easterly side, lying between the present Maiden lane and a fence about forty feet north of Wall street, and extending nearly to the present line of Pearl street.

Jan Jansen Damen, one of the earliest Dutch settlers, was a trader. He received a grant of this property in the year 1644. He soon after built a substantial stone farm-house, fronting on Broadway, and standing back a little distance from the easterly line of the street. Here he also erected a brewery, and resided on his estate some years. He died about the year 1651, while on his return voyage from a visit to the fatherland, leaving an only daughter, residing in this city, who inherited his property.

Madam Cuvilje (the daughter). at her death, left one son and several daughters who had married in this city. By these heirs portions of the property were soon after offered for sale. In 1661, Augustyn Heermans, a merchant of New Amsterdam, purchased the old farm-house, with about three hundred and eighty front of land lying along the "Heere Waeghe Wegh," or Great Wagon way, as Broadway was then called, and extending in depth about one hundred and fifty feet. This purchase embraced the lots now situated on the east side of Broadway, embracing the present Pine and Cedar streets, and the fronts in that vicinity. In 1671, Jonas Barteltzen purchased part of the orchard lands extending to Maiden lane, being about 230 feet front on Broadway and 150 feet deep.

On the opposite side of Broadway the extent of the farm was, as before mentioned, nearly up to the present line of Fulton street. About five acres of the northernmost part of the farm was at an early period purchased by George Ryerson, having 308 feet front on the "Heere Waeghe Wegh," and running down in parallel lines to the river, having a depth on the north side of 868 feet, 6 inches, and on the south side of 765 feet, 8 inches. After Ryerson's decease, his widow married Teunis Dey. Her heirs divided the property among themselves in the year 1730, but it was not until the year 1743 that it was brought into the market as city lots. Dirk Dey, one of the heirs, became the owner of a large part of this property. The street, still called Dey street, was run through the centre of the property, and was named after him. The following instances of sales of lots on this tract will indicate the value of lands in that vicinity up to the time of the Revolution.

1745.—A lot on the south-west corner of Broadway and Dey street, 30 feet front and 100 feet deep, was sold by Dey to Wynant for £75 (about $187).

1747.—One and a half lot on the south side of Dey street, 37 feet 6 inches front, 85 feet deep, was sold by Dey to Ryckman for £75 (about $187).

1761.—A lot on the north side of Dey street, 25 feet front and 77 feet deep, was sold by Dey to Romeyn for £150 (about $375).

1770.—A half lot on the south side of Dey street, 14 feet front and 85 feet deep, was sold by Gomez to Schultz for £160 (about $400).

1770.—A lot on Broadway, near Dey street, 25 feet front and 100 feet deep, was sold by McAdam to Earle for £380 (about $950).

Next, south of Dey's property, on the west side of Broadway, was a piece of land which, in 1669, was sold by the executors of Rachel Van Tienhoven (one of the heirs of Madam Cuvilje), to Oloff Stevensen Van Cortland, a wealthy brewer of the old Dutch era. The extent of this purchase was nearly 250 feet on Broadway, and extending in parallel lines to the river. The south side was bounded by a lane leading to the wind-mill on the shore of the river. This property remained in Van Cortland's family for many years, having, on the division of his estate, been apportioned to two daughters, one of whom married Frederick Philipse, and the other Mr. Teller. In 1733, the heirs of these parties agreed on a partition of the property, and laid out a street forty feet in width, running from Broadway to the river, near the middle of the tract. The property was subsequently acquired by Philip and Frederick Van Cortland, descendants of the old burgomaster before named. The street, until then without a name, was called Cortland street, which it has held until the present time. The first lot sold by them was in 1737. It was situated on the north side of Cortland street, containing 25 feet front, and in depth 126 feet, to the land of Dey, and was sold for £26 (about $65).

The portion of the Damen farm, lying south of Van Cortland's purchase, was sold by the heirs of Cuvilje, in smaller parcels, to various persons. The value of these lands, at different periods, will be indicated by the following record:

1667.—A house and lot described as on the "Heere Street, north of the garden of the West India Company," which may be at present designated as on Broadway, north of Trinity church-yard, 48 feet front and 85 feet deep, was sold by Vandercliff to Dervall for twenty-seven beaver-skins (equal to something less than $100).

1716.—A lot on the west side of Broadway, near the present Liberty street, 23 feet front and 110 feet deep, was sold by Boelen (the pioneer store-keeper in that part of the city suburbs), to Bogert for £50 (about $125).

1726.—A house and lot on the west side of Broadway, about 70 feet front and 50 feet deep, was sold by Bickley to Philipse, for £450 (about $1100).

1743.—A lot on Little Queen street, now Cedar street, 25 feet front and 69 feet deep, sold by Spratt to Blank, for £55 (about $140).

1749.—A house and lot, then situated on the corner of Broadway and a lane formerly leading to the windmill of Peter Jansen (now closed, but about midway between Cortland and Liberty streets), 40 feet front, 110 feet deep, sold by Wenham to Ludlow, for £350 (about $975).

1762.—Lots on Crown street (now Liberty street), about 25 feet front and 70 feet deep, sold for £233 each ($580).

Having thus referred to that part of the Damen farm lying along the Heere Waegh Wegh, it is proper to remark that, although this thoroughfare was not an inconspicuous feature in the topography of the town, it by no means bore its relative importance to other parts of the city that it bears at present.

It was far behind "Smit's Valley" (as the present Pearl street, from Wall street to Beekman street, was called), as it respects a fashionable place of residence, and also in point of population. While Smith's Valley (afterwards Queen street) was improved by handsome brick edifices of two or three stories in height, Broadway, between Wall street and the Commons or Park, was for many years mostly occupied by an humble class of houses.

It was before mentioned that on the east side of Broadway, above Wall street, the first purchasers from the heirs of Madam Cuvilje were Augustyn Heermaus and Jonas Bartetzen. From these the property, in smaller parcels, soon passed to other hands. Such instances of subsequent sales on this part of Broadway, will be mentioned as will sufficiently indicate the progressive value of property in that vicinity.

1700.—A house and lot on the north-east corner of Broadway and the present Cedar street, 100 feet on Broadway, 110 feet on Cedar street, 120 feet in the rear, was sold by Mellet, a blacksmith, to Rezean, a mason, for £240 (about $600).

1700.—A lot on the east side of Broadway, between the present Pine and Cedar streets, 40 feet front, 139 feet deep, was sold by Stoutenburg to the Dutch Church for £80 (about $200).

1715.—A house and lot on the north-east corner of the present Broadway and Liberty street, was sold by Lecompt to Lamoreaux for £129 (about $320).

1718.—A house and lot on the east side of Broadway, between the present Liberty street and Maiden lane, exhibited by the following diagram, containing 45 feet, 4 inches front, was sold for £75 (about $187).

As to that part of the Damen Farm lying along the city wall.—The heirs of Madam Cuvilje, having partitioned the farm among themselves, they ran off the part lying east of the Heere Waego Wegh, in the rear of the lots fronting on that thoroughfare, into different parcels, marked by lines running at right angles with the city wall.

The present north line of Wall street was originally between forty and fifty feet south of the line of palisades and the ramparts and ditch which constituted the city wall of New Amsterdam. At the time of the partition referred to, the wall had become in a dilapidated condition, having for many years been suffered to go into gradual decay. The palisades had disappeared, but the ditch still sufficiently marked the south boundary of the Damen lands.

It is proper to note a circumstance of some interest in connection with Wall street. The southerly line of that street was, as before related, laid through the sheep-walk, and was established with reference to a proper field of manœuvres for the military defense at the city wall. The distance from that line to the wall was about 100 feet from the ditch and ramparts; but to leave a street of that width was considered unnecessary at that time. A project was, therefore, conceived by Governor Dongan, to speculate upon this circumstance. In 1685 he procured one of his officers, Captain Knight, to purchase of the heirs of the Damen farm, eighty feet in depth along the line of the ditch, to the extent of the front of their property. To this eighty feet he added between forty-two and forty-five feet out of the vacant land south of the ditch, and thus made lots of the depth of from 122 to 124 feet, along the front of which he fixed the northerly line of Wall street. These lots became his private property. Dongan sold that portion of the lots lying south-east of the present William street to John West, and afterwards, in 1689, sold that portion of it extending from William street to near Broadway, to Abraham De Peyster and Nicholas Bayard, two leading citizens.

The building of the City Hall at the present head of Broad street, in the year 1700, served to establish Wall street as a conspicuous part of the town, and from that period it took, in prospective, a prominent position among the city thoroughfares.

In 1718 the congregation of Presbyterians, who had then no regular place of worship, procured to be purchased, on their behalf, a site designed for the future erection of a church edifice. This property, situated on the north side of Wall street, near Broadway, embraced 88 feet in front and 124 feet in depth, and was sold by De Peyster and Bayard for the sum of £350 (about $875). It was, however, many years afterwards that the church building was erected.

A map of the property along Wall street was soon after made by Abraham De Peyster and Samuel Bayard (the latter of whom had inherited a share of the property from his father, Nicholas), and they partitioned the lots between them, according to the following diagram:

The lot indicated on the map as that of G. Thompson, on the corner of Wall and the present William street, was sold to him in 1721, for the sum of £120 (about $300).

The present Pine street, which ran near the southern boundary line of the Damen farm, was afterwards known by the name of King street, and sometimes by that of Tienhoven street. The prices of lots on that street, at various periods, have been as follows:

1694.—Lot on north side of the street, 72 feet front, sold by Jones to Redman for £35 (less than $90).

1700.—Lot in King street, 51 feet front, 80 feet deep, sold by Huddleston to Abeel for £75 (about $190).

1706.—The lot purchased by Captain Kidd, the pirate, after his marriage in this city, and upon which it is supposed he intended to erect a dwelling-house, was sold by him, shortly before his departure on his expedition to the coast of Madagascar. It was 75 feet front, and situated on the south side of this street. In 1706, one-third of it was sold by Bradley to Clerke, for £23 (about $60).

1718.—A lot on the south side of the street, 25 feet front, 75 feet deep, was sold by Smith to Turek, for £41.

1761.—A lot on south side of King street, distant 120 feet from Broadway, being 20 feet front and 66 feet deep, was sold by Harrison to Hunt, for £200 (about $500).

That part of the present Cedar street nearest Broadway, was originally the lane which led to an orchard on the Damen farm, situated near the present Nassau street. When this street was laid out, it was called Queen street.

The prices of lots on this street are sufficiently indicated by those mentioned in connection with Pine street.

Maiden lane and Liberty street, bordering on the Maadgde Paatge, and extending up the gentle slope of a hill towards the city fortifications, a large pasture field originally occupied a great part of the Damen farm. This was commonly known as the "claver waytie," or clover pasture. By purchase, in 1636, from some of the heirs, Oloff Van Cortland became owner of one-quarter of this pasture; which, upon being mapped, formed a large number of lots through which Cedar and Liberty streets ran, and upon which the southerly side of Maiden lane was bounded.

Maiden lane was a valley, and towards the lower part quite marshy, from a brook which had its source in a spring on the "gouwenberg," or golden hill. This spring was situated near the present junction of John and Gold streets. The first settlers on Maiden lane were ship-carpenters. In 1665, the heirs above named sold to Pieter Jansen ground on the south of Maadgde Paatge, not far from Maiden lane, 34 feet front and rear and 251 feet deep. In the same year they sold to Pieter Harmensen, ship-carpenter, ground adjoining on the west, 254 feet front and rear, 251 feet deep; and, in the same year, to Jan Adriansen, ship-carpenter, the ground adjoining, 40 feet front, 253 feet deep. With this brief account of their earlier history, we shall proceed to give the progressive value of lands on Maiden lane and Liberty street in after years, when property had come into use for building lots.

1699.—Lot on north side of Crown (now Liberty) street, near Broadway, 75 feet front, 98 feet deep, sold by Hutchins to Geddes, for £90 (about $225).

1700. Lot on south side of Maiden lane, west corner of present Little Greene street, 82 feet front, 111 feet deep, sold by Lloyd to Bowne, for £48 (about $120).

1714.—Lot on north side of Liberty street, extending through to Maiden lane, 21 feet front, 60 feet deep, sold by Morris to Benson, for £23 (about $70).

1717.—A lot on Maiden lane, near Pearl street, 25 feet front, 132 feet deep, sold by Reade to Rutgers, for £100 ($250).

1729.—Lot on Maiden lane, near Pearl street, 25 feet front, sold by Santfort to Rutgers, for £280 ($700).

1743.—Lot on north side of Liberty street, west of Nassau street, 40 feet front, 80 feet deep, sold by Hedger to Burling, for £70 ($175).

Nassau street.—The name of this street was originally Kip street, after one of the heirs of the farm. The old farm-house stood near the line of this street. It was occupied by Peter Stoutenberg, one of the heirs, and is believed to have been still standing in 1750, and that it was the same building then sold by the heirs of Stoutenberg to Dr. John Bard, for £450 ($1,125), with ground 47 feet front and 88 feet deep. The venerable Grant Thorburn stated many years ago that he recollected an old Dutch farm-house standing in Nassau street, near Cedar street, which was about the locality of the old Damen homestead.

1700.—A house and lot on westerly side of this street, 26 feet front, 95 feet deep, was sold by Waldron to the Dutch Church, for £38 ($35).

1700.—A lot on westerly side of the street, 24 feet front and 95 feet deep, sold by Waldron to Dominie Selyns, for £46 ($115).

We shall conclude this account of the Damen farm by a translation of the descriptive parts of the patent for the land, issued in 1644, by the Director-General and Council to Jan Jansen Damen:

“Land lying on both sides of the public road;” “the piece that lies between the river and said road, extending 75 rods north-east, and on the northern side till to the beach, 61½ rods: on the south side, till to the beach, 38 rods, in a regular line; by the beach, 68 rods. There is a projecting point on the north side.

“On the eastern side, it extends along the public road 50 rods. On the south side, next to the Company’s land, south-east, a little easterly, 72 rods, 9 feet, 5 inches, to the land of Tymen Jansen. Fifty-two rods and two-thirds, next to the land of Jansen, till by the beach, east by south and east, south-east thirty-seven rods, three feet. Along by the aforesaid land to the lot of Maryn, seventeen rods and eight feet, and extends further from the north end on the east side of Maryn’s land, next to the road running betwixt the land of the Secretary, Van Tienhoven, and the said land of Jan Damen, throughout till to the starting point at the common highway.”

VAN TIENHOVEN’S PLANTATION.

This estate was granted to Cornelius Van Tienhoven, then Secretary of the Dutch government, at about the same period that the Damen grant was made.

For many subsequent years the easterly boundary was defined by marks on the trees, as but a small portion of the estate was cultivated, and the remainder was left open for a cattle range into the woods. Van Tienhoven erected a dwelling on the elevation of the hill overlooking the East river, to which a lane ran up from the river shore, on the present line of John street. The hill upon which the mansion stood was called the "Gouwenberg," or golden hill, which it retained for many subsequent generations, and long after it became thickly settled. The use of that cognomen is still remembered by many old citizens.

The Van Tienhoven land extended along the northerly side of Maiden lane, from Broadway to within a few hundred feet of Pearl street (where it met the land of Vanderwell, who owned the corner of Maiden lane and Pearl street), thence easterly, about 200 feet, thence down to the road along the river (Pearl street), and along that road easterly to a point between Fulton and Beekman streets, whence it proceeded westerly to Broadway, mostly along the present south line of Ann street, thence along Broadway to the starting point.

A brief sketch of Van Tienhoven's personal history may prove interesting. In 1633, he was book-keeper of wages in the office of the West India Company in this city, which place he held until 1638, when he was promoted to the office of Secretary of the Colony. He afterwards held the office of "fiscall" or public prosecutor and "schout" or sheriff of New Amsterdam. He married Rachel, a step-daughter of Jan Jansen Damen. He was a man of great subtilty of mind and strength of will, and may be said to have controlled the policy of government under the early governors, and although not holding the same sway under the more vigorous administration of Stuyvesant, he still maintained with him an influence second to that of no other man in the province. He was the most unpopular man in office, but nevertheless continued his successful career in power, in despite of the strenuous efforts of the citizens to have him unseated. To follow minutely his biography, would cover the whole political history of the country, until the time of his disappearance from the stage of action. It was at length found impossible to disregard the public clamor; and, although sustained by all the force of Stuyvesant's influence, the Directory in Holland dismissed him from office in the year 1656. His spirited nature could not brook the triumph of his enemies, and he either absconded or committed suicide, the former of which seems probable. His hat and coat were found floating in the river, which was the last vestige of him seen in New Amsterdam; his property was administered upon as if he were dead.

The Van Tienhoven plantation came into the hands of John Smedes, who divided it into two parcels, one of which, embracing the old mansion and that part of the land between the river road (Pearl street) and a line drawn a little west of the present Gold street, Smedes sold in the year 1677 to Henry Rycken, for the sum of 2,900 guilders. It is supposed this was seawant currency (Indian money), which was at a great depreciation, and was probably equivalent to about five hundred dollars of present currency. The remaining portion, extending to Broadway, was sold by Smedes to an association of shoemakers. This sort of tradesmen, at that period, were at the same time tanners. The shoemakers of New Amsterdam had originally established themselves along the present line of Broad street (which was a marshy locality, suitable to the construction of tan-pits); but that vicinity having become too much environed by inhabitants to render the tan-pits sufferable, they removed to the locality above mentioned, and made their pits along Maiden lane, which was also a marshy section.

These two divisions of the Van Tienhoven plantation became more extensively known in after years, when it was divided into lots, as the "Van Cliff" estate, and the "Shoemakers' Pasture," of which the subsequent history will be here given.

Van Cliff's Estate.—This property, which has been mentioned as sold by Smedes to Rycken in 1677, was sold by the latter in 1681, to Dvick Vandercliff, a store-keeper in New Amsterdam; after whose death, it came to his widow, Geesie Vandercliff, who survived her husband many years, and kept a place of public resort at her residence on the "Gouwenberg," generally known as "the Orchard." The access to this pleasant establishment was, as has been before mentioned, by a steep lane, leading from the road along the river up to the front of the mansion, on the present line of John street, which, within late years, has been brought down to a convenient grade for travel.

About the year 1706, Geesie Vandercliff had her land laid out in lots. She laid out a street along the edge of the hill, which was at first called Orange street, now Cliff street; and also another, now called Gold street.

Purchasers were readily found for lots, at prices varying from £20 to £30, or $50 to $65, according to locality.

1716.—A lot on the west side of Gold street, "upon a hill commonly called the Gouwenberg," 29 feet front and rear, 106 feet deep, to Shoemaker's pasture; sold by Van Ness to Johnston, for £40.

1719.—Lot on Orange street, 30 feet front, 160 feet deep, (rear on Ryder's alley;) sold by Wessells to Brown, for £50.

1759.—Two lots on the west side of Gold street, each 26 feet front, 104 feet deep; sold by Killmaster to the Baptist Church, for £102 each lot ($250).

The Shoemaker's Pasture.—The following is a plan of this property, as surveyed and divided into lots in the year 1696, with the names of the proprietors among whom it was partitioned:

Map of the Shoemakers' Pasture, belonging to John Harpendinck, Heiltje Clopper, Charles Lodwick, Abraham Santford and Carsten Luersen.

These were all original grantees, except Charles Lodwick, who was a merchant, and in the year 1694 purchased the interest of Hendrick Tenbroeck, who was one of the five shoemakers to whom the grant was made, and Heiltje Cloppers, who was the widow of one of the grantees. The rest were all shoemakers.

John Harpendinck was not only the principal tradesman in his line in the city, but was, in every respect, a worthy and estimable man. He gave to the Reformed Dutch Church, out of his portion of this property, the ground on which the North Dutch Church still stands, on William street, between Fulton and Ann streets. John street was so called after this person.

The pasture embraced about sixteen acres, and was divided, as is shown by the diagram, into 164 lots.

Subsequent sales of lots, in various parts of this property, are as follows :

1706.—Lot on Maiden lane, 25 feet front, 105 feet deep; sold by Harpendinge to Saanders, for £40 ($100).

DE TRUY'S PLANTATION, OR BEEKMAN'S PASTURE.

This piece of property was originally granted to Philip De Truy, court-messenger in the year 1642, by the Director-General and Councillors. The following are the descriptive words of the grant: "Land near Smit's Valley where Cornelis Van Tienhoven is situated, west south-west, and David Provoost, east north-east, next to his district, in the breadth of land of Tienhoven to Bestevaers Cripple bush, forty rods of twelve feet, (eleven inches to the foot), west south-west and east north-east; and in its length from the beach sixty-eight rods north by west and south by east to land of said Provoost, extending in breadth along the beach at Smit's Valley to fence of said Provoost forty-eight rods."

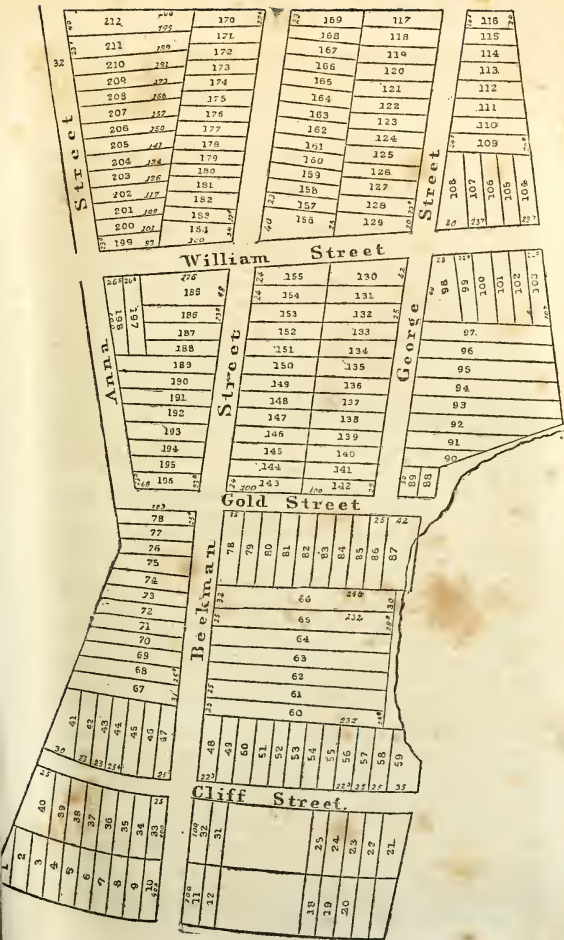

The division line between De Truy and Tienhoven is thus described in another grant, by "the marks made by Tienhoven, bordering on the aforesaid land from the fence to the great tree, showing the right division line between De Truy and Tienhoven."

De Truy shortly after conveyed his property, and in 1654 it came into the ownership of George Holmes, formerly a tobacco planter at Turtle bay, who erected a residence and a brew-house upon the estate. After his death, his widow, in the year 1670, conveyed the property to William Beekman, who lived there until his death. Mr. Beekman was a conspicuous man in his day. He was born at Hasselt in the year 1623, and came to this city in 1647, at the commencement of Governor Stuyvesant's administration, being then in the employment of the West India Company. He married in this city Catherine, daughter of Captain Deboagh, a trader on the Hudson river. He filled various offices in the city government, and in 1658 was appointed Vice-Director of the Dutch Colony on Delaware, where he resided until the year 1663, when he was transferred to the Dutch settlement at Esopus, in this State, of which district he was appointed Sheriff. After the cession of the province to the English, he returned to this city, where he established his permanent residence, and the brewing business in the place here mentioned. His death occurred in the year 1707, at the advanced age of eighty-five years.

By his will, made in 1701, Mr. Beekman bequeathed his property to his sons, Col. Henry Beekman of Esopus; Dr. Gerardus Beekman, of Kings County, Johannes Beckman, William Beekman, and his grand-daughter Magdalena, wife of Dr. Alex. Baird. By the death of William, there remained but four heirs, who, in the year 1708, divided the property into building lots.

The following is a copy of the original map of Beekman's pasture, as thus laid out:

The progressive value of the property, up to the period of the Revolution, will be indicated by the following record of sales:

1717.—Two lots (Nos. 18 and 25 on the map), extending from Queen (now Pearl) street to Cliff street, 25 feet front on each street, 200 feet deep, sold by Dr. Baird to McLoud for £40 ($100).

THE VINEYARD.

This was a piece of land, extending from about 117 feet east of Fulton street, to Beekman street, and lying between Broadway and Nassau street.

Before Governor Dongan granted his charter to the city, in 1686, by which all the "waste, vacant and unpatented lands," on the island, were vested in the Corporation; he appropriated this piece to himself, built a cottage upon it, and laid out the ground in a handsome manner, as a garden, which was subsequently, for many years, called the Governor's Garden. It embraced about two acres of land. After the governor's departure to his native Ireland (where he afterwards became Earl of Limerick), his garden was a pleasure resort, commonly called the Vineyard.

His kinsman, Thomas Dongan, of London, subsequently exercised control of this property, which, in 1762, was sold to Thomas White, a wealthy Englishman, then lately become a resident of this city.

In 1773, a lot on the present line of Ann street, where it comes into Broadway, 49 feet front, 81 feet on Ann street (a triangular piece), was sold by White to Hopper for £238 ($595).

THE LEISLER ESTATE.

This property, hallowed in the recollection of the liberal party of early times, by the fact of its being the place of execution and burial of Jacob Leisler, the champion of the people's rights, in the troublous times of William and Mary, was situated along the King's road (present Chatham street), extending from Beekman pasture, along that road to the vicinity of Duane street, and in depth, to the Swamp, called Cripple-bush.

Jacob Leisler was born at Frankfort, Germany. (from which circumstance, it is supposed, Frankfort street was so called,) and came to New Amsterdam in 1660, as a military officer in the service of the government. He married the wealthy widow of Peter Cornelisen Vandervcen, who was a daughter of Govert Loockerman, a man of large fortune. The widow of Mr. Loockerman, at her decease, in 1677, left her property to her three children. Subsequently (in 1679), Mr. Leisler purchased the interests of his brother-in-law and sister-in-law in that part of their estates lying in this province; by which purchase he acquired the property in question, with other extensive tracts.

His public career, in the years 1688, 1689, is matter of well-known history, and need not be particularized. He was attainted and executed for treason, in May, 1691, his body being interred at the foot of the gallows, on his own estate, on a spot a little south-west of the present Tammany Hall. It was subsequently disinterred, with great ceremony, and the remains were placed in the cemetery attached to the Dutch church in Garden street. By his attainder, his property was confiscated, but subsequently his attainder was reversed, by act of Parliament, and his estate was restored to his heirs. He left his widow surviving and two children—Jacob Leisler and Mary, who had married Jacob Milborne (who was executed with Leisler), and afterwards married Abraham Gouverneur, a partisan of Leisler.

The original grant of the land in question was made in 1642 to Govert Loockerman and Vandiegrist, and is described as "a house and land on the East river, as the same is fenced in by David Provoost, which fencing begins at a brook of fresh water, emptying into the East river, till to the land of Cornelis Van Tienhoven, whose palisades extend from the long highway towards the East river, as may be seen by the marks by him made bordering on the afore-said land, from the fence to the great tree, which is the right division line between Philip De Truy and Van Tienhoven. The said Philip, extending his palisades from said tree north-east by east, and east north-east between both till to Bestevaar's cripplebush, and from the East river, north-west and north north-west, between both, till to the same swamp, and since, from old time till now, betwixt the land which we sell to Loockermans and Vandiegrist, and the farm of said Tienhoven, there has been a wagon road running to the great highway. It is ordered, that until the land hereby conveyed shall be enclosed, Tienhoven may use the road as it is," afterwards to be used as a private road between the parties.

This grant is singularly indefinite as to boundaries and extent, and gave rise to much subsequent dispute. It was claimed to embrace the Swamp, but that claim was abandoned. This property was mapped into building lots by the heirs of Leisler. The sales and prices, from time to time, will be shown by the following instances:

1722.—Lot on Princes street (now Rose street), 25 feet front, 100 feet deep, sold by Jenks to Wright for £20 ($50).

1725.—Four lots on north-west corner of the present Frankfort and Vandewater streets, 148 feet on Frankfort and 100 feet on Vandewater (then Duke) street, sold by Skaats to Bos & Van Hook for £60 ($150).

1746.—Lot on north side of Vandewater street, 25 feet front, 180 feet deep, sold by Amerman to Schuyler for £71 ($178).

1749.—A house and two lots, on the north-east corner of the present Chatham and Frankfort streets (the site of French's hotel), sold by Delancey to Crolius for £300 ($750).

1760.—Lot on north side of Frankfort street, 28 feet front, 109 feet deep, sold by Noxon to Outenbagert for £100 ($250).

1761.—Three lots on King George's street (now South William street), each 29 feet front, 118 feet deep, sold by Gouverneur to Beekman for £325 ($813).

1762.—Four lots, extending through from the present Chatham to South William streets, 59 feet front on each street, 180 feet deep, sold by De Hart to Prince for £400 ($1,000).

1762.—Lot on present South William street, 25 feet front, 100 feet deep, sold by De Hart to Jueren for £115.

1763.—Premises at the present junction of Duane and Rose streets, 48 feet front, 118 feet on Rose street, sold by Tiebout to Banta for £435 ($1,088).

1772.—Lot on present Rose street, 25 feet front, 100 feet deep, sold by Sharpe to Audareis for £110 ($275).

BALTHAZAR BAYARD'S PURCHASE, SOUTH-EAST OF THE CRIPPLEBUSH.

This property, containing about seven acres, was situated along the west side of the high road, (present Pearl street,) and bounded on the Swamp. It extended along the road from the present Vandewater street to Ferry street. It was purchased by Bayard in 1671, at public sale, for a trifling sum.

In 1683, Bayard sold this property to the widow of Hendrick Vandewater, Theophilus Elsworth and Harman Jansen. In 1697, the then proprietors partitioned the property among themselves, according to the following diagram:

The property was subsequently divided into lots—the prices of which, at subsequent periods, are indicated by the following instances:

1720.—House and lot on Queen street, 30 feet front, 223 feet deep, 52 feet rear, sold by Vandewater to Elsworth, for £100 ($250).

1736.—Eighteen lots on and near the present Hagùe, Skinner and Pearl streets, sold by Clopper to Chambers and Delancey, for £230 ($575); or about $32 per lot.

1736.—Two lots on Queen street, 38 feet front, 115 feet deep, sold by Macknight to Chambers, for £20 15s. ($52).

1741.—Lot in Skinners street, sold by Clopper to Jenks, for £20 ($50).

BESTEVAAR'S CRIPPLEBUSH, OR THE OLD MAN'S SWAMP,

By which name the vicinity still called the Swamp (neighboring Ferry street) was called in early times, was, after some disputation between claimants, conceded to be in the City Corporation, under their charter grant in 1689, of "all the waste, vacant and unpatented land" on the island.

The Swamp lay in its normal condition until some time after the neighboring lands had been mapped out, and much improved as building lots. But the improvement of Maiden lane drove the tanners from that vicinity, and it was seen that this improving locality might be made available for their purposes.

Jacobus Roosevelt procured from the City Corporation, in 1732, a quit claim grant of the swamp, paying therefor the sum of three hundred pounds, (including one hundred pounds which had been previously paid in 1728 for ten lots.)

The swamp contained four and a half acres. In 1734, Roosevelt having sold out three-fourth parts of his purchase to John Chambers, John Roosevelt and Abraham Van Wyck, the property was mapped out into streets and lots, forty-nine in number, which the four owners divided among themselves.

1743.—Lot on east side of Ferry street, 25 feet front, and 120 feet deep, together with two lots on Jacob street, sold by Van Wyck to Chambers, for £35 ($38).

1746.—Lot on west side of Ferry street, 25 feet front, and 68 feet deep, sold by Roosevelt to Ruff, for £32 ($30).

CHERRY GARDEN, THE FERRYMAN'S LAND.

This property, containing about seven acres, was originally the property of Egbert Van Borsum, the ferryman of New Amsterdam, and afterwards of Govert Loockermans. It was situated on the highest part of the road (present Pearl-street, at junction with Cherry street), being bounded by the road on the west, on the south by a lane leading down to "Schipper Louws' Point," not far from the Water street, and on the east by the "Ould Kill," or "the fresh water little brook," which traversed through "Wolfert's Meadow." These ancient terms require some explanation. "Schipper Louws' Point" was at the mouth of the stream called the "Ould Kill," which had its source in the Kalch pond, and crossing the present Chatham street at Pearl street, emptied into the East river, near the present foot of James street. "Wolfert's Meadow" was an appellation given to a marsh through which the "Ould Kill" traversed, the original proprietor of which was Wolfert Gerritsen.

In 1672, the heirs of Loockermans sold this seven acres at auction, when it was purchased by Captain Delavall for the sum of one hundred and sixty-one guilders, in beavers, equivalent to sixty-four dollars and forty cents.

After passing through several proprietors, a portion of it, embracing the orchard on the north-east part of the land, became the property of Richard Sacket, and was a favorite public resort, having a bowling-green and other means of diversion attached to the premises. It was familiarly known as the Cherry Garden, and long celebrated for its orchard of this fruit.

In 1713, the part of this land lying on the top of the hill at the present head of Franklin square, and along the Queen's road (Pearl street), containing four hundred and sixty-five square Dutch rods, or near six thousand square feet, was sold by Puddington, the then proprietor (a gunsmith), to a vintner named Husk, for £50 ($125), and in 1717 was sold by Husk to Pell and others, shipwrights, for £160 ($400).

The lane leading to the Bowling Green appears to have run near the river shore, and the water lots along the river being within the Corporation grant of unpatented lands, were sold by them in 1701, and afterwards were mostly occupied for the ship-yards of Latham and others. The old house of Latham is still standing on the corner of Cherry and Roosevelt streets, and is supposed to be the oldest house in the city.

We shall proceed to give the prices of lots sold in different parts of this tract, and in the vicinity, at various periods:

1716.—Six lots on Sacket street (supposed Cherry street), three on north side, containing 75 feet front, 200 feet deep, and three on south side, 75 feet front, running to low water mark; sold by Lynch to Deane, for £120 ($300).

1716.—Four lots along the street, leading from Mr. Beckman's to the Bowling Green, 100 feet front, 202 deep, to low-water mark; sold by Elsworth to Latham, for £175 ($438).

1719.—Two lots on south side of Cherry street, 50 feet front, 130 feet deep, to high-water mark; sold by Mathesen to Butler, for £60 ($150).

1720.—Two lots on the street leading to the Bowling Green (Cherry street), 50 feet front, 202 feet deep; sold by Latham to Yerworth, for £300 ($750).

1730.—Lot at the swamp, 36 feet front, running to the swamp, sold by Latham to Earle, for £24 ($60).

1741.—Four lots, two on north side of Sacket street (Cherry street), 50 feet front, 230 feet deep, and two on the opposite side of the street, same front, and extending to low-water mark, sold by Moore to Latham, for £250 ($625).

1764.—Four pieces of land on Hewson's Point (formerly, it is supposed, Schipper Louws Point), fronting the East river, near Cherry street, each 25 by 100 feet; sold by Marshal to Anthony, for £500 ($1,250).

CATIEMUTS.

This name, which is apparently of Indian origin, was applied to a hill on the south-east side of the Kalkhook Pond, extending along the present Chatham street, from Chambers street to the brook which traversed near the present line of Pearl street. The property was owned at an early period by William Merritt, Mayor of the city, who conveyed it in 1698 to William Janeway.

THE NEGRO BURIAL-GROUND.

A grant of this land was made, in 1673, by Governor Colve to Cornelius Van Borsum, a baker. It extended along the present east side of Broadway, from Chambers street about three hundred feet, to a point between the present Reade and Duane streets, thence eastward along a road or lane which led to the Kalkhook Pond, about six hundred feet, and being about square, its southern boundary running along the north side of the present Chambers street.

This ground seems, from an early period, to have been the negro burial-place; its use for that purpose being acquiesced in by the proprietors, until it became valuable by the enlargement of the city. In 1753, the heirs of Van Borsum, by Jacob Teller, Jacobus Stontenburg and Mary Van Vlack, applied to the Common Council for the exchange of some other lands as an equivalent for the negro burial-ground.

THE CHURCH FARM.

In the early times of the Dutch settlement, the West India Company, which held the original proprietary interest in the lands, reserved to itself a farm, which was called the Company's farm. That economical government also had its garden, in which vegetables were raised for the support of its officials and soldiers. The farm reserved for its use, was situated along the present west side of Broadway, extending from Fulton street to a point about midway between Chambers and Warren streets, and bounded on the other side by the North river. When the country of New Netherlands was conquered by the English, this private estate passed to the Duke of York, to whom the country had been granted. The accession of this prince to the Crown made this farm a part of the Crown lands. Thus this portion of the "Church farm" was acquired by the King.

At an early period of the Dutch government, a patent of sixty-two acres of land was granted to one Roelof Jans. Upon Jans' decease, his widow, Annetje, inherited his estate. This lady had then four children. She afterwards married Dominie Bogardus, the clergyman of the town, by whom she also had four children. The sixty-two acres, above referred to, thus became known as the "Dominie's Bowery." After his decease, and the decease of his wife, the property was confirmed, in 1667, to her heirs, who, it would seem, were eight in number, viz: four by her first husband, and an equal number by the Dominie. Seven of these eight heirs conveyed the Dominie's Bowery to Governor Lovelace, in the year 1671; and by the Governor, it is supposed the estate was conveyed to the Duke, his master; at any rate, the latter royal personage assumed to hold the property as a part of the Crown lands; and as the Dominie's Bowery adjoined the old Company's farm, the whole estate became commonly known as the "Duke's farm," and when he ascended the throne, as the "King's farm," and upon the accession of Queen Anne, as the "Queen's farm." The properties thus combined extended along the North river, from the present Fulton street to Christopher street, and were bounded on the opposite side by Broadway, from Fulton to Reade streets, and thence, on irregular lines, nearer the North river.

In 1705, the then Governor, Lord Cornbury, granted the "Queen's farm" to Trinity Church, in fee simple, reserving a quit-rent of three shillings.

The subsequent history of the successive occupants of this estate is briefly as follows:

The farm was leased by the Church to Joris (George) Ryerson, who cultivated it for several years. Francis Ryerson succeeded to the occupancy; then a person named Harrison, subsequently Mr. Balm, to whom succeeded Cornelius Cozine. Afterwards Adam Vandenberg became the tenant. The farm-house stood facing the lower end of the City Commons, at a point in the vicinity of the present Astor House.

In 1750, the Church commenced leasing the southern part of the farm in single city lots. After this period, the number of leases increased with great rapidity to the time of the Revolution, so that, at that period, almost all the farm lying south of Reade street was under lease for various terms, generally for twenty-one years, but sometimes for longer terms, ranging as high as sixty-three years. An indication of the rents reserved on these leases may be given by that to Bell and Brookman (in 1752), for four lots, bounded east by Broadway and north by Murray street, the rental of which was eight pounds per annum.

Among these leases some were for a considerable extent of land. One to Degrushe, for a ropewalk, extended twelve hundred feet in depth, from Broadway (nearly reaching the river) on the northerly line of Warren street. The King's College (late Columbia College), received a fee title to their grounds.

The topographical features of the farm lying above the district just referred to, are described by a witness as follows (his relation is of a period about the commencement of the present century): "There were but few houses in Chambers, Reade, or Barclay (now Duane) streets, or in the lower part of Warren street, where it intersects the Greenwich road (now Greenwich street). North of Warren street was a hill, over which this road passed. After rising the hill, the first building on the west side was Harrison's Brewery, close to the North river, and in or about the block between Jay and Harrison streets. On the east side of the road, nearly opposite the brewery, was Speth's oil-mill, in or near Harrison street. The next improvement was Lispenard's place, of several acres of land lying along the Greenwich road. His mansion-house was east of and at some distance from the road, and near to what is now called Desbrosses street. North of Lispenard's was a tavern, a place of public resort, called Braman's Garden, which was also on the east side of the Greenwich road, and adjoined what is now called Spring street. North of and adjoining to Spring street, and also on the east side of the road, was Richmond hill, containing several acres of land, on which Colonel Burr resided. North of Richmond hill, on the same side of the road, was an extensive garden and nursery of trees, occupied by one Williamson, called Williamson's nursery, through which now pass the streets called Le Roy, Morton and Barrow streets. Next to his nursery, on the same side of the road, there was a piece of land adjoining Christopher street, on which was a tavern, called the 'Indian King,' and opposite to it and the nursery was a piece of land lying on the west side of the Greenwich road, along which there was a long hedge of white thorn, and which was possessed by General Morton, and extended from Christopher to Le Roy streets." All these pieces of property were a part of the Church farm, and held under leases from Trinity Church.

To refer more particularly to that part of the Church farm which was originally called the "Dominie's Bowery," or sometimes the "Dominie's Hook," and which lay between Reade and Canal streets and the North river, and the swamp, through which West Broadway now runs, some incidents concerning its condition before the Revolution, may be stated:

The first record of its occupancy, is a lease by the Bogardus heirs to a tenant, at a rental of about twenty dollars per annum, the tenant to build a barn, and leave it at the expiration of his lease. This part of the Church farm was, prior to the Revolution, mostly under lease to Leonard Lispenard, who cultivated it for farming purposes. Mr. Lispenard's residence was on the block now bounded by Hudson, Canal and Vestry streets, situated upon elevated ground overlooking Lispenard's meadows, which lay to the north and east of his residence. The meadows were the property of Anthony Rutgers, father-in-law of Mr. Lispenard, and a great part thereof afterwards came to the share of Mr. Lispenard and his wife.

During the Revolution a redoubt was constructed near the present North Moore street and the river. It was in extent about sixty yards square, having a ditch and ramparts with a building in the centre. It was removed after the war, on the extension of Greenwich street.

A litigation arose respecting the title to this property, between the heirs of Cornelius Bogardus (the heir of Anneke Jans, who did not join in the conveyance to Lovelace,) and Trinity Church. The title of the Church was sustained, principally on the ground that the conveyance purported to convey the whole estate, and they had held adverse possession of the whole for upwards of an hundred years.

As to that portion of what is called the Church farm, which lay between Canal and Christopher streets, it is difficult, from any evidences now extant, to discover the sources of the Church title, except to about ten acres in the vicinity of the present Clark and Spring streets. The remaining portion was commonly known as old Jan's land, and was so called, it appears, from its proprietor Jan Celes. It is certain, however, that the Church have been in possession of that part of the farm from an early period in the last century. In whatever manner this land was acquired, it must have cost the Church but a small sum, judging from the price paid for the ten acres above mentioned, which was fifty pounds. In the suit between Bogardus and Trinity Church a patent to the heirs of Anneke Bogardus of 130 acres, embracing a neck of land commonly called Dominie's Hook, and nearly surrounded by Maspats Kill, was put in evidence, and must have been supposed to refer to some part of the Church farm. But this was obviously a mistake, as that farm was situated on Long Island, near Newtown.

But it is sufficient for our purpose to say that Trinity Church claims title to this part of the Church farm, and to the reversion, after the leases, which now cover a considerable part of it have expired, which will be in a few years. The Burr lease, as it is commonly called, was executed to Aaron Burr, May 1, 1797. It was for sixty-nine years, and will expire May 1, 1866. It covered between twenty-six and twenty-seven acres, lying between Spring and Hamersly streets, and from Greenwich street, on the west, to a line four hundred and fifty feet eastwardly from Hudson street, on the east (excepting one block).

The limits of this article prevent a more detailed statement of the Church farm, its general history being, it is supposed, sufficiently indicated for the interest of the casual reader.

THE KALCKHOOK.

The Kalckhook, signifying by translation from the Dutch, "Shell-point," and indicating, probably, one of those extensive deposits of shells which were found by the early settlers on the sites of old Indian villages, was a neck of high land running by the side of the Kalk pond, and into the marsh which lay on the north and west sides of the point, afterwards called Lispenard's meadows. Its southern boundary was between the lines of the present Reade and Duane streets. It contained about forty-five acres of land.

The Kalckhook was granted by Governor Kieft, in the year 1646, to Jan Jansen Damen, and in 1661 was conveyed by the heirs of Damen to Augustyn Heermans, who, on settling in Maryland, conveyed the property to Governor Stuyvesant, by whom, about the year 1669, it was conveyed in four undivided parts to four gentlemen of the city.

In 1689, the owners of the different shares, viz: the heirs of Thomas Lewis, Abraham Verplank, Jan Vinjé and Jacobus Van Cortland, made a partition of the land among themselves, dividing the property into four parts, containing from eleven to thirteen acres each.

It was at this period, and for nearly forty years subsequently, a waste, nearly all covered by blackberry bushes, and a small growth of forest trees.

In 1712, Vinjé's portion, on the south-east side of the property lying east of Broadway, and between Reade and Leonard streets, and containing about eleven acres, was sold by Rous, the then owner, to Fontaine, for £82 ($205).

About the year 1726, Anthony Rutgers commenced his purchases of the different parts of the Kalckhook, with the view of improving it and establishing his residence there.

The south-western quarter of the Kalckhook was, in the year 1726, owned by Richard Hill, by whom it was sold to Rutgers for the sum of £120 (or $300). It contained about twelve acres of land, extending approximately from the present Reade street on the south to Leonard street on the north, and lying between Broadway and the meadows, West Broadway.

In the same year Mr. Rutgers purchased from the heirs of Thomas Lewis the quarter of the Kalckhook which had been assigned by the partition to Lewis. This portion lay on the north-western part of the point, extending nearly from the present Leonard street to Canal street, and between Broadway and West Broadway. It contained between twelve and thirteen acres. The sum paid for this tract was £142 ($355).

Mr. Rutgers built his residence on the site of the present Hospital grounds, where he lived for many years. His grounds were handsomely laid out near his residence, in the geometrical style of gardening then in fashion. The fields were brought under cultivation, and the "shell-point," fertilized by the decayed deposits from which its name was derived, assumed the appearance of civilized culture. A walk through the meadows to the shores of the Kalch pond, brought the visitor to a place of delightful aquatic enjoyment. Pleasant landscape views surrounded the scene in all directions. But one evil tended to throw its baneful shadow over this delightful residence: the terrible fever and ague was supposed to infect the neighborhood of the marshes which surrounded the Kalckhook.

After the death of Mr. Rutgers, his heirs, the Rev. Henry Barclay, who had married a daughter; Leonard Lisenard, who had married another daughter; and his son Anthony Rutgers, Jr., caused a map of this property to be made in 1763, and in 1765 they made partition of different portions of this and other real estate among themselves.

Most of the property on which the Hospital now stands was purchased of Anthony Rutgers, Jr., and was situated on the section apportioned to him. In 1773, two additional lots were purchased by the Hospital Society of the executors of Barclay, who owned the fronts along Broadway, to which the Hospital desired access. With these two lots were also granted the ground at first designed for a continuation of Thomas street, and thus the present entrance to the Hospital grounds from Broadway was acquired. The price paid for this handsome front of ninety feet and one hundred and five feet in depth was £230 ($575).

Very few lots on the Kalckhook were sold previous to the Revolutionary war. It was some years subsequent to that event, before Broadway was graded through to Canal street.

SAPOKANICAN.

This, which is one of the few Indian names which have been found applied to particular localities on Manhattan Island, appears, from several circumstances besides the name, to have been the designation of an Indian village, situated near the present Gansevoort street on the Hudson river. The name, however, was applied to the surrounding district, and thus farms extending between the "Minitie Water," or "little brook," which emptied into the river, near the present Charlton street and the "Groot Kill," or great creek, which emptied into the river, about a mile above the Minitie Water, was known under the general designation of Sapokanican.

Some of the early grants of farms in this district were the following:

1637.—To Wouter Van Twiller (the Dutch Governor) "100 morgens (200 acres), lying hard by Sapokanican, bounded north by the road from the strand by John Von Rotterdam's land; west by Rotterdam's and Fiscock's plantation, and so far into the woods as to make said 100 morgens." This grant appears to have been principally situated within the present Ninth Ward.

1646.—To Oloff Stevensen Van Cortland, "land north of the plantation of Lasloe, extending up from the strand east by south 100 rods, till to the wagon-road from Sapokanican. East eighty rods along the road all the way through the valley to Sapokanican at the strand, and thence along the strand to the place of beginning."

1646.—To Cosyn Gerritsen, land next Van Twillers' plantation near Sapokanican.

1647.—To Arien Pietersen Van Alkmaer, land near Sapokanican.

In the times of the Dutch, the name "Bossen Bowery," or Bush-farm, was applied to the northern part of the district of Sapokanican. This name also alternated in the early times of the English with that which was applied by the latter people to that district. The old names of Basen Bowery and Sapokanican, fell into disuse, and the name of Greenwich was given instead.

The following abstracts will give an idea of the value of land in that vicinity in an early period of the English administration:

1695.—Thirty and one-quarter acres, near the Fresh kill, sold by Degroot, of the Bossen Bowery to Heerman's for £125 ($312), or about ten dollars per acre.

1711.—One hundred and six acres (besides meadows), at Greenwich, sold by Mandeville to Mandeville for £400 ($1000).

1721.—Fifteen acres "in the rear of the Bossen Bowery, alias Greenwich," sold by Bastian to Onclebag for £10 ($25), or one dollar and sixty-six cents per acre.

1721.—Forty-six acres in "Shapecanican," on the west side of the highway that leads to the "Basen Bowery;" also sixteen acres at the Basen Bowery, sold by Van Hosen to Duane and others for £160 ($400), about six dollars and a half per acre.

One of the largest estates in the vicinity of Greenwich, during the last century, was that of Admiral Sir Peter Warren, lying west of the present Greenwich avenue, which was its easterly boundary, and north of Christopher street. It covered nearly thirty of the blocks at present built upon. This gentleman was, while a captain in the British navy, stationed in the port of New York for many years. He married here a daughter of Stephen Delancy, a wealthy merchant. Sir Peter left three daughters, one of whom married the Earl of Abingdon. Upon the division of the property of Sir Peter, a portion of about fifty acres of the Greenwich farm fell to the Earl's share, who, in the year 1788, disposed of it to Mr. Mallen, a bolter, for the sum of $2,200. It was divided into lots some years after the Revolution.

BAYARD'S FARM.

This property was, in the times of the Dutch, owned in part by Heermans, Steenwyck, Van Cortland and other proprietors along the west side of the Bowery road, by whom it was used for pasturage for their cows, which, as was the custom at that period, were kept for family use.

The first purchase by the Bayard family of land forming part of this estate, was in 1672, when Augustyn Heermans sold to Nicholas Bayard, Secretary of the Mayor's Court, about twelve acres on the west side of the Bowery, near the present Chatham square. Subsequently, other lots were purchased from different owners along the Bowery road, and a large tract west of Broadway, which previously belonged to Peter Santom, until the estate, towards the middle of the last century, covered the principal part of that portion of the city now bounded by the Bowery on the east, Canal street on the south, Macdougall street on the west, and Bleecker street on the north, embracing over sixty blocks, as now built upon.

Nicholas Bayard, the ancestor of the family of that name, was one of the most conspicuous men of his times. He came to this city while a youth, soon after the arrival of Governor Stuyvesant, of whose wife he was a relative. He was for some time clerk of the Mayor's Court, and afterwards engaged in the brewing business, his residence and brewery being on the present Stone street, west of Hanover square. He was during his life an active politician, and particularly conspicuous in the times of the Leisler troubles, as an opponent of the Leislerian party, the chiefs of which party owed their deaths, it was considered, more than any other thing, to the rancorous hatred of Bayard. Mr. Bayard was, for some time, Mayor of the city, and occupied other prominent official posts.

The Bayard mansion, on the estate now written of, was situated near the present junction of Broadway and Grand street, was erected about the middle of the last century, and became the seat of Nicholas Bayard. "Bayard's Mount," sometimes called Bunker-hill, was a high hill, overlooking all the surrounding country, and situated near the present Grand and Centre streets. The property near the Bowery was mapped into lots before the Revolution, and sales of many city lots were made before that period, at prices of which the following instances are an indication:

1770.—Two lots on the west side of the Bowery, each 25 feet front and 100 feet deep, sold by Bayard to Quackenboss for £30 ($100 each).

1771.—Lot on corner of Bowery and a street laid down, 25 feet front, 46 feet rear, 100 feet deep, sold by Bayard to Snider for £50 ($125). In 1773 the same lot was sold by Snider to Quackenboss for £100.

1771.—Four hundred lots were sold by Bayard to Philip Livingston, Isaac Roosevelt, Richard Sharpe, Theophilus Bache, Thomas Marston, Gabriel Ludlow, and Levinus Clarkson, for ten thousand pounds ($25,000). This was the heaviest speculation ever entered into in New York up to that period.

Mr. Bayard was non-committal in politics during the Revolution, and remained on his estate during the whole period of the British occupancy. He, however, successfully maintained his position as a patriot after the close of the war, though the popular feeling was very strong in favor of confiscating his estate, as well as that of Delancy and others, who had more openly espoused the British cause.

PERRO'S LAND.

This property, which lay immediately north of Bayard's farm, along the Bowery, was divided by a road then called Greenwich lane, or the road over the Sand hills, near the line of the present Bleecker street. Richard Perro, an early proprietor, died in 1736. His heirs subsequently conveyed the property in parcels to different purchasers.

1750.—Land, containing 350 feet front, and near 600 feet in depth, was sold by the heirs of Perro to Mandeville, for £90 ($225).

1767.—Between seven and eight acres along the north side of the lane, were sold by Perro's heirs to Elliot, for £308 ($770), or $100 per acre.

1768.—Land, amounting to 181 feet front, and about five hundred feet in depth, fronting on the Bowery, and near the present line of Houston street, was sold by John Perro to Brandon, for £211.

JOHN KINGSTON'S LAND.

In 1651, the executors of Minthorn sold to John Kingston, a blacksmith, and Jacob Read, a tailor, between twelve and thirteen acres of land lying on the west side of the present Chatham square, covering parts of the present Mott, Orange, Mulberry and Cross streets, with a considerable front on the road. The price paid was £900 ($2,250).

The property was at once divided into lots, and ready sale was found for them.

1751.—Lot on the present north-east corner of Chatham square and Mulberry street, 25 feet front, 100 feet deep; sold by Kingston to Somerindyke, for £35 ($38).

1754.—Four lots on Mott and Cross streets, sold by Kingston and Read to Dr. Brownjon, for £110 ($275).

1759.—Lot in Orange street, 25 feet front, 102 feet deep; sold by Kingston to Wells, for £28 ($70).

1763.—Lot on King's road (Chatham square), 37 feet front, 120 feet deep; sold by Tiebout to Prince, for £170 ($425).

THE MEADOWS, OR NEW BATAVIA.

We have before mentioned "Wolfert's Meadows," through which ran the stream which carried the waters of the Kalkhook pond to the East river. Originally, when the Dutch first settled this island, they divided off the most arable portions of the island within two or three miles of its southern point into farms of convenient size, which were given to actual settlers; among others, was the farm afterwards known as a part of the Rutgers' farm, near the East river, which at first was occupied by Wolfert Gerritsen, from which the meadows west of the farm being used by him, acquired the name. This land afterwards came into the possession of William Merritt (at one time Mayor of the city), and was purchased from him by William Janeway, a purser in the British navy. It was described as "a piece of land, and the valley or meadow ground beginning from the run or creek (present junction of Chatham and Pearl streets), along the highway north-east to Stilles land 150 rods; along Stilles land to the meadow south and by west 40 rods, along the meadow north north-west 44 rods, (bringing it to the present Pearl street, near Monroe street); then along the hills northward (along the present Pearl street), 43 rods, to place of beginning."

Janeway mortgaged this place (with other lands), upon which was a wind mill and other buildings, to De Kay and others, in this city, for £500, and afterwards established his residence in England, where he executed a second mortgage, without disclosing the first, to Noy Willey. By an existing act of Parliament, he was thus deprived of his exiguity of redemption, and the title vested in Willey, who, in 1731, sold the property above described (except the Jews' burying-ground, and another small parcel) to Christopher Banker, of this city, for £80.

This property, including the swamp, after various transfers, came into the ownership of Anthony Rutgers.

The Rutgers family, who were the most adventurous operators in real estate, were descended from Jan Rutgers, a brewer, in the times of the Dutch, who lived to a goodly age, and in the early part of the last century, his descendants were represented in this city by three brothers—Anthony, Jacobus, and Hermanus—all thriving and far-sighted business men as brewers or merchants, and thoroughly bent on investments in real estate in the suburbs.

After the death of Anthony Rutgers, his heirs and devisees became seized, among other extensive lands, of the property now in question, which extended in front along Pearl street, from near Madison street to near James street, on Chatham square, and thence in a diagonal line to Catharine street, and so to the East river.

In 1747, a map of this property was made, and the lands were divided into building lots. The district was generally called New Batavia, probably from the place of nativity of the original Rutgers' family.

The prices of lots in this tract, at successive periods, are indicated as follows:

1751.—Lot on west side of Roosevelt street; sold by Roosevelt to Hunt, for £50 ($125).

1762.—Lot on James street, 25 feet front, 100 feet deep; sold by Burger to Wandell, for £110 ($275).

1764.—Two lots in Oliver street, 25 feet front, 100 feet deep; sold by Roosevelt to Leveridge, for £140 ($350).

1764.—Lot on present Chatham street, near Roosevelt street, 25 feet front, 118 feet deep; sold by Rutgers to Mellow, for £195 ($488).

1767.—Four lots on James street; sold by Banker to Banker, for £667 ($1,667).

1764.—Two lots on James street, sold by Barclay to Drake for £300 ($750).

1765.—Two lots on south-east corner of present Chatham and Roosevelt streets, sold by Lespinard to Hutchins for £400 ($900).

1768.—Lot on the present Pearl street, 25 feet front, 130 feet deep, sold by Barclay to Arden for £155 ($387).

1771.—Lot on Roosevelt street, 25 feet front, 100 feet deep, sold by Banta to Felthuyser for £127 ($317).

1773.—Lots on west side of Catharine street, 75 feet front, 100 feet deep, sold by Roosevelt to Backhouse for £300 ($750).

THE RUTGERS' FARM ON THE EAST RIVER.

At about the same period that Anthony Rutgers purchased his farm of the Kalchhook, his brother, Hermanus, commenced purchasing the lands for his estate on the East river.

In 1647, the colonial government granted to Cornelis Jacobsen Stille, the bowery number 6, before that time occupied by Wolfert Gerritsen, containing fifty-seven acres. This estate lay between the present Division street and the East river, and extended eastward nearly to Corlears' hook, and on the south-west, included the meadow, before mentioned, as Wolfert's meadow. A part of the property, consisting of about 21 acres, lying along the river-shore, was sold previous to Stille's death, and came into the ownership of John Payne, of Boston.

Stille resided at this place until his death, about the year 1680, and his farm was afterwards held by his son, Jacob Cornelisen Stille.

The first purchase made by Mr. Rutgers was in the year 1728, at which period the heirs of Hendrick Cornelisen Van Schaick (Cornelisen being the family name of Stille, it is supposed Van Schaick came to the estate by inheritance), sold to Hermanus Rutgers, brewer, for the sum of seven hundred pounds, a farm near fresh-water hills, on the east side of Bowery lane, beginning at the north-west corner of the barn, running east along the fence $51\frac{1}{2}$ chains, to N. E. corner of said land, then S. 1° W., along the fence 23 chains to high-water mark, between two large rocks marked with an anchor on each, then along high-water mark, S. $83^{\circ} 30'$, W. 6 chains to the point of rocks, then N. 50° W. 7 chains, then N. $74^{\circ} 30'$ W. 6 chains 35 links, ranging with the fence on the meadow, then from high-water mark N. 7° W. 3 ch. 45 l., then N. 74° E. 3 chains to the division fence between Janeway and Van Schaick, then N. 85° W. 38 chains, to the N. E. corner of the Jews' burying-ground, then N. $16^{\circ} 30'$, W. 4 chains 75 links, then N. $61^{\circ} 30'$, E. 1 chain 80 links, to beginning; bounded N. to land of Gouverneur & Co., E. by same; S. by the river and Janeway's land, and W. by the wagon road, or highway, containing 28 morgens (56 acres), together with six acres of meadow on the East river.

In 1732, Rutgers purchased of the grandson of Payne the land along the river before mentioned, as disposed of by Stille out of his farm, and thus completed his estate, lying between the present Montgomery street on the east, and Catharine street on the south, and between Division street and the East river, a jutting point extending down the present Chatham square.

The original farm-house of the Stille farm was situated at the head of the present Chatham square, on the north-west corner of the present East Broadway. The kitchen stood on the opposite side of East Broadway. Subsequently the Rutgers' mansion was erected on a spot now occupied by the residence of Mr. Crosby, on the block between Monroe, Cherry, Clinton and Jefferson streets.

Mr. Rutgers, in 1750, made his will, by which he devised to his son Hendrick all his farm, except a part of that portion of it which he had purchased of Payne's grandson, containing 1700 feet front, along the river, and two hundred feet in depth, which he directed to be laid out in fifteen lots, and divided among other devisees, streets on front and rear of forty feet width, extending along this portion, both on the river side and in the rear.

In 1755, after the decease of Mr. Rutgers, his whole estate was mapped out into lots, and streets conforming to those now existing were established.

To indicate the value of this property, by sales made previous to the Revolution, the following instances are given.

1762.—One half of lot on present Cherry street, 100 feet front, 200 feet deep, sold at public sale for £310 ($755).

1764.—One half of lot on Cherry street, 100 feet front, 200 feet deep, sold by Marshal to Hardenbrook for £450 ($1,125).

1771.—Lot on east side of Catharine street, 27 feet front, 100 feet deep, sold by Rutgers to Titus for £95 ($237).

BOWERY NUMBER FIVE.

This farm was granted, in 1645, by the Director-General and Council, to Cornelis Clasen Swits. It is described as "land called Bowery number five, on the north of the land of Cornelis Jacobsen Stille, or bowery number six; along said land east, a little south two hundred and forty-two rods; north by east, sixty-eight rods, to Pennebacker's bowery; along the same, west by north, two hundred and thirty rods, and south-west to the wagon road, sixty rods."

This property covered nearly all the present Tenth and Thirteenth Wards. It was subsequently embraced in the estate, which, during the last century, was called Delancey's East and West farms, owned by James Delancey, for some years Lieutenant-Governor of the province. Mr. Delancey's residence was situated on a block near the present Grand and Broome streets, and was surrounded by grounds, handsomely embellished. He died at this place, in the year 1760. His property was inherited by several children, who, during the Revolutionary war, espoused the Royalty party, in consequence of which the estate was confiscated, after the war, and the property sold off in city lots, by officers of government, appointed for that purpose.

The price at which this land was originally purchased by Delancey, will be indicated from the following record of purchase of a portion of his estate:

1744.—Brund Bickley, of England, physician to James Delancey, Chief Justice, in consideration of £200 ($500), a house, farm and land, containing eighteen acres on the east of the Bowery lane, between the land of Isaac Pepers, and the land formerly called the Dominie Sclinius' pasture, but now belonging to, and in possession of James Delancey.

An earlier record of the sale of a part of this estate, made in 1683, containing 147 rods in length, and about 58 rods in breadth, was sold by Wontersen to Ellison for 1500 guilders sewant, equivalent to about one hundred and fifty dollars in sound currency.

PENNEBACKER'S BOWERY.

The farm, so called in the times of the Dutch, probably derived its name from a pay clerk in the government office, familiarly called Pennyback. It was granted in the year 1646 to Gerrit Jansen Van Oldenburg, at which early period it is designated as "formerly" called Pennybacker's Bowery. It is described as extending next the land of Cornelis Clasen Smits, along the wagon-road till to Hans Kiersted's plantation; further on in a straight line through the woods to the land of Leendirt Aerden till to the three roads, containing about ninety acres.

It extended along the east side of the present Bowery, embracing a part of the present Tenth and Seventeenth Wards. It was not sold in lots until subsequent to the Revolution. But parts of it became subdivided, and came at various periods into the hands of different individuals.

The value of land in this vicinity during the last century is indicated by the following instances:

1721.—Fifteen acres, with a house fronting on the Bowery, near the present Stanton street, were sold by Hoppe to Pero, for £250 ($625).

1774.—One acre and thirteen perches, fronting on the Bowery, sold by Hallet to Samler, for £200 ($500).

THE SCHOUT'S BOWERY.

This formed part of what was subsequently Stuyvesant's Bowery, the residence of the Dutch Governor of that name. The name "Schout" is that of an officer with functions similar to those of Sheriff of the present day. It contained fifty acres, and was granted in 1646 to Gerrit Hendricksen. It was not laid out in lots until after the Revolution.

THE MEADOWS.

The extensive tract of meadow land which bordered the East river, east of Corlaer's hook, was divided into pasture lots, and owned by different individuals having farms in the neighborhood. The value of these lands in the last century will be sufficiently indicated by the following:

1733.—Eleven acres sold by heirs of Van Cortland to Rutgers for £25 ($63), or about six dollars per acre.

BYLEVELT'S BOWERY, OR LAENDERT'S FARM.

There were originally cross-roads extending through the present Thirteenth, Tenth and Seventeenth Wards, which met at Laendert's Farm, at a locality called the Four Corners. This property, originally known as Bylevelt's Bowery, was granted to Laendert Aerden in 1645. It originally contained about eighty acres, surrounding the present junction of Houston and First streets, extending to the meadows along the East river. It was not laid out in lots until many years after the Revolution. The early grant to Aerden describes the property as follows: "A farm called Bylevelt's Bowery, lying behind Corlaer's plantation (Corlaer's hook), extending from the valley (swamp), next said plantation to a valley one hundred and seventy rods further on west sixty rods, till to the wagon road, further along the wagon road north by east, a little east one hundred and fifteen rods, then south thirty-five rods, next to the land of the Schout, till to the valley about west."

Although the object of this article is principally to show the operations in unproductive real estate, its conversion from farming lands into building lots, and the relative value of the lots at different periods, it is still, perhaps, not uninteresting to give instances of early sales of property in the part of the city which was first settled, and was not granted in large tracts to individuals, as were the lands above Wall street. Below Wall street, as the lots were mostly built upon, the value of the lots themselves can only be approximately indicated by these sales. Still, however, by the prices of the buildings and lots, an idea of the class and quality of the dwellings of early times is given, which could not so fairly be estimated by other means of description:

ON EAST SIDE OF BROADWAY, BELOW WALL STREET.

1757.—House and lot on west of Whitehall street, between Pearl and State streets, 27 feet front, 81 feet deep, sold by Dobbs to Hunter for £500 ($1250). The description of the boundaries of this lot are interesting, as fixing the localities of two other premises of historic interest, "house and lot on the west of Whitehall street, having on the west the ground of Hendricks, on the south the ground heretofore of Governor Stuyvesant, afterwards of Governor Dongan, on the east Whitehall street, and on the north the house and lot late of Jacob Leisler."

THE "COLLECT," "KOLCK," "KALCHHOOK," OR "FRESH WATER."

The beautiful lake, at various periods of our history, known by the appellations above named, has been at different times mentioned in the previous editions of the Manual, and some accounts of its early history have been casually given. The object of the present article is to show the manner and the time when it was obliterated from the topography of the city by the inevitable process of "filling in and improving;" certainly, the least interesting memento of its existence, except in the practical light, which enables us to appreciate the changes from ancient to modern times.

The Collect is still within the memory of some venerable citizens of New York, but to most of them its existence is only a historical fact. It is presented in old maps, on which its outlines are laid down, but its peculiar topographical features—the noble hills rising abruptly from its sides, the groves upon its borders, the blackberry wilds, which covered the surrounding hills, in many parts, the depth and purity of its waters—these are not brought to mind by maps, and their illustration must be by description or pictorial views.

It will not be regarded as a "twice told tale," if we review its earlier condition, and before recounting its destruction, we show its antecedent history, from the primitive time when it rested in placid beauty, surrounded by the wilderness alone, or the rude fields of Indian culture, to the time when the march of civilization progressed towards its borders, and they became the seat of mechanical industry, and finally to the time when its depths received the earth of the surrounding eminences, and its former site was embraced within the populated parts of the city.

There is little doubt that on the western borders of this lake was situated an Indian village, probably a favorite home of the fierce "Manhatans," described by Hudson, in his itinerary of the discovery of the river called after his name. They appear to have been a nomadic tribe, depending less upon the cultivation of the soil than upon the more precarious methods of subsistence by hunting and fishing. In all the early history of the Christian settlers, no indication is made of the locality of Indian settlements on this island, except from inference. Deposits of shells, which invariably indicate a native settlement, were abundantly strewn over the hill, on the western side of the lake, and gave to that promontory, in early times, the Dutch name of the "Kalchhook," or, as translated, "Lime-Shell Point."

The waters of this little lake were of great depth, and of unusual purity. One of its principal fountains, afterwards well known as "the tea-water spring," supplied a population of ten or twelve thousand inhabitants with water for their favorite beverage. Other, but smaller brooks, trended from different valleys between the surrounding hills, and preserved its pellucid depths. A sparkling brook carried off its waters into the East river, while, towards the North river, stretched a marsh, covering several score of acres, through which streamlets from this pond percolated.

For more than a hundred years after the Christian settlement of the island, fish were abundant in the "Fresh-Water Pond," and were even caught by nets during all that period. By an ordinance of the Common Council, in 1734, it was ordered "that if any person or persons whatsoever do from henceforth presume to put, place or cast into the pond, commonly called Fresh-Water Pond, belonging to this Corporation, any hoop-net, draw-net, purse-net, casting-net, cod-net, bley-net, or any other net or nets whatsoever, and shall take and catch any of the fish within the said pond therewith, or by any other engine, machine, arts, ways or means whatsoever, other than by angling with angle rod, hook and line only, every person so offending against the tenor of this law shall, for every offence, forfeit and pay the sum of twenty shillings current money."

The ownership of this pond was for some time a matter of dispute. It was claimed by the city, as a part of the "unpatented" lands, granted to them by the Dongan Charter, in 1686. About the year 1694, however, Governor Fletcher granted the pond, together with the adjacent meadows, embracing in all about seventy acres, to one John Evans. This grant was, however, annulled in 1698, by act of assembly.

In 1730, Anthony Rutgers, who owned the greater part of the Kalkhook, on the western borders of the pond, petitioned the King in Council for a grant of the swamp and pond, which was granted in 1733.

The conflicting claims between the Corporation and Rutgers' representatives were settled in the year 1791 by the latter executing a release of the pond for the consideration of one hundred and fifty pounds, paid by the Corporation.

After the Revolutionary War, the question as to what should be the permanent regulation of the pond, occasioned considerable discussion. The progress of the city had already formed a considerable settlement around the borders of the pond, and considerable encroachments were made upon its boundaries. The Corporation, therefore, caused a survey of its ancient lines to be made, which was completed in 1790. For the purpose of quieting any question as to the title to the ground under water, it was thought advisable, before adopting any policy in relation to its permanent regulation, to purchase the interest of the Rutgers' heirs. This was effected in the year 1791, the sum before mentioned being paid for a release of their interest. The title thus becoming indisputably in the Corporation, they had the boundaries of the pond staked off to prevent encroachments, and surveys were ordered, with a view to laying out streets, when the pond should be filled in.

Several plans were presented for the permanent regulation of the locality; among others was one, presented in 1766, by Monsieur Mangin, a French engineer, who was then one of the leading men in his profession in the city. His proposition was to make a dock or basin, in the deep water of the Collect, as a harbor for shipping, and to communicate with both the North and East rivers by means of a canal of some forty feet in width.

It was concluded, however, in the following year, not to construct a basin, but to fill in the Collect, the question of a canal being still left open. About the year 1800, the work of filling in the Collect was commenced, and was continued about ten years. The general plan adopted in this work, was to pay five cents per load for earth, delivered and dumped into the pond.

The long time occupied in this labor, occasioned a serious inconvenience to the neighborhood, and the pond, in place of its original beautiful appearance, became a nuisance and an eye-sore; dead animals, and every species of rubbish and offal were thrown into it, and occasioned an insufferable stench. In connection with this subject, it was thought advisable not only to fill up the pond with the cleanest and best earth which could be obtained, but to dig out the bottom, or sediment soil of the pond, which was found to extend to a great depth, and to be composed of decomposed vegetable matter, similar to peat or turf. A great quantity of this soil having been dug out, the question of making it remunerative, by converting it into fuel, was suggested, and during the summer of 1808, many laborers were employed upon this labor, but from some reason it was discontinued after a month or two.

To recur to the project of a canal, which, as before intimated, was proposed to be constructed from the North to the East rivers, passing through the Collect pond. This subject was elaborately discussed during several years. In 1805, a committee, to whom the subject had been referred, reported that they had maturely considered the subject of extending a canal or tunnel from the North to the East rivers, through the fresh-water pond and the meadows adjacent, for the purpose of carrying off the water from the streets that descend thereto, and that they considered that "the only practicable method that can be adopted to produce the desired effect, without injuring the health of the city." The distance between the two rivers is one hundred and four chains and forty links, or 6,830 feet, and the greatest elevation of ground above low water is twelve feet nine inches. The difference of the time of high water in the two rivers, will give a head of water of about sixteen inches every tide, to carry off such filth as might have entered the tunnel." The committee estimated the cost of construction at an average of eight dollars per foot, or about fifty-four thousand dollars in all. They recommended an ordinance, "for the construction of a tunnel to extend on a level from the East to the North river, one foot above low-water mark, and the internal diameter of which should be six feet in the clear."

It remains to say, on the subject of the canal or tunnel, that after some further consideration, it was decided not to communicate in that manner between the rivers. Various projects of open ditches, etc., were next proposed, and for a temporary period were adopted. For some time an open ditch ran through the street then filled up, and called Collect street (now Centre street). The springs around the pond rendered some regulation of this kind necessary. Even as late as 1811, the subject was considered, "how far it would be proper to fill up the Collect, and whether it would not be expedient to leave some of the springs or fountains of it open." But in 1816, we find an ordinance for the regulating and paving of Collect street; some years before that, the lots had been to some extent improved. The state were ceded the old arsenal grounds, and an humble class of buildings (some of which still remain) were erected on the site of the Collect pond.

THE MEADOWS ADJOINING THE COLLECT POND.

It has been mentioned that Anthony Rutgers, in 1733, procured a patent for the meadows or "swamp," and the fresh-water pond. In his petition to the King in Council for this grant, he sets forth the natural condition of this locality as follows: "The said swamp is constantly filled with standing water, for which there is no natural vent, and being covered with bushes and small trees, is, by the stagnation and rottenness of it, become exceedingly dangerous, and of fatal consequence to all the inhabitants of the north part of the city, bordering near the same, they being subject to very many diseases and distempers, which, by all physicians and by long experience, are imputed to the unwholesome vapors occasioned thereby; and, as the said swamp is upon a level with the waters of Hudson and the South (East) rivers, no person has ever yet attempted to clear the same, nor ever can, under a grant thereof, which is to expire with the next new governor; for the expense in clearing the same will be so great, and the length of time, in doing the same, such that it will never be attempted but by a grantee of the fee simple thereof, and as the same can be of no benefit until it is cleared, so no person has hitherto accepted a grant of the said land, but the same hath lain, and still remains unimproved and uncultivated, to the great prejudice and annoyance of the adjacent farms, particularly to a farm of your petitioner's, adjoining thereto, which your petitioner, after having been at a great charge and expense in settling, cannot prevail on any tenant to take the same, or get any servants to continue there for any time while the said swamp remains in its present state."

Attached to the petition were several affidavits, one of which, that of Moses Buchanan, a physician, states that "he having been at New York, from the fifteenth day of April, 1727, to July, 1730, he had several of the inhabitants, who lived bordering on the said swamp, under his care for agues and fevers, which, to the best of his judgment and belief, were occasioned by the unwholesome damp and vapours arising from the said swamp."

It was further alleged, that when the North and East rivers were elevated by the spring or other high tides, their waters ran into and covered the swamp so as to meet one another. The swamp was guarded by rails, as to such parts in which cattle were grazed, so that the animals might be preserved from being swamped and destroyed, which they certainly would be by straying into its miry depths.

The letters patent granted to Mr. Rutgers, required him to drain the swamp within a year from the date thereof, which he proceeded immediately to comply with, and constructed a ditch leading from the fresh-water pond through the meadows, to the North river. His proceedings gave umbrage to the tanners, whose vats were sunk on the south-easterly shore of the pond, and who complained that the waters were lowered by the drain to such an extent as to interfere with their supply; in consequence of which, the drain near the pond was ordered to be filled up. The meadows, however, assumed a different appearance from the system of drainage adopted by Mr. Rutgers, and the bushes being cleared off, a handsome meadow of fifty or more acres, afforded luxuriant pasturage.

As we have mentioned, in connection with the Collect Pond, the question of its improvement, and that of the meadows, became a subject of animated discussion soon after the Revolutionary war. By an act of the Legislature, Commissioners were appointed, to whom was intrusted the subject of the permanent regulation of that part of the city. And it was proposed to drain the meadows by an open canal, which was proposed to be forty feet in width, with lines of streets on each side, of thirty feet in width. During several years, this subject was discussed among those interested in city affairs.

It was at first decided to open a canal from Broadway to the Hudson river. One of the plans for carrying this project into effect, with a perspective of its appearance when completed, is illustrated by the drawing given in connection with this article. The subject and various plans were discussed during several years; as late as March, 1805, a committee of the Common Council reported a resolution in favor of an open canal, to pass through the centre of the proposed street, through the meadows, and recommended that the street be of one hundred feet in width; the width and depth of the canal they left to future consideration.

Canal street (or Duggan street, as it was at one period called, after Mr. Thomas Duggan, a large property owner in its vicinity) was temporarily laid out in 1806, but for a number of years subsequently the general regulation of the meadows was very imperfect. In 1808, property owners presented a petition, representing that upwards of three thousand lots fronting on Canal street and the vicinity, could not be improved or used, owing to the existing state of the street. That the cellars around the Collect, and some of those in Chapel street (now West Broadway), were overflowed with water; that the various plans for regulating Canal street had proved very prejudicial to the proprietors, and that one plan, however imperfect, would prove less injurious than the frequent fluctuations that had before taken place. They, therefore, petitioned that application be made to the Legislature for Commissioners to lay out, regulate and open Canal street; and that the plans adopted for that purpose might be declared permanent. In accordance with this petition, application was made to the Legislature, and an act was passed appointing several distinguished Engineers from other parts of the State as Commissioners. Of these, however, Gouverneur Morris, Simeon De Witt, and Mr. Rutherford, declined acting. The Commissioners who finally accepted were William H. Ireland, Daniel J. Ebbets and Samuel Russell, who entered upon their delicate duty in the summer of 1809.

The necessity of embracing within their action the drainage of the land north of Canal street, which, though laid out upon maps into streets, had not yet received any action as to their permanent grades; it is needless to go into details respecting the scientific difficulties attending this important work; suffice it to say, that after some years the labor was satisfactorily completed, and the tangled swamp became covered with habitations, and its peculiar geographical features, when in a state of nature, are hardly perceptible at the present day.

THE SURVEY AND LAYING OUT OF THE HIGHWAYS

ON THIS ISLAND IN 1707.

THE following report of the Commissioners appointed to lay out the post road, and other public highways, is interesting from its antiquity and importance, as those roads are now almost entirely obliterated. It is given verbatim from the original document:

For this purpose we find certain traders monopolizing particular districts to themselves. Each became acquainted with the savages in a certain vicinity, and periodically visited them, carrying the coveted articles of civilization, and trading them with the natives for furs and wampum.

Another branch of maritime trade which, after a time, engaged the attention of the New Amsterdam merchants, was that with Virginia and the West Indies. In this, vessels of small size were engaged, and the capital required was within the reach of some of our most prosperous traders, and considerable fortunes were acquired through its means.

It is well known that the vessel in which Hudson discovered the river which bears his name, was called the "Half Moon." She was of small dimensions, being of only eighty tons burthen, and so light in draught that she ascended the river (though with some difficulty at the upper part), as far as the present site of Albany. It is somewhat remarkable that at that early period in the history of ocean navigation, vessels of such small size should have been used to explore unknown seas, and to encounter dangers which would deter the most resolute adventurer of modern times. The "Half Moon" entered the lower bay on the 3d of September, 1609, finding there, as her journalist says, "a very good land to fall in with, and a pleasant for to see." On the 6th of September, her boats were sent on an excursion of observation, and passed through the narrows. On the 11th of September the ship weighed anchor, and came up into the upper bay, where she lay until the following day, when she commenced her voyage up the river, her commander, hopeful, it is said, that he might be led into the Pacific ocean, and thus find a short way of passage to the East Indies. Three days were occupied in ascending the river to the Catskill mountains. On the 21st of September, the vessel reached its furthest point of exploration, which was as far as Albany. On the 23d of the same month the return passage was commenced, and on the 4th of October the "Half Moon" passed out into the Atlantic ocean, never to return to our shores. Two years afterwards she was dispatched from Holland on a voyage to the East Indies, but failed to reach her destination: she was wrecked and lost on the island of Manritius in 1611.

The first trading ships between the North river and Holland, were the "Little Fox" and the "Little Crane," which were brought hither in 1611, upon a speculating trading voyage, and spent a considerable time in bartering the trinkets and other trifles, so much coveted by the Indians, for beaver and peltry, of which the country afforded a bountiful supply. The adventure was successful, and we find the "Little Fox," (or "Het Vosje," as she was called in Dutch), repeating her voyages during many subsequent years. She is entitled to a distinguished place in the maritime history of our port, not less as being the pioneer trading ship from the old world, but for her constancy in preserving the connection so happily formed.

In 1614 three vessels were fitted out for the Hudson river, with the design of establishing trading posts in which furs might be collected while the ships were crossing the ocean, and thus save their long detention here. These were called "The Tiger," Schipper Block; "The Fortune," Schipper Corstiaensen; and another vessel, also called "The Fortune," Schipper Mey. By accident, the Tiger was burnt shortly after her arrival; an event which occasioned an era in our maritime history, namely, the building of the first vessel on the shores of our harbor. This boat was thirty-eight feet keel, forty-four and a half feet long, and eleven and a half feet wide. She was used for coasting, and made discoveries of most of the bays and rivers on Long Island Sound, and also navigated the Atlantic coast, and penetrated Delaware Bay. She was the first vessel that passed through Hell-gate; and, upon the whole, the little "Oonrust," (or Restless,) as she was called, may be enrolled upon our record, as peculiarly entitled to be cherished by all New-Yorkers, not only as the child of their creation, but as the means of filling many important little blanks in the cosmogony of the world before unknown to civilized people. Schipper Block was her first navigator; but his ambition would not permit him to remain wedded to his little craft, and he returned to fatherland. Schipper Corstiaensen, captain of the Fortune, met his fate here, having been murdered by an Indian. Schipper Mey was the first Director of the Colony of New Netherland, ten years later, but did not remain here longer than a year.

A trading company was licensed in Holland, in 1615, with exclusive privilege of trade here for three years. This company was principally composed of those who sent out the vessels previously mentioned. Their squadron was composed of the same vessels before mentioned, with the addition of the "Nochtegael" (The Nightingale); and afterwards "The Scheld" (called after the river of that name) and "De Blyde Boodschap" (The Glad Tidings) were added. These ships traded here during six or seven succeeding years, to the great profit of their owners.

In 1621 the country of New Netherland was granted to the great organization called The West India Company. Among the earliest of the vessels dispatched by this company were the ships "New Netherland," of 260 tons burthen, "The Arms of Amsterdam," Schipper Adrian Joris, and the bark "Nassau." The "New Netherland" arrived in the harbor in 1623, and is especially worthy of affectionate regard, as being the first ship which brought out families to found a civilized settlement. She arrived in 1623, having on board thirty families, with cattle, poultry and farming utensils. This notable vessel continued her regular passages here during the whole time of the Dutch possession. She was built expressly for this trade, and named after the colony which she planted on our shores. All honor to the venerable vessel! It is said that an hundred years after her first visit, she was sent here from Holland upon a casual voyage, and was still in good condition.

At this early period the voyages between Holland and New Netherland generally occupied about seven or eight weeks. On clearing the British Channel, they laid their course for the Canary Islands, whence they stretched across the Atlantic toward the Guiana and the Carribbees, and then ran obliquely toward the north-west, between the Bahamas and the Bermudas, until they made the coast.

In 1629 four vessels were dispatched to the "Manhates," as the settlement on this island was called at that period. In 1630, the "Eendracht" (Union) arrived, and is deserving of mention as conveying the first colonists of Rensselaerswyck. On her return voyage, in 1632, having stopped at Plymouth she was detained by the English.

The first ship of war that ever entered our port was "De Troutberg" (The Salt Mountain), of twenty guns, which arrived in 1633, with a company of soldiers to garrison the fort on the south point of Manhattan Island, then just completed.

One of the trading vessels, which afterwards was regularly employed in this port was "The Hope," Schipper Jurian Blanck, which first came hither in

l. 33. This vessel had been captured from the enemy during the preceding year. Her Schipper, Blanck, was the first ship captain who established his residence in this city. The next was Adrian Blommaert, schipper of the ship "New Amsterdam," one of the regular vessels of the company. This gentleman was at one period a city magistrate.

The second ship of war which arrived in our harbor was "The Herring," one of the company's ships; she was of two hundred and eighty tons burthen, carrying two metal, sixteen iron and two stone guns. This formidable vessel brought out the new Director, William Kieft.

It is affirmed that even before this early period several vessels had been built on this island; and the English, who were inimical to the progress of the Dutch in this vicinity, asserted that previous to the year 1632 a ship of considerable burthen had been constructed here, and sent across the ocean. This, however, is a very improbable story.

One of the most notable maritime events, in connection with the early history of this city, was the loss of the ship "Princess," in 1647. She sailed from this city, having on board a valuable cargo, and conveying home the recent Director-General Kieft, together with several principal inhabitants, among whom was Dominie Bogardus, the first clergyman established in this city. The Princess was navigated by mistake into the Bristol channel, struck upon a rock, and was wrecked on the rugged coast of Wales. Towards morning, the ship went to pieces. Kieft, with eighty other passengers, including Dominie Bogardus, were drowned. Of all on board, only twenty were saved. This occurrence shed a deep gloom upon the town, where so many families remained bereft of their dearest relations.

The expedition which was undertaken in 1655 against the interloping Swedes, on the South or Delaware river, was the greatest maritime event in the history of the Dutch in New Amsterdam. This expedition consisted of seven vessels, carrying between six and seven hundred men. The leading vessel was the "Balance," the valiant Captain Frederick De Coninck, commander. There was also a French privateer, called "L'Esperance," engaged for the occasion, three North river yachts and two other vessels. The expedition sailed on the first Sunday in September, 1655, under the command of Governor Stuyvesant, and was entirely successful, having reduced the forts of the enemy without the loss of a man on either side.

The first shipwreck on our coast, of which we have any account, was in 1659. In December of the preceding year three vessels, the "Prince Maurice," the "Bear," and the "Flower of Guelder," sailed for New Netherland, having on board one hundred and sixty-seven colonists. A storm separated the squadron, and the "Prince Maurice," having several principal citizens on board, struck, about midnight, on the south coast of Long Island, at a place called "Sickte-wacky," near Fire Island inlet. The next morning the crew and passengers escaped through the ice to a barren shore, "without weeds, grass, or timber of any sort to make a fire." Assistance being dispatched, all were saved, as was also the cargo. The ship, however, was lost.

We may here mention, in brief, the names of other ships engaged in trade between this port and Holland in the times of the Dutch: "Orange Tree," "Sea Mew," "Three Kings," "Houttyn," (Woodyard,) "Blue Cock," the "New Netherland's Fortune," "Moesmann," the "Whitehorse," (a slaver,) "Great Christopher," "Black Eagle," "Pear Tree," "King Solomon," "De Trow," "Hope."

In connection with the subject of the ships trading between Holland and New Amsterdam, it is proper to say that they were mostly owned by Holland merchants. The only exceptions, of which we are aware, were the "New Netherland Indian" and the "Morning Star," which were owned partly by merchants in this city. The coasters, however, were owned by our principal merchants, among whom may be mentioned, Pieter Cornelisen Vanderveen, Cornelius D'Potter, who, with several other gentlemen, built a small ship, called the "New Love," which is the first three-masted vessel positively known to have been built on our shores. Isaac Allerton, an English merchant, resident in this city, owned the "William and John," a ketch, trading with Virginia. Allerton's great tobacco-house stood on the shore of the East river, near the present Maiden lane; Cornelius Steenwyck, Govert Loockermann, Jacob Leisler, Jacob Backer, Johannes Van Brugh, and other of the leading merchants and traders, were likewise engaged in the coasting trade.

The river trade, as has been mentioned, was carried on in small sloops or yachts, sometimes for itinerant trading purposes, and in other instances these vessels were regular packets between New Amsterdam and the settlements at Esopus (Kingston) and Fort Orange (Albany). The yachts were all provided with a gun, set upon a rest on the deck of the vessel, for the purposes of defense. This was probably the cumbrous matchlock which the soldiers in old times carried, and which they stood upon a rest set on the ground. We find in our old records the complaint of a yacht captain that a ship-carpenter, who had been repairing the vessel, detains his "gun and rest;" and on the occasion of the expected assault upon the city by the English, in 1653, the Burgomasters resolved to privately speak to the skipper of the yacht in the harbor to "keep his match lighted" and his sails bent. We can only give the names of some of the yacht traders in the times of the Dutch.

Isaac Kip, Govert Loockermans, Hendrick Arenzen, Thomas Davidts, Reindert Jansen Hoorn, Arent Leenderzen, Pieter Jacobs Marius, Jan Etsal, Jan Peck (the settler of Peckskill), Reintje Pietersen, E. D. Vanass, Captain De Boogh.

The anchoring place for vessels in the harbor was regulated by law.

All vessels under fifty tons were obliged to anchor between "Capsey hook" (the present Battery) and a guide-board set up on the shore at the present Coenties slip.

Larger vessels were permitted to anchor as far as a second guide-board, which was erected at "Smit's Valley," probably near the present Fulton Ferry.

IN THE TIMES OF THE ENGLISH.

The following interesting extract from the old records, (which is given verbatim,) exhibits the whole of the ships, vessels and boats, owned in the city, at a period twenty years subsequent to the end of the Dutch authority.

VIEW ON MADISON AVENUE, 1859.

THE view on the opposite page illustrates the character of the improvements in a section of the city which presents more changes, from its original character, than probably any other. It is on the east side of Madison avenue, between Thirtieth and Thirty-first streets, being property owned by our esteemed fellow-citizen, Jacob Vanderpoel, Esq., a descendant from one of our old Knickerbocker families. Not far distant formerly stood the House of Refuge. This entire section of the city is being rapidly converted into the Court-end of the town, and is beautified by costly and elegant residences, occupied by many of our principal citizens. It is but a few years since that cultivated fields extended far below the site here indicated.

ORIGINAL PLAN OF SUPPLYING THE CITY WITH WATER,
FROM THE RIVER BRONX, IN 1798.

Report of Committee on Supplying the City with Water. Read and approved Dec. 17, 1778.

THE Committee appointed to investigate the subject of supplying the city of New York with water,

REPORT:

That, being impressed with the importance of the subject, they have considered it with all the care and attention in their power, and incline to the opinion that the Bronx river will afford a copious supply of pure and wholesome water. They incline also to think that the plan suggested by Doctor Joseph Brown for conveying the water of that river is, with some few variations, the most eligible that can be adopted. But as any mistakes in the plan or conduct of the business may be attended with incalculable mischief, they would recommend that Mr. Weston, who has been the engineer for the canal companies in this State, and whose abilities are well known, be requested to examine that river, with the situation of the grounds to be employed in the aqueduct, and such other matters incident to the supply of the city with pure and wholesome water from that or any other source, as he may think proper; and that he be requested to report his opinion to the Corporation, with the requisite plans and estimates, as soon as may be practicable.

Your Committee further report that they have considered the several modes which have been suggested for the execution, either by individuals or by the Corporation, of the plan that may be finally adopted. They are sensible that each of these methods is attended with difficulties; but, considering the immense importance of the subject to the comfort and health of their fellow-citizens, that it will not be undertaken by a company unless upon the prospect of considerable gain, and that such gain must be acquired at the expense of the city, your Committee have at length agreed that the undertaking ought to be pursued by, and under the control of the Corporation, as the immediate representatives of the citizens in general.

Under this impression, and to avoid any further delays which may arise, unless measures are taken to prevent pecuniary embarrassments and other difficulties in the course of the business, your Committee would recommend—

That an act be prepared and presented to the Legislature, investing the Corporation with the powers necessary to effect the great end they have in view, and granting them the moneys arising from the tax upon sales at auction in the said city, with such further aid as the Legislature may think proper to enable them by the reception thereof, or by loans founded thereon, to defray the expenses incident to the undertaking.

MR. WESTON'S REPORT ON SUPPLYING THE CITY WITH WATER. READ AND FILED MARCH, 1799.

City of New York, ss:

At a Common Council held on Saturday, the 16th day of March, 1799, the following Report of William Weston, Esq., on the practicability of introducing the water of the River Bronx into this city, made at the request of this Board, was read, and ordered to be printed, viz:

SIR: In compliance with the request contained in your letter of the 18th of December last, I have taken the earliest opportunity which my engagements and the state of the weather would permit, to ascertain the practicability of introducing the water of the Bronx into the city of New York; the result of which investigation I have now the honor of transmitting to you, requesting that you will lay the same before the Common Council, who, as the immediate guardians of the city, must feel peculiarly anxious to possess such information on the subject as may enable them to determine upon the propriety of the measures necessary to be taken to accomplish that important object.

I am sensible that estimates of the expense attendant on the execution, would have been a desirable piece of information; but a wish to render them as accurate as the uncertainty of the business will admit, induces me to request a further indulgence of time to procure information on several material points, essential to be known, previous to the completion of the necessary calculations, but with which I am at present unacquainted.

Though the amount of the expense ought, and doubtless will, have a proper degree of influence on the final decision, yet perhaps it is not a disadvantage, in the first instance, that the question should be determined on its abstract merits alone.

In an object of this nature, the first point to be fixed, is the quantity of water necessary to be delivered in a given time: was nothing more required than a sufficiency for culinary and other domestic uses, the matter might be easily ascertained. But as the principal object of this undertaking is the introduction of a copious and constant supply for cleansing and cooling the streets, it becomes a question of importance to determine, as near as may be, the amount of the required demand. Several specific quantities have been mentioned, but in my opinion they are all inadequate to the contemplated purpose. In this, as in all other undertakings, I conceive it to be an object of the first consequence to have the effect dependent on the will, and where, from the nature of the thing, no certain conclusions can be obtained, it is wisest to err on the safe side.

Whatever doubts may be entertained of this deduction as a general principle, I believe there can be none, respecting the propriety of it in the present instance; for, however great the amount of the surplus water may be, there are a variety of useful and productive purposes to which it may be advantageously applied. Proceeding on this ground, I have endeavored to calculate, as near as the want of sufficient data would enable me, the minimum quantity necessary to be introduced in twenty-four hours.

Though conclusions deduced from hydraulic principles of the expense of water issuing from pipes of given diameters, placed on the summits of the several streets, would have been much preferable to vague guesses; yet the infinite variety of cases, arising from different degrees of depression below, and distance from, the principal reservoir, would have rendered the operation a very laborious one, and, from a variety of causes, the result very uncertain. Indeed, every mode with which I am acquainted, may be objected to on the latter principle; but though it is perhaps impossible to ascertain the exact truth, we must endeavor to approximate as near thereto as possible. Conceiving it to be the intentions of the gentlemen who have recommended the measure of washing the streets, as essential to the health of the citizens, to have a regular and plentiful current of water running at least twelve hours every day, through all the streets, by means of pipes placed at their respective summits, producing an effect similar to what we may observe to be done by a moderate shower of rain of the same duration; calculating, therefore, the area of the city, the quantity of water usually descending in the time above mentioned, and making due allowance for such parts of the general surface as are pervious to water, we shall obtain a result that perhaps on the whole will be as near the truth as can be done by any other mode, and sufficient to answer every purpose required. I find that the area of the city, bounded by the East and North rivers, and the intersection of them by Grand street, is upwards of 750 acres, and, making an allowance of 350 for public squares, gardens, and other unpaved surfaces, we have a remainder of 400 acres, which, being unpenetrable to the rain, all that falls on that surface must be discharged by means of the channels of the different streets into the adjacent rivers. I have made various inquiries, but have not as yet received any correct information of the quantity of water produced by a moderate shower of twelve hours' continuance; I am, therefore, under the necessity of assuming as a fact, what may hereafter be proved to be erroneous, though I have reason to believe that my calculations will not be found to be overrated.

Fixing, therefore, the depth, as shown by the rain-gage at one-fourth of an inch, we shall find the total amount to be 363,000 cubic feet, or 2,221,560 ale gallons, and adding to this, 778,440 gallons as an adequate supply for domestic consumption, we shall have three millions of gallons to be introduced into the reservoir every twenty-four hours.

I beg leave to observe, that an increase or diminution of the above quantity may be effected by one of the plans submitted to your consideration, without materially altering the design or enhancing the estimate, while by the other, the expense will be nearly proportioned to the quantity required. I offer the preceding calculations merely as an essay to determine a point, which as yet has remained undiscussed, though of such importance that I deem it the basis of the whole work. I shall readily yield to any valid reasons that may be produced in support of variations from the above conclusions.

The quantity requisite being determined, the next point to be ascertained, is from what sources it can be most conveniently derived. I am acquainted with but two modes that deserve any consideration. The first is the introduction of a part or the whole of the waters of the Bronx; the second is a supply obtained from the springs of the Collect. As this question has much agitated the public mind, and each plan in its turn been extolled or decried by their respective advocates and opponents, it has produced (what is too frequently the effect of a collision of sentiments) a more obstinate attachment to preconceived opinions. I do not, therefore, expect that any arguments which I shall produce, will reconcile the jarring interests; yet I trust that the statement I shall offer, (and it is the result of some experience and reflection,) will enable those whose province it is to judge of the merits and disadvantages of the different plans, to select that which, on the whole, shall be most conducive to the public welfare.

In order to form a correct opinion on the subject, it is necessary to take into consideration the efficiency of supply—the quality of the water, as it respects the different uses to which it is to be applied, and the expense of execution.

On the first of these heads, I am aware that it has generally been believed, and pretty confidently maintained, that at those seasons when the demand will be greatest and most essential, that the waters of the Bronx are wholly inadequate; these assertions have been made with a degree of positiveness that would induce one to believe they were founded on the most careful and accurate experiments, which I have every reason to imagine have as yet never been made, instead of which, I have no doubt they are the random guesses of superficial observation. The question is of such importance, that we ought to be very careful that we proceed upon the most certain ground. In a matter of this consequence, I may be allowed to be a little diffuse.

It is evident that at the period when the greatest supply of water is wanted, there will, from natural causes, be the least quantity furnished; this is a common principle, applicable to all rivers and springs; the very few examples to the contrary, are mere exceptions to the general rule. This circumstance has created doubts in the minds of many persons of the efficiency of the Bronx. Previous to my examination of that stream, I had regretted that proper experiments had not been made at the season above alluded to, as then the fact would have been ascertained beyond all dispute. It is universally allowed that, for the greatest part of the year, there is a superabundant quantity; what the diminution may be, is not now easily ascertained; we must rely altogether upon the information of those persons whom a long residence has afforded the best opportunities of judging of its usual decrease; but, as not materially interested on the subject, we cannot expect any considerable degree of accuracy in their observations. Allowing for this circumstance, I have been careful to take the lowest average of the results of three distinct cases, founded on the best data I could procure, and applying to them well-known hydraulic laws. I am persuaded that the natural stream of the Bronx alone, if conveyed without waste, would be fully adequate to the supply before mentioned; but, fortunately, a minute accuracy is not required, as will appear by the following account of the whose principal source is from a lake, about four miles to the northward of the White Plains, known by the name of Rye Pond. This is a beautiful sheet of water, upwards of a mile in length, containing, as appears from an old survey, upwards of 500 acres of water, which, flowing from the outlet, is received into another pond, a short distance below, whose area exceeds fifty acres. From this pond it descends, with a rapid current, upwards of a mile to Mr. Robins's mill; a few rods below which, it unites with the other branch of the Bronx. This last, which has its origin in a swamp a few miles to the northward, retains the name of the Bronx to its source; yet it is the least considerable stream, particularly in the summer, when it is reduced to a small current; while the other branch is sufficiently large to turn an overshot wheel twelve hours out of twenty-four, in the driest times. Rye Pond is bounded by high and bold shores, which, tending towards each other at the outlet, are admirably calculated for the formation of an immense reservoir. This being filled during the winter and spring, may be retained until the month of July, when the natural supplies begin to diminish; it may then be discharged periodically, so as to afford any given quantity of water that may be requisite for the use of the city. This lake is supplied wholly by springs, many of which are internal, and few of the others originate more than a mile from the head. These are so constant and copious, that no doubt can arise of their capacity to fill the reservoir to the contemplated height of six feet, which may easily be effected by throwing a dam across the outlet of the lower pond. This would form a sheet of water of more than 600 acres in extent, containing 959,713,920 gallons of water; affording (independent of the natural stream of the Bronx,) a diurnal supply of nearly eight millions of gallons for 120 days, three-eighths of which quantity is sufficient for our purpose. The surplus, five millions, may be given to the mills below the point of partition; so that, instead of injuring (and consequently recompensing them for the damages) the mills on the Bronx, as has been generally apprehended, they will derive essential benefits from the measure. Having, I flatter myself, removed the doubts of the most incredulous, respecting the efficiency of the supply to be derived from the Bronx; it remains to examine the competency of the waters of the Collect. The general bias of opinion seems to lean in favor of this scheme; and if it can be made satisfactorily to appear that the required supply can be obtained from this source, I am ready to allow that it is a work that would be soonest accomplished, and attended with the least expense. But we ought to be extremely cautious in hazarding an experiment where the cost would be so great, and the event so doubtful. The question is of infinite importance, and, unfortunately, one that cannot be determined by abstract reasoning. The capacity of the Collect has been attempted to be proved by its present extent; but that, in my mind, is a most fallacious mode of reasoning; for, however great that may be, a powerful steam engine would soon exhaust it, unless replenished with numerous and copious springs. On these alone, therefore, it is evident we must depend, and I know of no other mode of estimating their combined effect than by calculating the quantity of water issuing from the outlet of the Collect, which, even at this time, is so inconsiderable as scarce to deserve attention, and, if my information is correct, it ceases to flow altogether in the summer. I am sensible that we should not too hastily conclude that the above is the total amount of the supply that may be derived from this source.

I think it very probable that, from the nature of the surrounding ground, which is a coarse and porous gravel, a considerable portion thereof may percolate through, into the adjacent rivers. Much, and perhaps the greatest quantity, is also daily drawn off by the Tea-water Pump, which, from its vicinity, I have no doubt, is supplied from the same source. It is true, that by sinking deeper into the earth, an augmentation of quantity would be procured; yet, if we went lower than the surface of the tide-water, I apprehend that the quality would be materially injured. Leaving the question, as I fear it will remain, undetermined, we next proceed to examine the quality of the respective waters. To appreciate their merits fairly, we should judge of their utility by the extent of their application. Proceeding on this ground, I believe it may be safely affirmed that the water of the Bronx is at least equal to that of the Collect, though this is contrary to the general opinion; the only reason that I can perceive for the preference usually given to the last mentioned, arises solely from its superior coolness: however grateful this may be to our feelings, it does not follow that it is equally conducive to our health; for whatever degree of purity it may now possess, the period is not very remote when, from the natural increase of the city, these springs must be subject to those contaminations which have already rendered so many wells unfit for use; an evil that is daily increasing, and to which no effectual remedy can be applied. This, to me, has ever appeared an insurmountable objection. The idea of supplying a large city with pure water from a reservoir in its centre, has always been a very strange one to me. From the representations made respecting the water of the Bronx, I believe many persons have hastily concluded that it was unfit for use. When it is considered that the principal cities in Europe are necessarily supplied from rivers, and with water generally taken from those parts which, from a variety of causes, are most impure, and yet that the experience of ages has not evinced any known ill effects arising from the practice, I conceive that little fears will be entertained of the salubrity of the water of the Bronx, which is a collection of innumerable springs, issuing from a rocky and gravelly country, and running, with a rapid current, over a bed of the same materials. It will be conveyed into the city without any additional impurity, and, ere it is distributed from the reservoir, will, by a mode of purification hereafter described, be rendered as clear as spring water.

The next object to be ascertained is the practicability and probable expense of accomplishing the respective plans. And here it may not be amiss to observe, that in a matter of such immense consequence to the present and future convenience and welfare of the city, every local view, every subordinate consideration, should yield to the general good—that a regard to the primary object alone should decide the question, regardless of a paltry difference of expense, or the immediate emolument to be derived from the undertaking. On the first of the above-mentioned heads there have been a diversity of opinions, which, previous to an actual survey, was not to be wondered at. These doubts must now be removed, as it appears from the examination that has been recently made, that the Bronx is sufficiently elevated above the highest parts of the city to introduce its waters therein without the aid of machinery; and the intermediate ground, though very irregular, presents no obstacles which art and industry may not surmount. A general view of the subject is all that I am now able to present, and all that is necessary to be known, in this stage of the business. An outline of the plan I would recommend for adoption, as best adapted to the varying face of the country, will be sufficient to enable you to form a tolerably correct idea of the eligibility of the measure. The best situation I have yet seen to draw the water from the Bronx, is a short distance above Mr. Lorillard's snuff-mill. A break in the western bank enables us to divert the stream, by means of a dam thrown across it, without any difficulty. The water being raised six feet above its natural level, will flow over a small swamp, from which originates the little rivulet called Mill brook; following the direction of this stream, a canal may be drawn along its northern bank at a small expense, for the distance of three miles, when the ground falling off rapidly, renders it necessary to cross the valley in which Mill brook runs, by means of an aqueduct, to the opposite rising ground, along which the level may be preserved to the heights above Harlem river. An open, walled canal, will be the cheapest mode of conveying the water so far; a little loss is not material, as a small increase in the section will remedy such waste. A declivity of six inches in a mile, with a section of 1152, and linear border of 89 6-10ths inches, will occasion a velocity in the current sufficient to introduce into the small reservoir at the extremity of the canal 6 cubic feet of water per second, which is more than the quantity required, supposing the daily supply to be three millions of gallons. The most difficult and expensive part of the route will be the conveyance of the water across Harlem river. The most eligible mode of effecting this, appears to me to be by means of cast iron cylinders, of two feet diameter, with a difference of 8 feet between the extremities. This descent will produce a velocity of 22½ inches per second, yielding, in that time, 5 95-100ths cubic feet, while the required quantity is only 5 65-100ths. From the cylinder to the reservoir it is a matter of consequence to preserve as much of the water as possible; to effect this object, the bottom and sides should be rendered impervious to that element. An absolute necessity to preserve a regular and uniform descent, leaves us little room in the choice of our route, which will be chiefly along the shore of the North river. The quality and make of the ground vary much. The greatest impediments are occasioned by the numerous ravines which intersect the line of the canal. Over all these, aqueducts must be constructed. The level may thus be preserved upwards of six miles, or within two miles of the city; there it descends so much, that unless higher ground can be found, it will again be necessary to have recourse to iron cylinders to convey the water into the Grand Reservoir, which may either be placed in the Park, or a vacant piece of ground to the northward of the Hospital, either of which are sufficiently elevated to distribute the water through all parts of the city. The total distance from the Bronx to the Park is 14 miles, 7 furlongs, and the descent twenty-three feet. It is to be observed that the principal object of this survey being to ascertain the practicability of the plan, and neither my time nor the season permitting that minute investigation which is necessary to be made, previous to the commencement of any operations, there is a probability that advantageous deviations may be made from the route pursued.

Although the form and dimensions of the reservoir are objects of importance, it is now premature to point out the particular mode of construction I would recommend to be adopted. Yet it may not be improper to give a general outline thereof, as perhaps it may tend to remove many of the prejudices which have been entertained against the supposed impurities of the waters of the Bronx. It is proposed to divide the reservoir into three parts, two of which will again be subdivided, each of these minor divisions capable of containing a daily supply of water. The first division, or reservoir of reception, will contain the water as immediately delivered by the cylinder of discharge. While one of its subdivisions is filling, the other, in a quiescent state, will be depositing the adventitious matter, with which the water may be intermixed. After so remaining twenty-four hours, it will be drawn off by an aperture near the bottom, (so as to prevent any buoyant particles from entering,) into the reservoir of filtration, where it will still further purify itself, by gradually depositing the remaining sediment, until it is finally received into the reservoir of distribution, after percolating through a bank of washed sand and gravel, in imitation of that natural process to which all water owes its purification. This last reservoir it is proposed to arch over, so as to preserve the water pure and cool; from hence it will be distributed, in separate and distinct pipes, through every part of the city.

The water destined to cleanse and cool the streets may be taken immediately from the reservoir of reception, as I conceive it is not necessary that it should be very pure.

The surplus water, which for a considerable part of the year will not be wanted for washing the streets, may be applied to a variety of purposes, but perhaps to none more useful or advantageous than the supplying of dry-docks, which may be constructed to receive the largest ships.

If the water in the Collect is deemed adequate to all the purposes of domestic consumption, it must be raised, by means of a steam engine, into a reservoir. The situation before mentioned will, in this case, be very convenient. Although one engine might be constructed so as to raise both the water for washing the city and for family use, yet, as from the quantity necessary to be raised, it would be unwieldy in its parts, and more liable to accident, and, also, as two-thirds of its power would be useless the greatest part of the year, I believe it will be most advisable to erect two. The first, destined to raise the water for cleansing the streets, placed at the foot of the hill to the northward of the Hospital, which would be supplied with water from a reservoir made in the adjacent low ground. This would be replenished twice in twenty-four hours by the tide, by means of an open canal, or culvert, communicating with the reservoir. The small engine might be placed near the other, the pump well being supplied with water from the Collect, conveyed in a culvert or pipes. The following calculations of the dimensions of the largest engine will be found sufficiently correct to enable you to form a tolerable idea of the annual expense attendant on it. Admitting the quantity (as before calculated) to be sufficient, we find that 2,200,000 gallons, or 359,640 cubic feet, must be daily raised. Supposing the engine to work sixteen hours out of twenty-four, we have 22,477 feet to be raised every hour, or nearly 375 every minute; estimating ten strokes to be made in a minute, each stroke must yield $37\frac{1}{2}$ feet ; but as pumps generally fail in producing the calculated quantity, say 40 feet per stroke ; and if the lengths of the strokes are 8 feet, it will require a pump of 30 27-100ths inches diameter. But a pump of that dimension would not answer in practice ; it will be necessary, therefore, to diminish the diameter, and increase the number of pumps ; six of 12 3-10ths inches will be equal in area to that before mentioned. As the water would be raised about 50 feet, the weight of the column would be 15,613 lbs., which would require a cylinder of 44 2-10ths inches diameter (allowing the active power of Mess. Bolton & Watts's engines to be 8 lbs. on every circular inch). Such an engine would consume about 330 lbs. of coal per hour.

Having thus given you every information necessary to be known for your guidance, I shall conclude by remarking that my objections to the Collect—being founded on the doubts I entertain of its efficiency to supply the annually increasing demand of this improving city, and to the contamination its waters will be subject to—will be done away altogether, when it shall be made to appear that they are groundless. In such a case, there can be no question which plan is most eligible, as it respects the time and expense of execution.

MONSIEUR DU BUC'S PLAN OF DEFENSE.

WHEN, in anticipation of a naval assault upon the city, about the commencement of the last war with Great Britain, our citizens were greatly exercised in adopting the best means of resistance, a French gentleman, named Du Buc de Marintille, made a proposition to the City Corporation, which excited considerable attention at the time.

In his first communication to the Common Council, in April, 1808, he commenced by saying that it is natural to place but little confidence in strangers presenting novel propositions; but to give some idea of his pretensions to respect, he gave some account of himself. He stated that he had matured his plan of harbor defense, during ten years of military service, and had kept it a profound secret. As to his character in general, he could say, that in the French revolution he was in correspondence with many distinguished characters, and had been complimented with the cordón rouge, or red ribbon; and that he had held the confidence of several officers in America. He considered his proposition the fairest that could be imagined, since it afforded the prospect of immense benefit, without the risk of any loss. He then proceeded to discuss the objections to the plans of defense, which were then under consideration by the Corporation, viz: the construction of blocks and chevaux de frise, to obstruct the channels. Having pointed out the inefficacy of these means, he intimated that, from the character of his criticisms, the Corporation might infer what benefit might arise from listening to a man who, while thus demonstrating the futility of other means, says he can give a much better plan—one very powerful, very economical, no ways injuring the harbor, and one which would answer especially the port of New York. "Why, then," he asks, "should such a person not be heard? Why should he not be enabled to show that, with much less, perhaps, than one-fourth the cost of so many useless fortifications, he can protect the town against any force?"

The communication of Monsieur Du Buc was referred to a committee of the Common Council, who, on the 16th May, reported that they had had an interview with that gentleman, and were of opinion that he was a man of education talents and military experience. It was further reported, that Monsieur Du Buc proposed to make a full disclosure of his plan to the Corporation, and to give them fourteen days for its consideration; and if they saw fit to adopt it, he demanded the sum of sixty thousand dollars. The committee appreciated the possible importance of his plan, but thought that if the city assumed such a responsibility, they should be indemnified by the general government, to whom the subject belonged; and, therefore, they reported a resolution, that the Mayor communicate with the President of the United States, on the subject, stating the willingness of the Corporation to enter into an arrangement with Monsieur Du Buc, if government would provide for the ultimate payment of the money. Their report was adopted, and the Mayor communicated with the Executive government.

The Secretary at War answered, that the proposition of Monsier Du Buc was of so unusual and extraordinary a nature as to bar any action on the subject; but if he would state explicitly what his system of defense was, it could then be judged of, and, if not approved, or if not considered of sufficient importance to entitle him to so large a sum as he demanded, the government would agree that no use should be made of his system, nor any disclosure of it be made.

This letter being referred to a committee of the Common Council, they reported (June 13, 1808), that after another interview with Monsieur Du Buc, they were confirmed in their favorable opinion of his character and abilities, and that the letter of the Secretary at War was unsatisfactory, as it held out no compensation to the inventor, though it should be adopted with success in all the harbors of the United States. The committee concluded with offering a resolution that the Corporation would guarantee to Monsieur Du Buc $60,000, on condition that he made known his plans of defense, and that it be adopted by the government for the harbor of New York.

In settling upon the details of the agreement, the following heads of propositions were submitted to Mr. Du Buc, by the Corporation:

After the disclosure of the project, a definitive answer should be given in three months.

If adopted, the money should be guaranteed to him. If not adopted at present, the Corporation would guarantee the same sum if adopted at any future period within ten years.

The Corporation and Monsieur D. disagreed upon the proposed terms; a long discussion followed, which extended to the close of the year; but it would seem that no definite result was come to, and that the secret of Monsieur Du Buc's system of harbor defense, was not brought to practical application in the port of New York.

While upon this subject, it may be interesting to give diagrams of some of the proposed means of harbor defense, at that time under consideration of the city government.

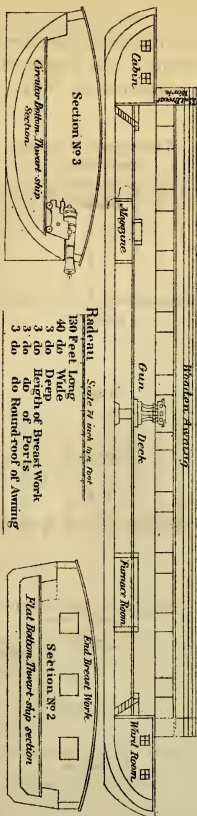

EXPLANATIONS.

The Radeau, or Floating Battery, calculated for the defense of harbors, of the dimensions in the draft. The vessel will be one hundred and thirty feet long, forty feet broad and twelve feet deep, from the pitch of the awning to the bottom of the hold.

It is to be moored by a cable at each end, with springs, and to move in either direction by means of warps; having two bows, and at each end a rudder to ship and unship. It will have twenty-six ports—ten at each side, and three in a breast-work at each bow. It is calculated for twenty-two twenty-four-pounders, the four corner guns in the breast-work, turning on pivots, and serving also the four side ports contiguous. The waist and breast-works are to be three feet thick, and, of course, cannon-proof—as a thirty-two pound shot has been found, on experiment, to penetrate timber only to the depth of thirty inches. The awning is to be of wood, and musquet-proof. The radeau is to be provided

The men are to sleep in hammocks, on the gun-deck, and their effects to be placed in the hold beneath it. The men will be protected by the breast-work from the cannon of vessels, and by the awning from the musquetry. The Radeau is also calculated to row on shallows, as it will draw but very little water.

THE map and views presented on the opposite page, are copied from the cuts on an ancient powder horn, which was kindly loaned to the compiler of this volume, by Mr. W. St. John, the distinguished hatter in Broadway. It is apparently the work of an artistical soldier in the British army in the time of the Revolution, or at any rate subsequent to the old French war. Although its relative measure of distances is so inaccurate as to provoke a smile, yet it is sufficiently curious to be perpetuated as a relic of the olden time.

TRANSLATION OF A LETTER,

SENT BY THE BURGOMASTERS AND SCHEPENS OF NEW AMSTERDAM TO THE WEST INDIA COMPANY, DESCRIBING THE TAKING OF THE CITY BY THE ENGLISH IN 1664.

Right Honorable Prudent Lords, the Lords Directors of the Honorable West India Company at the Amsterdam Chamber:

RIGHT HONORABLE LORDS:—

WE, your honor's loyal, sorrowful and desolate subjects, cannot neglect nor keep from relating the event which through God's pleasure thus unexpectedly happened to us in consequence of your honor's neglect and forgetfulness of your promise, to wit: the arrival here of late of four king's frigates from England, sent by his Majesty and his brother the Duke of York hither, with commission to reduce not only this place, but also the whole of New Netherland, under his Majesty's authority, whereunto they brought with them a large body of soldiers provided with considerable ammunition. On board one of the frigates were about four hundred and fifty as well soldiers as seamen, and the others in proportion.

The frigates being come together in front of Najac in the bay, Richard Nicolls, the Admiral, who is ruling here at present as Governor, sent a letter to our Lord Director-General, communicating therein the cause of his coming and his wish.

On this unexpected letter, the Heer General sent for us to determine what was to be done in the matter. Whereupon it was resolved and decided to send some Commissioners thither to argue the matter with the General and his three Commissioners, who were so sent for this purpose twice, but received no answer but that they were not come here to dispute about it, but to execute their order and commission without fail, either peaceably or by force; and if they had any thing to dispute about it, it must be done with his Majesty of England, as we could do nothing here in the premises. Three days' delay was demanded for consultation. That was duly allowed, but meanwhile they were not idle. They approached with their four frigates, two of which passed in front of the fort. The other anchored about Nooten Island, and with five companies of soldiers encamped themselves at the ferry opposite this place, together with a newly raised company of horse and a party of new soldiers, both from the North and from Long Island, mostly all our deadly enemies, who expected nothing else than pillage, plunder, and bloodshed—as men could perceive by their cursing and talking, when mention was made of a capitulation.

Finally, being then encircled round about, we saw little means of deliverance. We considered what ought to be done, and after we had well inquired into our strength, and had found it to be full fifteen hundred souls in this place; but of them, not two hundred and fifty men capable of bearing arms, exclusive of the soldiers, who were about one hundred and fifty strong, wholly unprovided with powder, both in the city and in the fort; yea, not more than six hundred pounds were found in the fort, besides seven hundred pounds that is unserviceable. Also, because the countrymen, the third man of whom was called out, refused, we, with the greater portion of the inhabitants, considered it necessary to remonstrate with our Lord Director-General and Council, that their honors might consent to a capitulation, whereunto we labored according to our duty, and had much trouble. Laid down and considered all the difficulties which should arise therefrom, not being able to resist such an enemy, as they could also receive a much greater force than they then had under command.

The Director-General and Council at length consented thereunto: whereupon Commissioners were sent to the Admiral, who notified him that it was resolved to come to terms, in order to save the shedding of blood, if a good agreement could be concluded.

Six persons were commissioned on each side for the purpose of treating on this matter, which they have done, and concluded in manner as appears by the articles annexed. How that will result, time will tell.

Meanwhile, since we have no longer to depend upon your honor's promises or protection, we, with all the poor, sorrowing and abandoned commonalty here, must fly for refuge to the Almighty God, not doubting but He will stand by us in this sorely afflicting conjuncture, and no more depart from us.

And we remain your sorrowful and abandoned subjects,

THE WIFE OF JACOB LEISLER.

THE personal history of Elsie Leisler, whose autograph we give on the opposite page, though it has little in relation to her own character to attract attention, yet, from her relation to the principal actor in the events of 1689, a peculiar interest attaches to her name.

Her father, Govert Loockermans, was among the earliest emigrants to this city, having arrived here in the ship-of-war Soutberg, the same which brought the second Director-General (Van Twiller) to the colony in the year 1633. Having been for some time engaged as a clerk in the West India Company's service, he soon after engaged in trade on his own account, and amassed a fortune in the fur trade on the North river. When foreign trade was opened to merchants of New Amsterdam, Mr. Loockermans extended his operations, and became a considerable ship-owner.

Mr. Loockermans married Marritje Jaus, and established his residence on the present north side of Hanover square (Pearl street), his property there lying east of, and adjoining to William street. He built a respectable mansion there, one of the best then in the city, and there the subject of this sketch resided until womanhood. She married at a youthful age, Pieter Cornelisen Vanderveen, then recently become an inhabitant of this city. He came hither with means to establish a mercantile business on a large scale, and soon after became the principal projector of the first three-masted vessel known to have been built in this colony. This was a small ship, called the "New Love." Mr. Vanderveen, shortly after his marriage, erected the first house built of brick erected in this city. This was situated on the present westerly side of Whitehall street, between Pearl and State streets. In front of these premises lay what was then known as "the Strand," which was a shelving sandy beach of considerable extent. This was a common stand for country wagons, bringing produce to the city, and from its being the market-place, a design was formed to inclose it, and make a green or park, and thus afford the conveniences of public use, while it improved the town. Mr. Vanderveen urged this improvement as a fair return for his own liberal expenditure on his brick house, but unsuccessfully.

The conjugal life of Mr. Vanderveen, at his new place of residence, was of short duration. He died in the year 1661, leaving his youthful widow a handsome estate, and without children. She, as was then customary, pursued her husband's business after his death, and until her marriage with Jacob Leisler.

This celebrated character arrived in this city in the year 1660, being then a young man. He was originally in the military department of the West India Company; but after his arrival here, he yielded to the temptations of trade, and it is believed was at first a clerk with Vanderveen, and after the death of the latter, superintended the concerns of the estate, and finally married the widow, and thus became at once among the leading citizens and merchants. Success followed his mercantile pursuits, which were of an extensive character, and were connected with Holland, as well as the American coasting trade. On one of his voyages to Holland, he was taken by Moorish pirates, and was ransomed by his wife by the payment of a large sum. The leading part he took in the Revolution of 1689-90, and the melancholy end of his life on the gallows in May, 1691, need not be particularized here, as they are familiar to most readers of our municipal history. Some passages, however, from his dying speech, will be given, as illustrating his domestic habits and his regrets for the affliction of his family. He invoked the mercy of God upon "that poor family unto which we did formerly belong: our only comfort in this case is that God has promised to take care for the widows and fatherless, recommending them all this dying moment into the hands of One that is able and willing to save those that seek Him, desiring them to put their perpetual confidence in the mercies of One that never faileth, and not to weep for us that are departing to our God, but rather to weep for themselves that are here behind us, to remain in a state of misery and vexation. Gentlemen, you will, I hope, all Christian-like, be charitable to our poor, distressed family that are to remain among you."

The condition of his family at that period may be easily imagined, for, with its paternal head, was also executed the husband of his eldest daughter (Jacob Milborn), and thus the widow, daughter, and younger children, were bereft of their chief protectors. The event of that execution was probably the most exciting and melancholy that ever occurred in this city. The populace, who for the most part sympathized with the party of Leisler, but who were kept down by the strong hand of power, gave vent to their feelings in a universal cry of grief and lamentation. The feelings then engendered remained during many after years, and were productive of important political events.

As the attainder of Leisler was for high treason, his estate was decreed to be forfeited. Mrs. Leisler gave up her business, and removed to the old homestead of her father on Hanover square, where she afterwards resided until her death. But the attempt to sell the family property was prudently not made by the provincial government, and the widow was allowed its use. Finally, by act of Parliament, a few years subsequently, the attainder of Leisler was reversed, and the estate formally restored to the heirs. The children of Leisler were four in number, one of whom (the eldest), as has been said, was married, before his death, to Jacob Milborn, who was executed at the same time with his father-in-law. This lady afterwards married Abm. Gouverneur. An only son grew up to years of manhood, but died at an early age, it is believed, unmarried—certainly childless. One daughter married Robert Walters, a merchant, who was subsequently Mayor of the city; another daughter married a son of Alderman Thomas Lewis, who was next-door neighbor to Mrs. Leisler, on the corner of Hanover square and the present William street.

Mrs. Elsie Leisler lived many years on the old homestead of her father. Her family misfortunes surrounded her with sympathetic neighbors, but she maintained a reserved and humble deportment, mixing but little with the world, and confining herself to her own domestic sphere. Even in business matters, as will be seen from the apologetic tone of the document to which her signature is appended, she hesitated to obtrude her interests upon public notice. At the date of this document, she must have attained a very advanced age, and the freedom and strength of her handwriting is somewhat remarkable.

MARY DELANOY.

The autograph of this lady is copied in connection with her petition to the Common Council. She was the wife of the first Mayor of the city chosen by popular suffrage. Her husband was the friend and adherent of Leisler, during whose administration Mr. Delanoy occupied the position of Mayor. The lady was a native of this city, and a school companion of Mrs. Leisler. Her husband was a merchant of this city.

PAPERS RELATING TO THE GRANTS OF MUNICIPAL PRIVILEGES TO THE CITY OF NEW YORK, PRIOR TO DONGAN'S CHARTER OF 1686.*

FIRST APPLICATION FOR A MUNICIPAL FORM OF GOVERNMENT.

To the Noble High and Mighty Lords, the Lords States General of the United Netherlands, our Most Illustrious Sovereigns:

GRACIOUS LORDS:—

THIS province of New Netherland having been reduced, in the course of time, to a very sad and utterly ruinous condition, in consequence, as we presume, of firstly: An unsuitable government. Secondly. Scantiness of privileges and exemptions. Thirdly. Heavy burthens of imposts, exactions and such like. Fourthly. Long continued war. Fifthly. The wreck of the Princess. Sixthly. The multitude of traders and fewness of boors and farm servants. Seventhly. Great scarcity in general. Eighthly and lastly. The insufferable arrogance of the natives and Indians, arising from the paucity of our numbers, etc., and having long waited in vain, though we have petitioned and sought for aid, redress and assistance from the Lords Directors, in the highest degree necessary for them and for us. We, therefore, unable to delay any longer, being reduced to the lowest ebb, have determined to fly for refuge to their High Mightinesses, our gracious Sovereigns, and the Fathers of this Province, most humbly praying and beseeching them to look with merciful eyes on this their Province, and that their High Mightinesses would be pleased to order and correct matters so that dangers may be removed, troubles terminated, and population and prosperity promoted, as their High Mightinesses in their renowned wisdom shall be determined, We, with humble reverence, only deeming it good and necessary to petition their High Mightinesses for the following points as of advantage for this Province:—

First. We supplicate and beseech their High Mightinesses to people New Netherland, so that it may support, sustain and defend itself against Indians and others who might trouble and invade it; for if this should fail, that country will not only fall into the uttermost ruin, but also become easily appropriated by our neighbors; and those who already dwell there will be forced to use all possible means to return, and save themselves from misery, or to submit to foreign Nations. All which, according to our humble understanding, is to be remedied.

1st. When their High Mightinesses shall be pleased to take this Province under their own gracious safeguard, and to allow their Fatherly affection for this Land to be promulgated and made manifest throughout the United Netherlands, by their own accorded privileges, many would, then, be attracted towards this country; whilst, on the contrary, every one is discouraged by the Company's harsh proceedings and want of means.

2d. Were their High Mightinesses pleased to equip some ships for a few years, for the free conveyance and transportation of people, principally boors and farm servants with their poverty hither, together with some necessary maintenance until the poor people had obtained something in esse, their High Mightinesses would not only relieve many incumbered men, but also expect from God, through their intercession, luck, blessing, and prosperity.

3d. If their High Mightinesses would please to order all vessels proceeding and trading towards these northern parts of America, to call first at the Manhattans in New Netherland, and bring with them as many persons as they can seasonably procure and conveniently carry, at suitably fixed rates, many proprietors would, no doubt, emigrate within a short time to New Netherland.

Secondly. We humbly solicit permanent privileges and exemptions which promote population and prosperity, and which, in our opinion, consist in—

1st. Suitable BURGHER government, such as their High Mightinesses shall consider adapted to this Province, and resembling somewhat the laudable government of our Fatherland.

2d. Freedom from duties, tenths and imposts, which, at the beginning, are useless and oppressive, until the country is peopled and somewhat firmly established.

3d. That the returns in Tobacco shipped hence, be free from all duties, which would not only afford great encouragement to the planters who convert the forest into farms, but be better also for their servants, who could thus be accommodated with all sorts of necessities.

4th. Also, permission to export, sell, and barter grain, timber work, and all other wares and merchandize, the produce of the country every way and everywhere their High Mightinesses have allies, and have granted to the Netherlanders the privilege of resort and trade.

5th. That their High Mightinesses would be pleased to accord privileges and freedoms for the encouragement of the inhabitants in favor of the fisheries, which many suppose were good and profitable heretofore, and would hereafter be of great consequence.

Thirdly. We humbly beseech their High Mightinesses to be pleased to determine, and so to establish and order the boundaries of this Province, that all causes of difference, disunion and trouble may be cut off and prevented; that their High Mightinesses' subjects may live and dwell in peace and quietness, and enjoy their liberty, as well in trade and commerce, as in intercourse and limits. 2d. That their High Mightinesses would be pleased to preserve us in peace with the neighboring Republicks, Colonies and others, their High Mightinesses' allies, so that we may pursue without let or hindrance, under proper regulations from their High Mightinesses, the trade of our country, as well along the coast from Terra Nova to Cape Florida, as to the West Indies and to Europe, whenever our Lord God shall be pleased to permit; and 3d. To make manifest to the incredulous their High Mightinesses' earnest support of this Province, we respectfully request that their H. M. would be pleased to quarter here a company or two of soldiers for the defence of those residing at a distance, and the establishment of New Plantations and Colonies, until, by our progress, we shall dread neither Indians or other enemies, but even shall be able to prevent their mischievous designs.

All this have we concluded with humble reverence to propose, according to our limited knowledge and understanding, earnestly supplicating their High Mightinesses, for the love of New Netherland, which now lies at its extremity, as is to be seen at length in our annexed Remonstrance, to be pleased to direct their attention thereto according to their wise and provident council, and to interpret most favorably this, our presumption.

We pray and hope that the name of New Netherland and the conversion of the Heathen, which ought to be hastened, shall move their H. M. hereunto. Expecting, therefore, a happy deliverance, we commend their H. M.'s persons and deliberations to the protection of the Almighty, and remain their H. M.'s humble and obedient servants. Written in the name and on the behalf of the Commonalty of New Netherland, the Six and Twentieth of July, in the Year of Our Lord Jesus Christ, One thousand Six hundred Nine & Forty, in New Amsterdam on the Island Manhattans in New Netherland.

Provisional Order

FOR THE GOVERNMENT, PRESERVATION AND PEOPLING OF NEW NETHERLAND, Anno. 1650. (Extract.)

(Holland Doc. V.)

Art. X. The request for freedoms and exemptions shall be more fully examined, together with the considerations moved thereupon.

XVII. And within the city of New Amsterdam shall be erected a BURGHER government, consisting of Sheriff, two Burgomasters and five Schepens.

XVIII. In the meanwhile shall the Nine men continue for three years longer, and have Jurisdiction over Small Causes arising between Man and Man, to decide definitely such as do not exceed the sum of Fifty Guilders, and on higher, with the privilege of appeal.

THE DIRECTORS OF THE WEST INDIA COMPANY.

To the Director and Council of New Netherland. Dated Amsterdam, the 4th April, 1652.

(Dutch Records, Letter Q., 1648—1664.)

" We have already connived as much as possible at the many impertinences of some restless spirits, in the hope that they might be shamed by our discreetness and benevolence; but perceiving that all kindnesses do not avail, we must, therefore, have recourse to God, to Nature and the Law. We accordingly hereby charge and command your Honors, whenever you shall certainly discover any Clandestine Meetings, Conventicles or machinations against our States' government or that of our country, that you proceed against such malignants in proportion to their crimes, with this precaution, however, that we in no wise require that any one should have it in his power to complain, with reason or cause, that he was injured through private malice, which is far from our intention.

"We remark in many Representations, though of Malversants that some hide themselves under this cloak, though we must believe and even see, that they have not, in reality, so suffered; yet, to stop the mouth of all the world, we have resolved, on your Honor's proposition, to permit you hereby to erect there a Court of Justice (een banck van Justitie), formed, as much as possible, after the custom of this city: to which end printed copies relative to all the Law Courts and their whole government are sent herewith. And we presume that it will be sufficient at first to choose one Sheriff, two Burgomasters and five Schepens, from all of whose judgments an appeal shall lie to the Supreme Council, where definitive judgments shall be decreed.

"In the election of the aforesaid persons every attention must be paid to honest and respectable individuals, who, we hope, can be found among the Burghers; and especially do we wish that those promoted thereto be, as much as possible, persons of this Nation, who, we suppose, will give the most satisfaction to the Burghers and Inhabitants."

Instruction for the Sheriff of New Amsterdam.

(Dutch Records; Letter V., 1652—1668.)

1. In the first place, the Sheriff shall, as the Director-General and Council's guardian of the law, in the district of the city of New Amsterdam, preserve, protect and maintain, to the best of his knowledge and ability, the præeminences and immunities of the privileged West India Company, in as far as these have been delegated by previous Instruction to the Board of Burgomasters and Schepens, without any dissimulation or regard for any private favor or displeasure.

2. In the quality aforesaid, he shall convoke the meetings of Burgomasters and Schepens, and preside thereat; also propose all matters which shall be brought there for deliberation, collect the votes, and resolve according to the plurality thereof.

3. He shall, ex-officio, prosecute all contraveners, defrauders, and transgressors of any placards, laws, statutes and ordinances, which are already made and published, or shall hereafter be enacted and made public, as far as those are amenable before the Court of Burgomasters and Schepens, and with this understanding, that, having entered his suit against the aforesaid Contraveners, he shall immediately rise, and await the judgment of Burgomasters and Schepens, who, being prepared, shall also, on his motion, pronounce the same.

4. And in order that he may well and regularly institute his complaint, the Sheriff, before entering his action or arresting any person, shall pertinently inform himself of the crime of which he shall accuse him, without his being empowered to arrest any one on the aforesaid information, unless the offence be committed in his presence.

5. He shall take all his informations in the presence of two members of the Board of Burgomasters and Schepens, if the case shall permit it, or otherwise in the presence of two discreet persons, who, with the Secretary or his deputy, shall sign the aforesaid informations.

6. Which aforesaid Secretary, with the Court Messenger, are expressly commanded to assist and be serving unto the Sheriff in whatever relates to their respective offices.

7. He shall take care in collecting and preparing informations to act impartially, and to bring the truth as clear and naked as possible to light, noting, to that end, all circumstances which in any way deserve consideration and appertain to the case.

8. Item. The aforesaid Sheriff, on learning or being informed that any persons have injured each other or quarrelled, shall have power to command the said individuals, either personally, or by the Court Messenger, or his deputy, to observe the peace, and to forbid them committing any assault, on pain of arbitrary correction, at the discretion of the Burgomasters and Schepens.

9. He shall not have power to compound with any person for their committed offences, except with the knowledge of the Burgomasters and Schepens.

10. He shall take care that all judgments pronounced by the Burgomasters and Schepens, and which are not appealed from, shall be executed conformably to the above mentioned Instruction given to the same, according to the style and custom of Fatherland, and especially the city of Amsterdam.

11. In like manner, that authentic copies of all the Judgments, Orders, Acts and Resolutions, to be adopted by the aforesaid Burgomasters and Schepens, shall be communicated once every year to the Director-General and Council of New Netherland.

12. And in case he receive any information or statement of any offences which, from their nature, or on account of the offending person, are not subject to his complaint, he shall be bound forthwith to communicate the same to the Fiscal (Attorney-General), without taking any information himself, much less arresting the offender, unless in actual aggression to prevent greater mischief, or hinder flight, in consequence of the enormity of the crime.

13. Which being done, he shall, as before, surrender, without any delay, the apprehended person, with the information taken, to the Fiscal, to be proceeded against by him in due form, as circumstances demand.

14. In order that the aforesaid Sheriff shall be the more encouraged hereunto, he shall enjoy, etc.

This must be fixed in the country yonder, with advice.

15. Should the Sheriff violate any of these Articles, he shall be prosecuted on the complaint of the Fiscal before the Director and Council, to be punished according to the nature of the case.

CLERKS OF THE CITY COUNCIL OF NEW YORK,

FROM 1653 TO 1835.

Jacob Kip, the first Clerk of the Court of Burgomasters and Schepens, was a son of one of the earliest settlers of New Amsterdam, who remained permanently in the city; this was Hendrick Hendrickson Kip, a tailor, who was the leading tradesman in that line of business in the times of the Dutch. Jacob Kip is believed to have been born in this city, where he received as good an education as the place would afford, under the tuition of Harmanus Van Hoboke, the town schoolmaster. Upon the organization of the city government, under the title of the Court of Burgomasters and Schepens, Jacob Kip, then a youth, was made Secretary of the Court. He, however, had other views as to his permanent business pursuits, and resigned his official position in 1658, after which period he engaged in the brewing business, then a very profitable pursuit. With this, he combined that of a general trader or store-keeper. He was Schepen of the city during several subsequent years. He married the widow of Guleyn Verplanck; his place of residence in the latter years of his life was in the present Broad street, near Exchange place. Nassau street, below Maiden lane, was once called Kip street, in compliment to the subject of this sketch, whose wife was one of the heirs of that farm.

Johannes Nevius succeeded Jacob Kip as Secretary of the Court of Burgomasters and Schepens in 1658. He had been a merchant of some years' standing in this city, but had not succeeded in business. He was a man of good education, and held several prominent public stations before his appointment to the office of Secretary. He held the office about eight years, or until the change of government, when his ignorance of the English language compelled his retirement. He resided subsequently at the ferry-landing on the Brooklyn side of the river. This gentleman has many descendants in the country.

Nicholas Bayard, was appointed Clerk of the Court of Mayor and Aldermen, under the English administration, in the year 1666. He was a relative of Governor Stuyvesant, and received an accomplished education. He kept the records in Dutch and English, and, it is probable, translated the debates in the Council, of which the members were partly English and partly Dutch. He remained in office several years, when he voluntarily retired, and engaged in the brewing business—his residence and brewery being on the north side of Stone street, near Hanover square. Mr. Bayard's subsequent history is a part of the history of his times, as he was one of the leading politicians of New York for many years. He died in 1711.

John West, a young Englishman, of good family and education, succeeded Mr. Bayard as Clerk, in the early part of the English ascendancy. The office of Clerk was at one period a profitable one from the court fees received, and Mr. West acquired a handsome estate. His widow married Lieut. Wharton in this city in 1694.

CORTLANDT HOUSE.

William Sharpas, was appointed Clerk of the Common Council in the year 1693, and held the office for forty-six years, and until his death, which occurred in the year 1739. Mr. Sharpas left but one child, a daughter, and thus the name of this old public official is lost at the present time. Mr. Sharpas, during his long continuance in office, acquired a respectable competency, and always commanded a high degree of respect for his integrity and worth. It is understood that he designed the illustration for the original Fireman's certificate, that department being organized while he was Clerk. The following is a copy of that illustration:

John Chambers, was appointed successor to Mr. Sharpas, on the 21st of November, 1739. The following entry is inserted in the Minutes of the Common Council, which is here transcribed, because of the complimentary record concerning the former Clerk: "Mr. John Chambers produced to this Board his Majesty's great seal of the Province, which was now read, appointing him Common Clerke and Clerke of the Peace, in the room of Mr. William Sharpas, deceased, (for whose loss this Corporation is truly concerned, he having, with great integrity, served them upwards of forty-six years.)"

Mr. Chambers was the first regularly licensed Attorney in this Province, who was a native of this city; he was admitted about the year 1727, and one of the first causes in which he was engaged was by retainer on the part of the Corporation to defend their rights in respect to the control of the gaol. He returned his retaining fee, and volunteered his services, for which he was complimented as "a zealous asserter of the rights and privileges of the Corporation," and presented with the freedom of the city. In 1731, he further distinguished himself by "his great care and diligence in aiding to procure the new Charter," and a vote of thanks was tendered him by the Corporation.

He was a member of the Common Council as Assistant Alderman of the West Ward (his residence being on the west side of Broadway, opposite the Bowling Green,) during the years 1729 to 1733, inclusive—and during his whole life was a prominent citizen. He resigned his position as Clerk in the year 1753, after fourteen years' service.

Augustus Van Cortland, succeeded Mr. Chambers as Clerk in 1753. He was also a lawyer by profession, having been admitted about the year 1751. He was a descendant of the old Burgomaster, Van Cortland, and became the owner of the lower Yonkers Estate—his venerable mansion still standing, a memorial of ancient times. Mr. Van Cortland held the office of Clerk until the Revolutionary war. To him we owe the preservation of the City Records, at the breaking out of the Revolution. The following letter, dated Sept. 5, 1775, exhibits his action in this respect:

"GENTS:—Being requested by the Provincial Congress to enquire for some place of safety to deposit the public records in, and inform the Committee of Safety thereof, agreeable to which Mr. Cortland informs the Committee of Safety that previous to the above request, he caused the public records to be put into chests, and secured them in a cellar in his garden, made for that purpose of stone and brick, well arched and exceedingly dry. This precaution was taken against accident happening by fire; should the city be invaded by an army from Great Britain or British troops, he, in such case, intended to remove them to his brother's at Yonkers, in the County of Westchester. If the Committee shall judge any other place more secure, Mr. Van Cortland will be glad to be informed thereof, that he may communicate the same to the Corporation of this city for their approbation.

" He remains their most obedient humble servant,

" AUGUSTUS VAN CORTLAND."

Mr Van Cortland died at an advanced age. His will is dated in 1823. The following is a view of his mansion at Yonkers, which is built of stone, and was erected in 1748 by a brother of Mr. Augustus Van Cortland.

After the Revolution, the County Clerk officiated as Clerk of the Common Council until the year 1807, during a great part of which period Robert Benson, a member of one of the old New York families, officiated as Clerk. Thomas Morris, a well-known citizen, was also Clerk during the latter portion of this period.

In 1807, upon the petition of the Common Council, an act of the Legislature was passed, giving to the Common Council the privilege of appointing their own Clerk; and, in the June of that year, they first acted upon that authority.

John Pintard, the first Clerk of the Common Council, (whose official title was City Inspector and Clerk of the Common Council,) was appointed in May, 1807; and in June of that year reported that he had received from Mr. Morris, the County Clerk, all the minutes of the Council, from the year 1675 to that time, comprehending seventeen volumes folio.

Mr. Pintard held office until April, 1809, when he resigned.

Jacob Morton, the successor of Mr. Pintard, was a prominent politician of that day, of the moderate federal school. He had been an Alderman, elected in the fall of 1803, and had, at subsequent periods, been an unsuccessful candidate for that office. In January, 1807, he was appointed City Comptroller, and in 1809, upon the resignation of Mr. Pintard, he was chosen Clerk by the following vote:

Jacob Morton.....	6 votes.
Samuel Russell.....	4 "
Blank.....	1 "

General Morton (by which title he was commonly known, from his military position during and subsequent to the last war, until the time of his death) held the office of Clerk to the Common Council, during the period of twenty-six years. He died of apoplexy, while still an incumbent of that office, in December, 1836, at an age exceeding eighty years. His family residence, still standing in State street, opposite the Battery, is here presented as an illustration of the best class of buildings half a century ago, and one of the few remaining residences of that character still to be found.

The following proceedings were had in the Board of Aldermen, on the occasion of the death of General Morton:

For D.T. Valentine's Manual, 1860

NOTE.—The writer of this article having been for some time Deputy Clerk of the Common Council, under General Morton, desires to bear his testimony to the estimable character, and the many virtues of his former venerable friend.

HISTORICAL MINUTES OF THE TIMES OF THE DUTCH.

THE Compiler, from time to time, as matters relating to old times, in any respect interesting, have come to his notice, has accustomed himself to make a minute of them for his own benefit, as well as that of any future historian. The following are taken from his memoranda concerning the city in the times of the Dutch. They are thrown together just as he happened to minute them down, but he trusts will prove none the less interesting on that account. Indeed, no attempt to place them in any other form, could prove satisfactory, without occupying more space than is afforded in the Manual.

MEMORANDA

BY THE LATE JOHN PINTARD, ESQ.

THE following is from the diary of the late John Pintard, Esq., who was prominently known throughout our city as one of the most useful and patriotic men of his day, and for which the compiler is indebted to Mr. Servoss, the son-in-law of the late Mr. Pintard:

Saturday, April 26, 1806.

At a special meeting of the Common Council:

The Mayor laid before the Common Council two affidavits respecting the atrocious conduct of the British in murdering John Pierce, one of our fellow-citizens, while on board the sloop "Richard," a coasting vessel, near Sandy Hook; and, also, in violating the jurisdictional rights of the United States.

AFFIDAVITS.

City of New York, ss:—Jesse Pierce, Master of the sloop "Richard," a coasting vessel of Brandywine (Pennsylvania), being duly sworn, deposes and says:

That as he was approaching Sandy Hook, and was about a quarter of a mile from the beach, and two miles south from the lighthouse, in the said vessel, yesterday evening, about five o'clock, two shots were fired, at different times, from a large British ship of war, with two tiers of guns, supposed to be the "Leander;" that one of the said shots struck about forty yards ahead of the said vessel, and the other went nearly over her; upon which the deponent rounded to his vessel, and about five minutes after another shot was fired from the said ship, and struck the taffrel rail and quarter rail, and killed, immediately, a man at the helm, named John Pierce, brother of the deponent, and who was a hand on board his vessel. That the deponent cannot accurately determine the distance of the said sloop from the "Leander," but he conjectures it be above a mile; that the deponent then continued his course, and entered the Hook, without any further molestation.

DEWITT CLINTON.

Hezekiah Pratt, Master of the brig "Sally," of this port, deposes: That as he was approaching the said port from St. Thomas, yesterday evening, and within twenty rods distant from the within-mentioned sloop, he observed the facts stated in the within affidavit of Capt. Pierce, and that, to the best of his knowledge and belief, they are true, except the killing of the man, of which this deponent has no personal knowledge. That there were at that time three ships of war in the offing, and that the one mentioned in the within affidavit (viz: Jesse Pierce's) was a two-decker, and the largest; that all the said vessels of war fired at the deponent's vessel when he was about a quarter of a mile from the shore, and after the within-mentioned death is said to have occurred; that about twenty sail of vessels were coming into port at the same time, and that upwards of a hundred shot were fired at the said vessels by the said ships of war.

WORKS AT MC GOWAN'S PASS, N.Y.

Therefore, Resolved, That in testimony of the lively indignation which this Board feels respecting the atrocious murder of a citizen of the United States, and this daring aggression upon our natural rights; that the said John Pierce be interred, with the assent of his relatives, at the public expense, on Monday next, at 12 o'clock; that Aldermen Fairlie and Mott, and Mr. John D. Miller, be a committee to make the necessary arrangements on this occasion; that this Board will attend the funeral in a body; that all the captains of American vessels in the harbor be requested to hoist their colors half-mast, on that day, and that the bells be tolled during the solemnity, and that our fellow-citizens generally be invited to unite with us on this melancholy occasion.

The Mayor having informed the Common Council that he had immediately communicated to the President of the United States a statement of the improper conduct of the British ships of war off our port:

Resolved, That the Board approve of the Mayor's prompt attention to the interests of our city, and that he be requested to obtain such further information as may be practicable, respecting illegal captures, impressments and detentions off our port by the said ships of war, and to transmit the same to the national executive, in full confidence that proper measures will be adopted for the vindication of our national honor and interests.

By the Common Council,

T. WORTMAN, Clerk.

Some debate arose on the resolutions respecting the funeral of Pierce. Alderman Mott had obtained from Jesse Pierce an order that the body should be at the disposal of the Corporation, upon which the meeting of the Common Council was summoned; in the interim, a number of Federalists called upon the consignee of Pierce, and obtained from Pierce a counter order for the body, which they removed to the house of Charles Gardner (porter-house), Fair street. Mr. Hopkins, Assistant of the Second ward, in debate on the resolution, suggested that a public funeral might not be agreeable to Captain Pierce. It appeared that he wished to obstruct the intentions of the Common Council in order to favor the designs of the Federalists, to inter the body at their expense, in order to gain popularity at the pending election; this manœuvre was defeated. Mr. H. moved an intemperate resolution, or rather in an intemperate manner, that the Common Council speedily represent to the General Government, and the respective states, the unprotected condition of our harbor, and the neglect of administration in not fortifying the same. This declamation, intended for electioneering purposes, only served to irritate the Republican majority of the Board, who, however, all concurred in the necessity of fortifying our harbor and appealing to Government for assistance.

As soon as the Common Council adjourned, I attended Aldermen Fairlie, Mott and J. D. Miller to Capt. Pierce, for the purpose of making arrangements for the funeral of his unfortunate brother. He had, it seems, given an order to Mr. Gardner, where the body was, not to let it be removed without his direction; this order had been obtained by the Federalists. He was embarrassed how to act. We called with him upon his consignee for advice, who declined giving any, and who in fact was committed to the Federalists; he recommended Capt.

P., however, to use his own discretion. On this, we proceeded to the Alms-house, but met with some embarrassment in the street from some Federalists, who wished to prevent Captain P. changing his order in their favor. Finally, however, Capt. P. at the Alms, persuaded that more respect would be paid to his brother by public authority, than individuals, gave an order to Mr. Gardner to deliver the corpse to the Committee. This order Gardner endeavored to elude, but at a late hour, during a thunder storm, near midnight, the body was removed to the Common Council Chamber, City Hall.

April 27.

On Sunday the Committee met, and I attended them in preparing the following arrangement for publication:

Funeral Procession of John Pierce,

Who was murdered by a shot from the British ship of war "Leander," Henry Whitby, Commander, within a quarter of a mile of Sandy Hook, on Friday, 5 o'clock P.M., 25th instant.

The Committee appointed by the Common Council to superintend the funeral of John Pierce have concluded on the following arrangement:

The masters of American vessels in port are requested to display their flags, half-mast, from sunrise till sunset.

The funeral procession to move from the City Hall, precisely at 12 o'clock; the bells of all the churches to be tolled until the arrival of the corpse at St. Paul's Church,* the place of interment.

* He was buried in St. Paul's Cemetery, at the special request of his brother, Capt. Pierce.

The Rev. Clergy are respectfully requested to attend at the Common Council Chamber, City Hall, at 11 o'clock A.M.; and our fellow-citizens are generally invited to assemble in front of the City Hall, at the same hour.

City Hall, April 28, 1806.

The following inscription was engraved on a silver plate, and fixed on the coffin, covered with black cloth:

JOHN PIERCE,
A Citizen of the United States,
And a Native of the State of Delaware;
Murdered by a shot from the British ship-of-war Leander,
HENRY WHITBY, Commander,
Within a quarter of a mile of Sandy Hook,
Friday, 5 o'clock P.M., April 25th, 1806,
Aged 27 years.

MONDAY, April 28th.

The Common Council assembled at 11 o'clock, to attend the funeral of John Pierce, when the following memorial was read, approved, and directed to be forwarded instantly:

TO THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES:

The memorial of the Mayor, Aldermen and Commonalty of the city of New York, respectfully sheweth: That your memorialists repose full confidence in the wisdom and patriotism of the present administration of the United States. They are sensible that the general government is disposed to afford sufficient and adequate protection to every portion of the Union.

A melancholy event has taken place. This day consigns to the grave the remains of John Pierce, a fellow-citizen, inhumanly and wantonly murdered by the British. Our port is blockaded, our vessels intercepted, our seamen impressed, our commerce interrupted, and our jurisdictional rights most grossly violated. A British squadron is now before our harbor, evincing a disposition to renew its outrages, and to perpetrate additional enormities; we, therefore, respectfully request that a naval force may be immediately stationed at this port, and that three or more American frigates may, without delay, be sent for our protection.

DE WITT CLINTON.

By order of Common Council.

T. WORTMAN, City Clerk.

The funeral procession moved from the City Hall in the order prescribed by the Committee, a quarter past 12, and the funeral rites were performed at the grave by the Right Rev. Bishop Moore; the clergy of all denominations attended. The whole ceremony concluded precisely a quarter past 1, in one hour. The vast concourse of citizens present in the procession, by computation, amounted to about 4,000 persons, and the spectators to at least 6,000. So that the concourse was ten thousand in the streets, besides the numerous spectators who filled every window along the whole distance. The multitude dispersed, and by half-past two the streets were as quiet as though nothing had occurred.

Thus ended a ceremony without riot or confusion, which from the intrigues of both parties to favor electioneering purposes, was at one period greatly dreaded.

One circumstance more remains to be noticed:

A quantity of beef and other supplies, which was going down to the British ships on Saturday, was pursued by Capt. Half and a number of spirited citizens, who overtook the same at the Narrows, and brought it back to this city in triumph, and conveyed it to the Alms-house. All classes of citizens concur in this measure, and the propriety of cutting off the supplies from the British cruisers.

TUESDAY, April 29.

The election for members of Congress, Senators and Assembly begins this day, and will be warmly contested by both parties; the probability is in favor of the Republican ticket.

A Liberty Pole is erected in Broadway, at the corner of Warren street, with a British Jack Union reversed, under the American ensign. This is not correct, but shows the temper of the moment; Federalists and Tories are classed as the same by the Republicans, who, on the other hand, are reproached for the imbecility and pusillanimity of the general administration.

REVERIE OF A SOLITAIRE ;

OR, A PISGAH'S VIEW OF THE BAY OF NEW YORK AND ITS ENVIRONS, HALF A CENTURY HENCE.

Written by John Pintard in 1823.

FOURTEEN years after the completion of the Grand Canal, and the union of the lakes with the Hudson, the population of the city of New York will be doubled, arising from the natural increase of its present inhabitants, and the influx of adventurers attracted by the augmenting resources flowing towards this commercial emporium, from the immense regions of the West, and both sides of the Atlantic Ocean.

This is no fond, delusive anticipation. Allowing the population in 1840 to be doubled, and amounting to 260,000, in 1861, by natural progress, it will be 520,000; in 1875 the aggregate will surpass 800,000 souls; and before the close of the century the population of this city will equal, if not outvie London, the most populous metropolis of Europe, and excel in numbers, New Orleans possibly only excepted, any city in the New World.

Impressed with the truth of these computations, the writer, as he recently wended his solitary way along the parapet of Castle Clinton, could not but regard the "Times Telegraph"—the extensive improvement around the circuit of the Bay of New York—along the margin of the New Jersey, Staten Island, and Long Island shores; studded with villas, decorated and embellished in a thousand different styles, corresponding with the chaste taste of the classic owner, or the gaudy, fantastic caprice of the wealthy citizen, approached at stated hours and convenient landings by numerous steamboats, gliding over the surface of the waters in the fanciful shape of dolphins, tritons and river gods, recalling the never-wearying forms and scenes of the heathen mythology.

In these rural retreats, the enterprising merchant—the calculating speculator—the industrious mechanic—the plodding clerk—the contentious civilian—the studious divine—the angry polemic—the hackneyed editor—the weeping and the laughing philosopher—the recluse student—the coy amaryllis—the fluttering fop—the love-stricken damsel—the desponding lover—the blooming bride—the enchanted groom—the buxom widow—the gay widower—the maiden all-forlorn—the fusty bachelor—the roisterer—the precise prig—rosy youth—decrepid age—the declining valitudinarian, and the attending physician: all fleeing from the busy hum of men, and the dense atmosphere of an over-grown, bustling metropolis, whose streets, thronged with multitudes, encumbered with bales and packages, and annoyed with the whirl of carriages and rattling drays, thundering over the pavements like the Car of Jove, shake the foundation and the walls of the lofty houses like a Peruvian earthquake, will enjoy a seclusion as sequestered as the Western wilds, with the advantages of elegant social intercourses, when so disposed, and inhale health and vigor, inspired by every inland balmy breeze, and refreshed with every gale wafted across the bosom of the wide Atlantic. The delightful panorama will be diversified by every embellishment that art can give to nature, with the endless, ever-changing scenes of an immense coasting and sea navigation, growing with our growth, and fraught with every comfort and luxury that sustain and gladden life.

The magic impression on the mind of the traveler on his arrival from sea, by the first coup de view of this expansive bay and its picturesque scenery—the unrivalled Battery promenade, an immense city, whose “turrets sparkle in the sky”—the extended wharves, crowded with shipping; above all, the majestic Hudson, traversed in a thousand directions by water-craft and steamboats, may be more easily imagined than described.

Citizens of New York, who will not exclaim that “our lines are fallen in pleasant places!” May a moderate fruition of the inestimable privileges, civil and religious, that are your enviable lot, render you deserving of the perpetuation of Heaven’s choicest blessings!

A SOLITAIRE.

A LARGE ANCIENT BUILDING,

AT THE CORNER OF CHATHAM AND DOYER STREETS (ENTRANCE OF THE BOWERY LANE) PULLED DOWN.

May 4, 1806.

THIS house has outlasted its century; it was built by a Dominie Dereimer, who owned seventy acres of ground in front, bounding on the East river. At his death, the executor sold the said seventy acres to the father and uncle of the present Col. Henry Rutgers. Their father remonstrated with the executor on the exorbitancy of the price, eleven hundred pounds, that he had meadow ground and had pasture enough, and that his sons were duped. The executor, not wishing to disoblige the old gentleman, took back the land, which was afterwards sold at public auction, and bought by Mr. Delancey for £1,400; and was part of his estate confiscated in consequence of his adhering to the British Government during the American Revolution. The heirs of Dereimer, after the peace, endeavored to recover the land, setting up as a claim that the executor had no power to sell—they failed, however. The property of Dr. Romaine, before leased to Anthony Vandam, by Mr. Delancey, was involved in this suit, which the doctor defended, having purchased the feesimple from the Commissioners of Confiscated Property, Mr. Isaac Stoutenburgh, and Gen. Phillip Van Cortland, for the southern district of this state. The following anecdote, which fixes the date of the building to 1691, I had from Dr. Romaine, who received it from Colonel Rutgers:—That at the execution of Leisler, the Sheriff could obtain no ladder in the city from any carpenter, and was obliged to come out to this building to procure one for the purpose. Col. Rutgers received this tradition from his father.

REMINISCENCE.

THE following reminiscence is from the diary of the late venerable John Turner, who, with the late Mr. John Lang, conducted the New York Gazette successfully for so many years, under the firm of Lang & Turner.

Jonas Addoms was the maternal uncle of John Turner, and it was from him the statement was received, as follows:

“SUNDAY, Feb. 25, 1835.

“JONAS ADDOMS.

“During a conversation this day with Mr. Addoms, he informed me that he was born on the 26th of March, 1753. At the commencement of the Revolutionary war, in 1776, Capt. A. was residing in the city of New York, and served in the militia at that period, in what was called the five months' men. His term of office expired immediately before the British army crossed from Long Island, and took possession of the city. He then retired to New Jersey, and was employed in the quarter-master's department, under Col. Pickering, who was the Commissary-General. He then acted as a volunteer, and distinguished himself at the battle of Germantown. Afterwards he was appointed a lieutenant in Col. Lamb's regiment of New York State Artillery, in which regiment he served during the whole of the remainder of the war. When the city of New York was evacuated by the British in Nov., 1783, his regiment, with other troops, marched in, and took possession. He had the honor to command the detachment which fired the salute of thirteen guns from a six-pounder on the old Fort St. George at the Battery.

“He also said that my father, during the Revolutionary war, sailed from Philadelphia as sailing-master in a fine new frigate, which was captured by the British, and sent into New York about 1781. He was imprisoned in the Jersey prison-ship; a short time afterwards, he was transferred to the Provost, now the Hall of Records, where he contracted the prison fever; by the influence of powerful friends, he was released, but died in about six weeks afterwards.

“Mr. John Turner married the niece of the late Col. Brooks, a distinguished officer of the Revolutionary army, by whom he had seven sons, the eldest of which is the only survivor.”
